Restraint - What It Means in Art

"Rags are royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake!" the heroine used to declaim in Act III. Scene 4 of the old melodramas. (Alas, poor Yorick, they couldn't meet the competition of the movies.) You smile. Why? Because the line is overdone. People never talked that way. As written it lacks restraint. Hamlet, you remember, in his advice to the players said, "You must acquire and beget a temperance that may give it smoothness."

Dressing appropriately and becomingly is an art, too. And here also restraint plays its part. The race track bookie in his brown derby, plaid suit and diamonds shows no sense of restraint. The man of breeding dresses quietly and avoids extremes. The same applies to women's apparel. "Restraint" that is a word I bear in mind in selecting models for my clientele. Never do I invest in extreme or faddish styles. Always my merchandise is moderately conservative and marked by restraint, which means it remains in style so much the longer.

Staff Will Meet

The editor-in-chief of the Argus nnounced toda that there will be meeting of the staff on Monday atternoon at the school. The late edition of the Argus will be gone ove at this time, and definite plans fo the editing of the commencemen

Argus will be formed.

The Choirs

Much discussion has been going on throughout the school as for what purpose the two choirs are being kept together and are being drilled. Although there have not been very many occasions on which the choirs could be used this year, there have been several where selections by the choirs would have added greatly to the success of the occasion. And yet they have not been given an opportunity to show what they are capable of doing, although there has been a practice held every week. At the recent Triangle Debate there was a fine opportunity for the choirs to sing, but they had no place on the program. It seems a pity that two such musical organizations, which have been thoroughly trained, should have to take a back seat both in public entertainments and in the regular assembly exercises of the school.

STEEL LEAGUE BUSTS

The fans of Steelton were certain today that the baseball league would not be staged this year. Officials of the company were in conference at an early hour and nothing definite was given out until noon, but there seems every reason to believe that the company will not back the enterprise any longer, convinced perhaps that the fine parks should be used for games among the various departments at each park.

It was evident several months rgo that this would eventually be the decision for no effort was made to hold the men, and at Steelton there remain only Hunter and Beall who have good jobs and intend to keep

Games and dancing followed by a buffet supper were enjoyed by these guests: Miss Ruth Ridell, Miss Edna Lupold, Miss Katherine Walse, Miss Helen Kocklin, of Mechanicsburg, and Miss Anna Booser.

Columbus, Ohio, March 21.—Jack Malone, of St. Paul, was given the decision over Bryan Downey, of Columbus, in their 15-round bout here last night. Until the eleventh round the contest was about even. In the twelfth Malcne forged ahead and Downey was unable to keep him from holding the advantage until the end.
