

ARTICLES IN LABOR DRAFT

Conference Will Meet at Seat of the League of Nations

London, April 1.—The completed draft of the convention creating a permanent organization for the promotion of labor interests and the international regulation of labor conditions consists of forty-one articles. The first chapter deals with the general outlines of the organization, which will consist of a general conference of representatives and an international labor office.

Meetings of the general conference will be held at least once yearly. The conference will include representatives of the employers and workers. Each delegate may be accompanied by two advisers, and when women's rights are involved, at least one of the advisers should be a woman.

The conference will meet at the seat of the League of Nations, where the international labor office will be established as part of the League organization. A governing body of twenty-four members will control the labor office and will be composed of twelve government representatives and six members elected by the delegates representing the working people. The director of the labor office will be appointed by the governing body. The labor office will act as a general clearing house for all labor information.

BOLSHEVISTS NOT ACTIVE IN PENNA.

Paris Reports of Riots Are Exaggerated; Only Minor Disturbances

Philadelphia, April 1.—While there have been a number of minor disturbances, most of them as a result of strikes, and several bomb explosions in this city and other sections of Eastern Pennsylvania in recent months, nothing has been brought out in the official investigations that would indicate the Bolsheviks were responsible.

There were half a dozen bomb explosions in this city last December, two of them at the homes of State and municipal officials. There was some talk of Bolshevism at the time, but extensive investigations were made of all the explosions and nothing was learned to implicate the Bolsheviks, according to the authorities.

Paris, April 1.—Another wireless message sent by Tchitcherin, the Russian Bolshevik foreign minister, to Bela Kun, foreign minister in the new Hungarian government, has been intercepted by the French government. The message was sent last Saturday and dealt with the alleged spread of Bolshevism. It says: "The revolutionary movement certainly is gaining in America. Certain newspapers say the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan are especially impregnated by Bolshevism."

Cincinnati Will Lose $100,000 Annually When Prohibition Begins

Cincinnati, April 1.—Despite the fact that water has become a more popular drink in Ohio after May 26 when the state goes dry, prohibition will result in a loss of more than $100,000 a year to the Cincinnati waterworks, according to W. F. Von Hoene, controller.

MILLIONS FOR BETTER ROADS

Counties Have Pledged Over $13,000,000 For the Secondary Highway System

Over $13,000,000 in cash and in prospective bond issues is in sight for improvement of roads by counties of Pennsylvania and possibly $8,000,000 more on the horizon according to calculations made by State Highway Department officials to-night after an interview with the authorities of Bradford county. The meeting was one of a series held in the last fortnight at which delegations assured Highway Commissioner Lewis S. Sadler of their intention to co-operate in improvement of the roads by undertaking the reconstruction of secondary highways.

In a number of instances special elections will be held very soon to secure the money, while in others counties will use money standing to their credit or issue bonds which they may put out without having to go to their people.

Bradford, $1,000,000; Mercer, $400,000 available; bonds, $1,500,000; Bedford, $250,000; Schuylkill, $400,000; Northumberland, $150,000; Carbon, $250,000 available; bonds, $1,000,000; Elk, $75,000; McKean, $750,000 (bonds already authorized); Erie, $1,300,000 (bonds already authorized); Jefferson, $250,000; bonds, $1,000,000; Clearfield, $1,000,000; Luzerne, $225,000; Somerset, bonds proposed, $1,000,000; Cambria bonds proposed, $1,000,000; Beaver, $750,000; Warren, $750,000.

Bradford county, its commissioners said to-day, proposes laying out an intra-county road system which will give a network going through all sections. The matter of a bond issue will then be put up to the voters. The borough of Sayre and the borough of Athens have completed an agreement with the Department whereby the State will build a portion of about three miles of highway through both boroughs, which are continuous. Commissioner Sadler called attention to the ruling that all piping and conduits must be placed before the State starts work, and that no ripping of streets will be permitted for five years. The borough authorities declared that their people were educated along this line and that an ordinance will pass forbidding ripping for 15 years. Congressman McFadden was with to-day's county delegation. The county commissioners are John A. Ruggles, Sayre; J. L. Ellsworth, Wyand; and C. L. Crandall, Alba. In the delegation from Sayre and Athens were George F. Corling, J. E. Umpleby and Charles E. Mills.

The Private Life of the Kaiser

FROM THE PAPERS AND DIARIES OF THE BARONESS VON LARISCH-REDDERN

The Kaiser and Kaiserin's Late Major Domo, Chief of the Royal Household at Berlin and Potsdam.

Baroness von Larisch-Reddern is the TRUE name of the Berlin Court Lady who gave the story of the Kaiser to Henry William Fisher, Uraula. Countess von Eppinghoven being a nom de guerre, heretofore used to shield her.

Thompson Feature Service, 1919, Copyright (Continued From Yesterday) Ministers of state delivering reports upon which hinged the fate of government measures, of peace or war, or perchance, the life of some doomed man appealing to the king's grace, had to be prepared for interruptions: "Look at this ten 'ender' (meaning antlers with the given number of branches)—"The prime star among a battalion I mowed down at' some place or other.

Gun-charger Rieger had care of these trophies, and had little time for anything else. At great dinners, when he stood behind the Kaiser's chair, this man was often consulted about dates and incidents as William told visitors of his killings in time of peace. And the world knows how he kept up his record as a butcher during more than four years. Instead of hares he massacred, in addition, a battalion of men, women and old men, nurses, priests and prisoners. He should worry!

Kaiser Signs Photos, Englishwomen Burn Them While the members of the Kaiser's staff often asserted that he was never in better humor than after successfully playing some trick upon a friend, it shall not be denied that he was agreeable enough if he had half a mind to be. He loved a merry jest at a stag party, knew the art of making pleasant conversation, sang, badly, it is true, but nevertheless entertainingly enough among friends; enjoyed what he considered "good" music, and was a clever hand at any game of billiards, skat, poker, and what-not? and, better still, he never allowed the stakes to go above a quarter of a cent a point.

If Diana smiled upon him, and the host showed a lucky hand in the selection of the menu, he usually ordered his portfolio of photographs to be brought in after dinner, and leaving everybody a choice of pictures, inscribed his name, together with the date, and often some cheerful words of remembrance, on a dozen or half a hundred pastebords, as the case might be. Some of these signed photographs were given to American friends—the Armours, Goulds, Vanderbilts, Morgans, etc. Whether they kept them after the invasion and desolation of Belgium, I don't know, but I do know that at many English townhouses and countryseats bonfires of Kaiser portraits flared up gaily after August 14, 1914. I remember calling upon the Marchioness of Londonderry some morning in the last week of August of that year, when her ladyship's secretary came in to say that he "found 'em all as listed." "Then into the kitchen range with 'em, frames and all," said the Marchioness. "Had I better a tear 'em up first?" suggested the secretary. "It would be a waste of time; no one wants pictures of the German swine now"—this from her ladyship, an amiable woman, noted for her polite accomplishments. "Feeding the Beast" Was Ruling the Kaiser At the time when the Kaiser's hunting mania was at its height, the late Eugene Richter made his great speech against William's hunting companions, who, he thundered, manipulated the Kaiser at will. "My African empire for a letter do cachet that will send this pig-dog to Spandau! Would I not gladly forget all about him there!" shouted the Kaiser at dinner, when the report of the trade reached him. "His African empire!" If it had gone as cheaply as that, Mr. Wilson

BONDS TO MEET RAILROAD NEEDS

Will Mature in One Year With Interest at Rate of Five Per Cent.

Washington, April 1.—War Finance Corporation bonds totaling $200,000,000 will be placed on sale Wednesday through Federal reserve banks and sub-agent banks. The bonds, which will be the first to be issued under the War Finance Corporation act, will be issued in denominations of $1,000, will mature in one year with interest at five per cent, payable semi-annually, and will be practically free from taxes.

Final details with reference to the issue were agreed upon yesterday in conferences between Attorney General Palmer and counsel for the corporation. Receipts from the issue will be used by the corporation to provide funds for railroads and to meet other demands. The tax exemption features of the issue were set forth by the corporation as follows: "The bonds will be exempt from state taxation and all local taxation and will be exempt from taxation by the United States with the exception that they will be subject to estate or inheritance taxes, and to surtaxes and excess profits taxes now or hereafter imposed by the United States upon the income or profits of individuals or corporations. But another important tax exemption relating to these bonds is this: That the interest on $5,000 of these bonds owned by any person will be entirely exempt from all income taxes, surtaxes, excess profits or war profits taxes."

LEAGUE ENDORSED Philadelphia, April 1.—"The most hopeful outlook at present seems to reside in a League of Nations." In these words the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of Friends in session here yesterday, endorsed the course of the American delegation at the Peace Conference.

The Wolff Bureau, the semi-official news agency, protests against his condition, and demands that trade be entirely free.
