John Nevin Stickel, Former Pen Mar Postmaster, Dies

Waynesboro, Pa., April 1.—John Nevin Stickel, of Waynesboro, and a former postmaster of Pen Mar, Pa., and superintendent of the Waynesboro gas company, died yesterday morning after an illness of several months of dropsy and nervous breakdown. He was 66 years old and is survived by his wife, two sons, J. Norman Stickel, in the motor transportation service with the United States Army in France, and Grayson M. Stickel, recently returned from France, where he was in the air service; also two sisters, Misses Kate and Belle Stickel, this city. His oldest son, Joseph Stickel, in the infantry service with the Seventy-ninth Division, was killed in battle along the Meuse river, France, on November 1, a week before the armistice was signed. The news was officially received here December 5, and there is no doubt that this event hastened the father's death.

FARMER WALKS HOME

Chambersburg, Pa., April 1.—Reuben Kauffman, a young farmer living near here, failed to get home as he expected to Sunday night, for just as he was driving his team out of an alley into Main street, an automobile driven by S. O. Brown of Pittsburgh, ran into his team and smashed one of the front wheels. The buggy was taken back into a hotel yard and Kauffman walked home, Kauffman alleges that Brown, who is employed by a Pittsburgh steel firm and is doing work on an addition being built to the Cumberland Valley Railroad roundhouse, failed to sound his horn.
