Haase Says Minister's Drastic Acts Constitute Return to Imperialism

Weimar, March 29.—In the National Assembly yesterday, Hugo Haase, the Independent Socialist leader, violently attacked Gustave Noske, the minister of defense, for his methods in suppressing the recent strikes, the shooting of Spartans and other alleged abuses of power, claiming that the defense minister's course constituted a return to imperialism.

Attacks Scheidemann Herr Haase also attacked Chancellor Scheidemann for underestimating Sunday's demonstration in favor of General Ludendorff, declaring this showed that the present military leaders of the nation were standing solidly behind Ludendorff, supported by the conservative and other parties of the right, as well as a portion of the bourgeoisie.

Urges Russian Coalition Herr Haase was frequently interrupted, declared in favor of entering into immediate relations with Russia saying that the Ukraine would soon be able to supply Germany with raw material and later with food. He said, however, that the independent Socialists would not consider a treaty with Russia as one militating against England and the entente in general. They merely desired the end of the war to come, he declared.

Imputes Falseness to Erzberger Herr Haase asserted that Matthias Erzberger, the Centrist leader, falsified when he told of a cabinet meeting held on December 12, at which the government had agreed to send a note to the entente urging the necessity for a common fight against Bolshevism by Germany and the entente.

Centrist Sticks to Story Herr Erzberger, in reply to this, insisted that his statements were true.

Herr Noske, in his reply to Herr Haase, charged the Independents with being the originators of the Spartacist machinations and said the government would place before the assembly all the facts in connection with the "murderous acts" of the Spartans.

Ad Club Hears Expert Tell of Results Gained by Proper Advertising

Golden H. Cilley, advertising director for John Wanamaker, delivered a very interesting address before the Advertising Club of Harrisburg last evening at the Penn-Harris Hotel. "Get news out of merchandise and print it where people will read it in newspapers. What is back of what you say in your advertisements counts more than the way you say it. Keep in mind that you are the servant of the people. Don't get your ideas out of books; get them out of your brain. Don't follow a plan that has even been laid down. Produce one of your own."

These were among the important points Mr. Cilley emphasized. The subject of Mr. Cilley's address was "Bringing Advertising Back to Common Sense." He said in part: "The form of presentation makes little difference. It is what you say that counts, and what is back of what you say. Don't bother about the layout. If your story is a good one it will suggest its own manner of display. To my mind the daily newspaper of established circulation brings the advertiser a greater return for his money than any other medium. Write to win the public; that's the only way to please the advertiser. The conservative, old-line newspaper beats the sensational paper for results in advertising. Don't follow a plan that has been tried before. Produce a new one. Tell it differently. That is making news of it."

Lieut. Albert H. Stackpole Discharged From Army After Service in France

Lieutenant Albert H. Stackpole, son of E. J. Stackpole, president of the Telegraph Printing Company, was discharged from army service at Camp Dix, this morning and arrived in Harrisburg shortly after noon. He was a member of the One Hundred and Thirtieth Field Artillery, Battery A, attached to the Thirtieth Division, composed largely of troops from Tennessee and North Carolina.

Lieutenant Stackpole enlisted in December, 1917, while at Yale, at the same time as Charles Taft, son of ex-President Taft, both as privates. Within a short time he became a sergeant and upon his arrival overseas was sent to the artillery school at Samur, France. After completing his training and study there he was commissioned as a second lieutenant and was assigned to the Thirtieth Division for active service. Lieutenant Stackpole was in the Argonne Forest during some of the most severe fighting near the close of the war.

He arrived in this country last week, disembarking at Newport News, after which the units were taken to Camp Dix, to be discharged. His brother, Captain Edward J. Stackpole, Jr., commanding officer of Company M, One Hundred and Tenth Infantry, Twenty-eighth Division, who is home on leave and still undergoing treatment for wounds, met his brother upon his arrival in Harrisburg.

VALOROUS YANKS TO BE HONORED

Seventh, divided between Philippines, Alaska and Mexican border. Twenty-sixth, to be based on Camp Devens. Twenty-seventh, Camp Upton, New York.

Twenty-eighth, Camp Dix, New Jersey. Twenty-ninth, Camp Meade, Maryland. Thirtieth, Camp Jackson, South Carolina.

Thirty-first, Camp Custer, Michigan. Thirty-second, Camp Grant, Illinois. Thirty-third, Camp Travis, Texas. Thirty-fourth, Camp Sherman, Ohio.

Eighty-first, Camp Taylor, Kentucky. Eighty-second, Camp Gordon, Georgia. Eighty-ninth, Camp Funston, Kansas. Ninety-first, Camp Lewis, Washington.

The Forty-second (Rainbow) division will be the cavalry division in the new organization. It will be organized in the Southern department, and its men will be drawn from all parts of the all-American character which was obtained in the original organization.

In the reorganization of the army not only the divisional designations will be retained, but also the designations of the brigades, regiments, companies and other units in each division. The special insignia authorized for each division during the war will be continued.

In making this announcement General March said that the department was proceeding with the organization of the army on the basis of a peace strength of 509,000 men. The tactical organization will comprise army corps of twenty infantry divisions and one cavalry division. Whether this organization will be permanent, he said, depends entirely on the future legislation.

LT. ELLENBERGER OUT OF THE ARMY

Young Engineer, Harvard Graduate, Hopes to Be With Some Western Corporation

Lieutenant Alfred Sheprian Ellenberger, enlisting as a volunteer through the Harrisburg recruiting office immediately upon the declaration of war, was discharged from army service at Camp Dix, this morning and arrived in Harrisburg shortly after noon.

Lieutenant Ellenberger was assigned to the first Fort Niagara camp, there winning a recommendation for a commission as second lieutenant of field artillery, through which he hoped to secure immediate foreign service. The camp commandant, however, negatively recommended, having selected other men each of whom had an engineering degree or had won a recommendation for the ordnance department. Lieutenant Ellenberger was assigned to duty with the chief of ordnance until his discharge. For nearly a year prior to this he was head of an important unit in the distribution and supply section, having under his direction a large force of officers and civilians, the former mostly first lieutenants and captains, handling a million dollars worth of supplies weekly for the army, and winning a promotion to first lieutenant which was his rank when discharged from the service.

Lieutenant Ellenberger was graduated from Harvard University in June, preceding our entry into the war, and was planning to enter Boston Tech in the fall of 1917 to complete an engineering course. This plan after his nearly two years of army service, he will now abandon and make an extended western trip, hoping later on to find a connection with some large corporation having a large supply department corresponding to that in which he has served so long for the government.

The most risky thing to do with a meal is to take a chance on the coffee you use.

Good coffee throws an impression around the meal, which nothing else will do. Poor coffee will ruin the meal, as effectively as good coffee will save it.

Golden Roast Blend Coffee

is a "no-chance" coffee. It is most carefully blended, and then the greatest care is taken in the roasting. But first and most important is the blend.
