"The Second Division was formed with the Fifth and Sixth Marines, Ninth and Twenty-third Infantry, Twelfth, Fifteenth, Seventeenth Field Artillery, the Second Engineers, Second Ammunition Train, the Second Quartermaster and Motor Supply and went to Verdun, Toul-Troyon sector which was a quiet one at the time, to relieve the veteran French troops for service elsewhere. We were in this sector from March 15 to May 19, 1918 and showed their ability to such an extent that when French troops for service elsewhere We were in this sector from March 15 to May 19, 1918 and showed their ability to such an extent that when they were relieved to put other American troops in their place for training, we went in reserve behind the English, who were there receiving the onslaught of the Germans on the Somme. It was at this time that the Germans opened their drive at Chateau Thierry for Paris and General Foch being very much in need of troops and having nothing in reserve but the Second American troops were as good, if not better, than any other nation in this great war. It was here that the Second Division, they were taken by motor trucks and train to Chateau Thierry to stop the Boche drive and to prove to the world that the American troops were as good, if not better, than any other nation in this great war. It was here that the Second Division not only stopped the German drive but drove them back across the Marne. It was while the people back in the States were reading in the paper about the Americans and that the Marine and Ninth and Twenty-third Infantry were doing such wonderful work, backed by the Twelfth, Fifteenth and Seventeenth Field Artillery. We were fighting continuously for seventy-two hours without any sleep or anything to eat. After the battle cleared the French hailed the Second Division as the saviors of Paris.

The Second Division came out far ahead of many other divisions by taking more prisoners, machine guns, light and heavy artillery and war material. After the armistice was signed and it was decided to send an American Army to the Rhine, the Third Army Corps was picked.

"We are now all wearing our insigna, the star with an Indian head on it, to distinguish us from other divisions. This is a small history of the division. We arrived in France January 19, 1918, and have been going some clip ever since. My regiment has taken a great part in all the battles the Americans have been in. I am only too glad we could come across to help the French and show the world what we could do, but hate to stay over here now that it is over. I couldn't mention all the small incidents in my travels that makes a war both glorious and hell."

Telling How 5000 Stylish New Waists Were Purchased At An Advantage

This is how it all came about:

We planned for a big waist sale weeks ago. Of course, we didn't expect a waist makers' strike in New York!

I But the strike came, just the same, and is still

We got our New York office "on the wire" and told them to scour New York for good waists; told them we planned the sale and were going through with it. When Kaufman's plans a sale, it's a pretty sure thing, we're going to have it.

So our buyer went to New York and worked in conjunction with our New York office.

¶ He was determined to get waists for the big event because it was planned and he was not going to be outdone in his efforts to accomplish his aim.

I So he and our New York representative started in the morning and visited every waist manufacturer they had in view.

It is a pretty big job to go all over New York City to hunt up merchandise, and most disconcerting when the market is all tied up with a strike.

Many of the manufacturers had incomplete orders on hand and were willing to sell them to us rather than wait for conditions to be adjusted to complete the orders.

¶ No good manufacturer likes to ship incomplete orders. But most of them were glad to dispose of them in a quick transac-

Our buyer bought waists from twenty different manufacturers, and this is what the entire purchase amounted to:

1,200 Fine Cotton Waists 500 Jap Silk Waists 1,500 Crepe de Chine Waists 2,000 Charming Georgette Waists

And just to think of it, in every color of the rainbow, in every new and fashionable tone and every model that is right up to the minute.

Now you have the story
