The battle of est wo men, in the background of which flits a beautiful girl, wrecks to nay the furniture but the statuary; and in this confusion Arnold also ttles with the police-to be laid out finally by a night stick in the hand a London "Bobby." Another big moment is seen on atrans-Atlantic bier in New York where rould is working as a longshorenan. He sees going aboard the vessel, rayed in fine clothes, the man who has robbed him. He leaps after the jeet of his hatred like a madman, only to be thrown sprawling on the er by the officers of the ship, and he lands bruised and bleeding at the st of his failse friend's stylishly dressed companions. Still another big moment arrives when the vessel is at sea. Arnold aving stowed away, finally meets his man on deck. There is another fight s waldy for ship and chain min look on. Officers throw Arnold into the vessel upon rocks in the tropics. The some time lands by filling grac old. A sailor releases Arnold, Arnold come to the deck where ill is con-sion-madness. With his powerful voice he takes control, calms the assengers, awes the maddened sailors, and begins putting them, into life-orst. Suddenly he sees the cowering figure of the man he is after. He orgets courtesy, his heroic heart almost stops beating, and here weils in him an overpowering desire for revenge. He leaps at his man-and nother struggle begins. Fate putsin end to this fight by breaking the casel in two.

another struggle begins. Fate putsin end to this fight by breaking the vessel in two. The final big moment comes on a desert island upon which the two men have been washed, along with the daughter of an oil king, whose hand the false friend was trying to win. It is a big moment when Arnold tells this man that he will let him live because of the girl's but the climax comes when this false triend tries to take advantage of the girl's plight. Arnold witnesses his cowardly actionand again leaps at this man; and they struggle on a high cliff overlooking the sea. It is a long, tense battle, in which fate again takes a hand by causing the edge of the oliff to fail away and carry the man to his just and on the shore below.

Construction Harrisburg is overrushed with thousands craving for aviation and automobiling. They have been inquiring daily at the great Aviation Field as to the possibility of securing a ride in the aeroplanes that aeroplane until they learn the working parts of it. Experts have declared that the principal thing to learn about first is the workings of the mechanical parts. Big money is made by being able to make quick repairs on the aeroplane when it is out of order. The flying is a simple as riding in an automobile. It is claimed by some of the expert flyers that they prefer flying in an aeroplane to riding in an automobile. Thousands of our young men are now learning and must learn both trades, the aeroplane and the automobile. The years from now there will be over 100,000 operators needed. Millions of good mechanics are wanted now; this last war struggle has roved it. We have added to our school a complete training quarters for Acroplane Mechanics, therefore making it so practical and simple at any man or woman can take it with case. Go automobile mechanics are in great demand. There are any mumber of them carning from $6 to $8 a day. There are still greater portunities for an aeroplane mechanic. Remember, shops all over the country are crowace with work and good mechanics are over. Our big classes will start March 31, running day and night. There
