-What of it?

-If he goes to the right store it won't take very long to select a suit that will please him.

-And if he's a very, VERY particular chap and wants every little "nook and corner" of his suit to be correct, there's one place to go for his suit - Schleisner's.

-Rather strong!

-Oh, yes; but you must remember that we have the finest tailored clothes in America and such a standard is worthy of unstinted recommendation.

-You see, it doesn't follow that a man must be worried to death because he wants a good suit.

FINE tailorwork is the best feature of a garment. It is the factor that brings out the lines desired and puts the service into the suit or dress or wrap. A Schleisner garment is a work of the artist-tailor. A piece of fabric may or may not be developed into an artistic creation. The idea to do the work may be the incentive—but only a real tailor can put the correct lines into the garment. The designing of a suit is one thing, the tailor work another. Both are needed for a Schleisner garment. The result is dignified fashion.
