

MILLIONS FOR RURAL WORK

Methodist Centenary Will Provide $11,000,000 For Community Service

New York, March 15.—Community of the United States is coming into a windfall of nearly $11,000,000 as a result of the Centenary Movement of the Methodist Episcopal Church to raise $120,000,000 for building hospitals, orphanages, churches, community centers, parsonages, etc., all over the world.

Certain designated sums have been set aside for the different phases of American rural work including the "frontier territory" from the Rocky Mountains to the Pacific coast, the better agricultural section of the country reaching from the North Atlantic States to the Rocky Mountains and the more sparsely settled regions embraced in that territory as well as in the South, the rural industrial communities, the "mountain white" districts of the South and the rural negro sections of the country.

This money is to be spent in providing adequate building and equipment and leadership in rural community service. Other denominations are embarking on similar projects.

grams and a working arrangement has been reached among the churches making up the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America whereby the territory is divided up into the denominations so that there will be as little duplication of work as possible.

Nearly 1,500 definite, separate projects are included in the rural community program. In addition, new churches, parsonages and community centers and remodeling of old and inadequate buildings. As its recent conference the Church and Country Life Commission of the Federal Council of Churches at Atlantic City, a resolution was passed urging the various organizations interested in rural community work to make the church the center of such activities, as in hundreds of communities it is recognized as the agency best qualified in equipment and leadership to house and direct community service projects.

The resolution has special reference to the plans to provide some form of Liberty Hut as a memorial to the soldiers. The conference deemed the best position to be taken to provide adequate, responsible control for such huts, but recognized that the democratic principle of local autonomy should prevail in determining local programs and the agency for putting it into effect.

What's Best for a Cold? QUININE? NO!!

For Colds, Grippe or Influenzal Colds and all their tormenting symptoms, adults can take one or two genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" anytime. If necessary, repeat dose three times a day, after meals.

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" are far more efficient than quinine in ridding the system of colds, and the relief comes without discomfort or distress.

"Bayer Cross" on genuine Tablets. Buy only "Bayer" packages.

ASPIRIN

Original world-famous tablets. 20 cent package—Larger sizes!

Ask for and insist upon "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin."

American Owned—Entirely!

Star Carpet Cleaning Works

Let Us Clean Your Carpets NOW General Upholstering

Expert Work Guaranteed GIVE US A TRIAL

Joseph Coplinky

Eleventh and Walnut Streets HARRISBURG, PA. Bell 398-R

S. RIFKIN CLOTHING, SHOES AND FURNITURE

HIGHEST CASH PRICES PAID

407 Broad Street Harrisburg, Pa. Bell Phone 3370-J

Fat Three ways to reduce your weight

Particulars mailed free to any address, Hall Chem. Co. Dept. B-50 St. Louis, Mo.

This May Happen to You

On the evening of December 17th, 1918, Kendrick E. Morgan, a prominent attorney and business man of Chicago, was injured by an automobile in his home city from which he died a few hours later.

Mr. Morgan had gone for a walk and was on his way home when the accident occurred.

Always a believer in insurance Mr. Morgan ten years ago purchased an accident policy in the

The Private Life of the Kaiser

FROM THE PAPERS AND DIARIES OF THE BARONESS VON LARISCH-REDDERN

The Kaiser and Kaiserin's Late Major Domo, Chief of the Royal Household at Berlin and Potsdam.

Baroness von Larisch-Reddern is the TRUE name of the Berlin Court Lady who gave the story of the Kaiser to Henry William Fisher, Ursula, Countess von Eppinghoven being a non de guerre, heretofore used to shield her.

Thompson Feature Service, 1919, Copyright

[Continued from Yesterday.]

Next day the Princess was carried off to Weerlitz by order of her brother, who had been informed of her precarious condition.

"I tremble lest the world may condemn me," the Kaiser said to me a few days afterward—"you, my dear, in sores need of a mother's care, and I seemingly enjoying myself at this very jolly Court. But what could I do? His Majesty would not offer me a bed at your present home, though, I understand, one hundred and fifty of the chambers in the Staat Schloss are unoccupied."

Kaiser "Too Poor" to Be Decent

Such brutality seems almost incredible, but Marshal Eulenburger offered a very lucid explanation of Her Royal Highness had been lodged at the Staat Schloss, it would have been necessary to give accommodations to her maid of honor and to two or three maids at the very least. That," said the Count, "means the feeding of four or five persons, which we could ill afford."

Duchess Calma, the best-looking of the four Augustenburg sisters, a very pretty woman with large blue eyes, a marvelously fine complexion of pink and white, and luxurious blonde hair, often stayed with us during the Kaiser's long absences, and was kind and approachable, but painfully embarrassed with strangers. She had very little education, and was not naturally bright. The same may be said of her husband, Duke Frederick, who was really little more than a good-natured dunce, subject to fits of disagreeableness.

To exemplify the penny pinching prevailing in the ducal household, I need but mention that when His Highness was invited to fetch away his wife and little girls, he sent his regrets, excusing himself with having nothing to wear.

Trouser-less Duke

"The Kaiser's order, that all visiting Princes must appear in uniform," he wrote, "makes it impossible for me to comply with your gracious request. My uniform coat and attilla are still in good condition, but my breeches are sadly in need of new silver braid, and I cannot afford to have them done up this year."

Starved Royal Highnesses

The couple had four lovely children, only a little too ethereal were these thin-limbed, narrow-chested youngsters. I have often heard them crying with hunger in the nursery.

There is a rumor that Her Royal Highness and the Duchess about it.

"Ah," said Her Highness, "they get more than at home. I leave it entirely to their governess. When I remonstrate with her about under-feeding my little girls, she makes answer, 'I want them to be fine and English looking, just like the German children. Those are detestable!'"

So this senseless mother, who mistrusted her own judgment in all things, allowed her poor youngsters to be half starved, and a splendid governess might have her way. To see these little Highnesses stealthily munch bread and sausage, the gift of good-hearted chamber-women and lackeys—for they begged food of every one they caught hold of,—was one of the parodies on royalty encountered in the German Emperor's palace.

The pretty youngsters with the thin legs and hungry eyes appealed to every one's sympathy, save that of their stupid mother and the Kaiser, but as they were not his children, William wouldn't say the word that would have brought instant relief to the poor youngsters. What was it to him whether, or not, one or more of his poor relations died, or was doomed to consumption?

A royal person of ten-mentioned in these memoirs is the Duke of Schleswig.

Misfortune attended, for many years, the Kaiserin's efforts to get her brother settled. She dearly loved this good hearted but wild boy whose sins against propriety she shielded more than once with her own royal person when Gunther held forth in the Palace Pourtales and the air was thick with rumors of orgies held at that doubtful establishment.

At such times Her Majesty used to invite herself to breakfast at Gunther's, and the announcement, duly published in the newspapers, had a tendency to stop the tongues of irreverent babblers. Surely, Her Majesty would not visit a house where dancing girls were served for dessert on shell platters, swimming in Cologne water, and where champagne was drunk out of sippers!

Finally, Gunther engaged himself to the only daughter of Philip of Coburg, Princess Dorothea, then a little over fifteen years of age. "She looked like a school miss, so innocent and pitiful," reported Baron Windheim to Her Majesty. He had seen this young lady at a dinner given in her and Duke Gunther's honor by our Paris Ambassador. Others who attended the banquet say the Jewish blood of the Kohary is perceptible in her features, and to no great advantage, either.

While Count Munster's guests were listening to a concert, Princess Dorothea was rolling on the floor with a couple of big hounds.

The Kings Hated William

Meanwhile William's unpopularity with his royal brethren was on the increase. At the English Court, it is true, he was tolerated as the "grand-son of Queen Victoria," but the English public revelled in King Edward's dictum: that William was not and could never be a gentleman, or even imitate one.

Hence his aversion to King George, as displayed during the war, and the cruelty of his air raids on London and English watering places, that had so often greeted and entertained him.

Russia mistrusted William. The reasons were obvious, but the Kaiser refused to see them. In the early months of 1914, accordingly, he was forever talking of "punishing Nicky."

He could have saved "Nicky's" life and that of the Czarina and her children, but because he was not on friendly terms with them, he let them be thrown into the melting pot of his blood thirst.

Italy had small reason for loving William. Therefore, "off with his head, so much for Victor." Victor was to be discarded, but the Pope was to be checked also!

Politics aside, William courted the displeasure of his royal colleagues,

The Private Life of the Kaiser

FROM THE PAPERS AND DIARIES OF THE BARONESS VON LARISCH-REDDERN

The Kaiser and Kaiserin's Late Major Domo, Chief of the Royal Household at Berlin and Potsdam.

Baroness von Larisch-Reddern is the TRUE name of the Berlin Court Lady who gave the story of the Kaiser to Henry William Fisher, Ursula, Countess von Eppinghoven being a non de guerre, heretofore used to shield her.

Thompson Feature Service, 1919, Copyright

[Continued from Yesterday.]

Next day the Princess was carried off to Weerlitz by order of her brother, who had been informed of her precarious condition.

"I tremble lest the world may condemn me," the Kaiser said to me a few days afterward—"you, my dear, in sores need of a mother's care, and I seemingly enjoying myself at this very jolly Court. But what could I do? His Majesty would not offer me a bed at your present home, though, I understand, one hundred and fifty of the chambers in the Staat Schloss are unoccupied."

Kaiser "Too Poor" to Be Decent

Such brutality seems almost incredible, but Marshal Eulenburger offered a very lucid explanation of Her Royal Highness had been lodged at the Staat Schloss, it would have been necessary to give accommodations to her maid of honor and to two or three maids at the very least. That," said the Count, "means the feeding of four or five persons, which we could ill afford."

Duchess Calma, the best-looking of the four Augustenburg sisters, a very pretty woman with large blue eyes, a marvelously fine complexion of pink and white, and luxurious blonde hair, often stayed with us during the Kaiser's long absences, and was kind and approachable, but painfully embarrassed with strangers. She had very little education, and was not naturally bright. The same may be said of her husband, Duke Frederick, who was really little more than a good-natured dunce, subject to fits of disagreeableness.

To exemplify the penny pinching prevailing in the ducal household, I need but mention that when His Highness was invited to fetch away his wife and little girls, he sent his regrets, excusing himself with having nothing to wear.

Trouser-less Duke

"The Kaiser's order, that all visiting Princes must appear in uniform," he wrote, "makes it impossible for me to comply with your gracious request. My uniform coat and attilla are still in good condition, but my breeches are sadly in need of new silver braid, and I cannot afford to have them done up this year."

Starved Royal Highnesses

The couple had four lovely children, only a little too ethereal were these thin-limbed, narrow-chested youngsters. I have often heard them crying with hunger in the nursery.

There is a rumor that Her Royal Highness and the Duchess about it.

"Ah," said Her Highness, "they get more than at home. I leave it entirely to their governess. When I remonstrate with her about under-feeding my little girls, she makes answer, 'I want them to be fine and English looking, just like the German children. Those are detestable!'"

So this senseless mother, who mistrusted her own judgment in all things, allowed her poor youngsters to be half starved, and a splendid governess might have her way. To see these little Highnesses stealthily munch bread and sausage, the gift of good-hearted chamber-women and lackeys—for they begged food of every one they caught hold of,—was one of the parodies on royalty encountered in the German Emperor's palace.

The pretty youngsters with the thin legs and hungry eyes appealed to every one's sympathy, save that of their stupid mother and the Kaiser, but as they were not his children, William wouldn't say the word that would have brought instant relief to the poor youngsters. What was it to him whether, or not, one or more of his poor relations died, or was doomed to consumption?

A royal person of ten-mentioned in these memoirs is the Duke of Schleswig.

Misfortune attended, for many years, the Kaiserin's efforts to get her brother settled. She dearly loved this good hearted but wild boy whose sins against propriety she shielded more than once with her own royal person when Gunther held forth in the Palace Pourtales and the air was thick with rumors of orgies held at that doubtful establishment.

At such times Her Majesty used to invite herself to breakfast at Gunther's, and the announcement, duly published in the newspapers, had a tendency to stop the tongues of irreverent babblers. Surely, Her Majesty would not visit a house where dancing girls were served for dessert on shell platters, swimming in Cologne water, and where champagne was drunk out of sippers!

Finally, Gunther engaged himself to the only daughter of Philip of Coburg, Princess Dorothea, then a little over fifteen years of age. "She looked like a school miss, so innocent and pitiful," reported Baron Windheim to Her Majesty. He had seen this young lady at a dinner given in her and Duke Gunther's honor by our Paris Ambassador. Others who attended the banquet say the Jewish blood of the Kohary is perceptible in her features, and to no great advantage, either.

While Count Munster's guests were listening to a concert, Princess Dorothea was rolling on the floor with a couple of big hounds.

The Kings Hated William

Meanwhile William's unpopularity with his royal brethren was on the increase. At the English Court, it is true, he was tolerated as the "grand-son of Queen Victoria," but the English public revelled in King Edward's dictum: that William was not and could never be a gentleman, or even imitate one.

Hence his aversion to King George, as displayed during the war, and the cruelty of his air raids on London and English watering places, that had so often greeted and entertained him.

Russia mistrusted William. The reasons were obvious, but the Kaiser refused to see them. In the early months of 1914, accordingly, he was forever talking of "punishing Nicky."

He could have saved "Nicky's" life and that of the Czarina and her children, but because he was not on friendly terms with them, he let them be thrown into the melting pot of his blood thirst.

Italy had small reason for loving William. Therefore, "off with his head, so much for Victor." Victor was to be discarded, but the Pope was to be checked also!

Politics aside, William courted the displeasure of his royal colleagues,

Miss Sarah Kipp Hostess For Millerstown Club

Millerstown, Pa., March 15.—Miss Sarah Kipp was the hostess for the Crochet Club, Tuesday evening at her home on Main Street—Miss Esther Hetrick who has been in Alabama for some time is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hetrick.

—Mrs. Edward Morrow and son, Lee, visited her parents; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Steele, at Newport.—The Girl Scouts hiked to the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

—Miss Thompson, Lewis Uih and Lodge at Thompsonstown, on Monday evening.—Mrs. John Hetrick was called to Duncannon on Tuesday, by the illness of her sister, Mrs. John Kennedy.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Troutman of Altoona, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Rumberger.

—Harry Branan spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Mary Rowley, at the home of Mrs. Edna Summers on Monday evening, where they were entertained by Mrs. T. V. Diefenderfer and children visited the dentist at Newport, Saturday.

Auto Show Opens This Evening

BELL 1991—2354 UNITED

HARRISBURG, SATURDAY, MARCH 15, 1919.

FOUNDED 1874

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Auto Show Opens This Evening

Challenges Hays to Put Republicans on Record

New York, March 15.—A challenge to Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, to place his party on record with respect to the League of Nations, was issued here last night by Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, in an address at a dinner in his honor at the National Democratic Club.

Other speakers included Joseph Daniels, secretary of the navy; Carter Glass, secretary of the treasury, and Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York.

"I had hoped, and I still hope," said Mr. Cummings, "that this great League of Nations project will not become a partisan question. Is there any reason why Mr. Hays should not place his party upon record in this matter, so that the League of Nations may have the support of both political parties and of all forward looking citizens generally?"

Leviathan to Carry 15,000 Persons Soon

New York, March 15.—Increase of the troop carrying capacity of the giant transport Leviathan by approximately 2,500, so that the ship will include crew, more than 15,000 persons, is contemplated by the Navy Department.

The plans it is said, are declared feasible by a board of army and navy officers after the arrival here of the ship on her last voyage.

The increased facilities will be obtained, it is said, by utilizing space devoted to the promenade deck and to the huge swimming pool which was the pride of the great vessel when she was in the American mercantile service as the Venterland.

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, put a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.

Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of the chest, croup, influenza, pneumonia. It is always dependable.

30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, put a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.

Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of the chest, croup, influenza, pneumonia. It is always dependable.

30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, put a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.