

ANNIVERSARY OF EMERGENCY AID

Camp Hill Workers to Celebrate Second Birthday With Dinner in the Penn-Harris

The Camp Hill Emergency Aid, possibly the most flourishing department of their Civic Club, of which Mrs. L. H. Dennis is president, will celebrate its second anniversary Saturday evening, March 22, with a dinner at 7 o'clock in the Penn-Harris.

The Aid, organized March 22, 1917, as a department of the Civic Club during the presidency of Mrs. James Millhouse, with Mrs. Anne Wallace LaDorus as organizer, Mrs. Carl K. Deen was appointed chairman of surgical dressings and Mrs. William R. W. Pound, chairman of the knitting department. Mrs. George Cook is treasurer.

Thousands of surgical dressings, hundreds of knitted garments, hundreds of pieces of refugee clothes and several hundred dollars in cash have been given to the war sufferers. The call for volunteer nurses during the influenza epidemic was responded to heartily by the women of the Aid.

Holy Time Planned
After two years of strenuous work the organization will close its year with a subscription dinner in the new hotel. Every contributor and every worker is cordially invited to attend.

The men of the town have played a big part in the Aid's success as they took on themselves all the financial business outside of what the club gave, so the dinner is for them, too.

The committee asks that all wishing to attend, notify Mrs. Carl K. Deen or Mrs. J. N. Armstrong, treasurer of the Civic Club before noon on Friday, accompanying their request with the usual check.

Emergency Committee to Handle Work of Employment Service

Washington, March 18.—Governmental agencies called together by the Council of National Defense organized yesterday the emergency committee on employment for soldiers and sailors as a step toward filling the gap caused by demobilization of 80 per cent. of the field force of the United States Employment Service for which Congress failed to provide funds.

A committee on plans was appointed to collect immediately all available information as to work being done and prepare a comprehensive plan of operations. Grosvenor B. Clark, director of the council, is chairman.

School Teachers Get Back of Salary Increase Bill

Public school teachers and officials of the schools of various cities of Pennsylvania held a meeting here last night in which they expressed their opposition to a salary increase for the teachers and decided to support the Woodruff bill. There are several bills on file in the legislature and the Woodruff bill now seems to be the one which the legislators will give the most consideration. The teachers' meeting was harmonious and as nothing was said after it was over the report got out that there had been some differences but the Pittsburgh delegation said this morning that the teachers' proposition had been given considerable impetus.

SARA LEMER WINS STATE CONTEST

Honors For Young Violinist in Concert Arranged by Federation of Musical Clubs

Sara Lemer, violinist of this city, has just received word that she is a winner in the Pennsylvania State musical contest arranged by the American Federation of Musical Clubs. She is the only musician to participate in a district contest to be announced later.

These contests are held in every state in the Union every two years, for the purpose of promoting the art of music. The contestants must be Americans and American trained. The State winners are asked to compete in one of six district contests, and the district winners appear before the national body at the summer home of the American composer, Edward MacDowell in Peconic, New Hampshire. The winners of the final contest each will receive $150.

There are three judges for each department who are unknown to the contestants, each of whom send in his separate report to Chicago, and there is no applause to bias their judgment.

Sara Lemer played on January 13 in Carnegie Hall, Pittsburgh, accompanied by Carl Bernthaler. Her repertoire included: "Nardi's Sonata, the Bruch Concerto in G Minor and the Beethoven's Major Concerto." Sara Lemer is a pupil of Theodore Spiering of New York City, the famous violin teacher, one of whose students was a winner of the last district biennial contest.

Central High S. S. S. Club Has St. Patrick's Party

The S. S. S. Club of the Central High school gave a successful dance last evening in Winterdale hall. The spirited music combined with the clever St. Patrick's day decorations made the event one of the best of the season. After intermission large green balloons were given to the dancers, affording much merriment.

The committee in charge of the arrangements consisted of the Misses Sara Hess, Eleanor Baxter, Ivy Heister, Mildred Shupp, Sara Barr, Florence Diefenbach, Miriam Goshorn, Mary McDevitt, Anna McKibbin, Harriet Swartz and Elizabeth Baker.

CENTRAL HIGH NOTES

BIG CELEBRATION
Central High School celebrated their two debating victories created last by holding one of the biggest assembly exercises of the year. Indeed, it reminded the older students of the days when they celebrated their football victories by holding big rallies and cheering events. Each member of the two teams was called to the platform, and every one of them were given rousing cheers as they came to the platform.

Professor Severance then called on the three members of the negative team, and all three took up the trip in detail, telling various incidents that were especially interesting to them. Harold Connor was first. He mentioned time and again with what hospitality the team had been received, and urged that the local school show them the utmost courtesy when they sent a team to Hazelton. Robert Crist, the second speaker on the team, told of how much weight the name of one of the members of the Central High had on the Hazelton audience. He also dwelt to some extent on the fine bunch of sports the Hazelton students were. Arthur Baker was the last of the negative team to be called on, and showed his usual witty viewpoint on things, that to other people seemed trivial. He could not get through telling the school what a good time the negative team had had at Hazelton.

The three affirmative speakers, who debated at home last Friday, were then called to the platform to make a few remarks. All three, Carl Stoner, Stuart Wagner, and Winston Romig, expressed their appreciation of what the faculty had done in order to drill them into a winning team.

Senior Class Meeting
A senior class meeting was called for noon today by Ch. J. President Lewis K. Rimer. The details of the meeting will appear later.

LUNCHEON FOR SIX
Miss Katherine Keene, 1849 Berryhill street, entertained yesterday at luncheon at the Penn-Harris, in compliment to her guest, Miss Frances Steiger, of St. Paul, Minn. A green and white color scheme predominated with a table center of carnations and white lilies. Corsage bouquets were given as favors to the following guests: Miss Steiger, Miss Dorothy Cox, Miss Margaret Stucker, Miss Alice Leasure and Miss Helen Rutter.

FIRST WEDDING IN PENN-HARRIS

Miss Hortense Strouse and Stanley Adler to Be United in Marriage This Evening

For the first time since its opening, the Penn-Harris will be the scene of a wedding, when, at 7 o'clock this evening, Miss Hortense Strouse, of Philadelphia, and Stanley Adler, of this city, are united in marriage before a verdant altar of ferns and palms by Rabbi Louis J. Haas, of the Ohev Shalom Temple.

The charming bride, clad in an exquisite costume of white satin and duchesse lace with garnitures of pearls and carrying a shower bouquet of orchids, white lilies and sweet peas, will be given away by her grandfather, Harry E. Pyke, a former resident of this city.

Her cousin, Miss Dorothy Strouse, who will be maid of honor, has chosen a beautiful gown of pink satin and silver and will carry a novel combination of pink roses, lavender sweetpeas and bronze snapdragons.

The bridegroom's brother, Ensign Gordon D. Adler, will serve as best man and Josef H. Strouse, a cousin of the bride, will be master of ceremonies.

Shower of Flowers
An orchestra will play the time-honored Lohengrin procession and the well-known Mendelssohn recessional. During the ceremony the soft strains of "Salut d'Amour" and "O Promise Me" will be heard.

The final vow is taken, a bell of living roses, suspended above the young couple, will softly shower fragrant flowers upon them.

A dinner and reception in the ballroom will follow the ceremony, with Mrs. Rose Strouse, Miss Dorothy Strouse, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adler, Harry E. Pyke and Ensign Gordon Adler in the receiving line.

Among the many out-of-town guests whom they will greet are the following: Samuel Deahman of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kuhn, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. J. Ulmer, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Fuld, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Max Meyers, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. A. Adler, of York; Mrs. Isaac Haden, of Baltimore; Mrs. Isaac Weil, of Allentown; Miss Gertrude Strouse, of Greensburg and Washington; Isaac Schwartz, of New York, and Ensign Gordon D. Adler, stationed at New York.

The popular young bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Rose Strouse, of the Belle Claire apartments, Philadelphia, formerly resided in this city.

The bridegroom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adler, 1923 North Second street, is engaged with his father in the insurance and real estate business. He was discharged from the Navy January 15, having first been stationed at Norfolk, Va., and later at New London, Conn. He attended the Naval Technical School of Columbia University.

After a wedding tour to New York, Atlantic City and other points of interest, the young couple will reside temporarily at 1923 North Second street, and will be at home to their friends about April 1.

David K. Ebersole, of Philadelphia, spent a few days here with his father, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fairley, who returned to this morning to rejoin his wife and relatives and old neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kuhn, of Chicago, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adler, 1923 North Second street. Mr. Kuhn is remembered as Miss Rheta Adler before her marriage.

Myron Haefler, of Philadelphia, is making a short stay with his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Keffer, at 236 Woodbine street.

Medill McCormick Criticizes Certain Parts of League

Philadelphia, March 18.—Medill McCormick, United States Senator, elected from Illinois, speaking here last night at the St. Patrick's Day dinner, scathingly criticized certain sections of the proposed constitution of the League of Nations. He said that the covenant would rob the United States of sovereignty, invite a flood of aliens including Asiatics, and put the world virtually under British domination.

MISS REPPLIER AT CIVIC CLUB

Address on "Gospel of Amusement." Clever and Witty, Upsetting Traditions

Miss Agnes Repplier, of Philadelphia, brilliant penwoman whose fame is countrywide, came to the Civic Club yesterday afternoon to deliver her lecture on "The Gospel of Amusement."

There was a capacity audience, held breathless by the total upsetting of all established traditions of amusement for the speaker, although clever and witty, took away all ideals and left nothing in their place—for she had no suggestions to give.

Miss Repplier, a host in herself, with unbounded resources within her own mind does not recognize the fact that others are not so gifted as she and must needs have careful pushing along the right ways of pleasure and physical development. She laughs at the out-door playgrounds, the games, the dances which have been told are so excellent for the children as well as amusements for grownups, but officers no substitute.

With rare satirical humor she handled her subject, receiving applause and outbursts of laughter all along the way, but the lecture sounded more like a man speaking against the follies of woman than a woman addressing her sister workers.

Later, the guests had the pleasure of seeing Miss Repplier at a tea held in the lower rooms of the clubhouse. Mrs. George Preston Mains and Miss Katharine Cox presided over the tea.

Nominate and elect.
Prior to the lecture the club made nominations for officers to be elected at the April meeting and the various departments elected the following: Municipal department, Miss Rachel Pollock, chairman; Mrs. Solomon Hiney, vice-chairman; educational department, Mrs. C. M. Rhodes, chairman, and Mrs. Frederick E. Downes, vice-chairman.

COMMITTEES NAMED FOR RUMMAGE SALE

Detweiler, treasurer; Mrs. Herman Astrich, merchants' committee; Mrs. John Fox Weiss, Mrs. Frank Payne, transportation; Mrs. David E. Tracy, upholstery; Mrs. Robert H. Irons, china, glass and old silver; Mrs. E. Z. Gross, household furnishings; Miss Martha Buehler, furniture; Mrs. Mercer B. Tate, men's furnishings; Mrs. Herman P. Miller, women and children's clothing; Miss Matilda Heister, books and toys; Mrs. John McAlister, pictures and ornaments; Mrs. Ross O. Hickok, millinery; Mrs. Ed. Simms, shoes; Mrs. C. H. Sauer, sporting goods; Miss Mary Creighton, notions.

League to Enforce Peace Leaders Say Taft Has Taken Too Broad Stand

Washington, March 18.—Ex-President Taft and President Lowell, of Harvard University, officers of the League to Enforce Peace, organized at Independence Hall some years ago do not represent the views of the leading members of the Executive Committee of that organization, and some of its leading sponsors.

This statement was made yesterday by a member of the Executive Committee of the League to Enforce Peace in a letter received here. The letter stated that Mr. Taft had assumed entirely too much latitude in discussing the matter as the result of what the league formed at the Cradle of American Liberty may find itself divided into a bitter internal dissension.

The decision of President Wilson to insist that the league for peace be made a part of the peace treaty has not lessened the opposition to the league.

While sentiment in the country apparently favors a league to enforce peace as disclosed by letters pouring into the White House and Senate, there is a wide difference of opinion as to the exact terms and scope of the league.
