Harrisburg Branch Goes to Marsh Run to Give Evening of Pleasure to Men

The Harrisburg Branch of the Jewish Welfare Board gave an entertainment and dance last evening at the Marsh Run depot. The event was a decided success, and was well attended by the officers and men at the camp.

Prior to the dance Sullivan and Brown harmonized with two cellos and a piano, after which Herman Goldstein gave several violin selections, accompanied by Harry Isaacsman. Sgt. J. L. Gaines, otherwise known as "The Irish Senator," told some funny stories and a clever monologue "Heard on the Beach" was given by Miss Leah Klavans, in her inimitable style. Miss Dorothy Strouse, an accomplished young pianist, played "Chaminade's 'The Fawn,'" displaying remarkable finish and interpretative ability, followed by Miss Evelyn Speakman in a monologue entitled "Suburbanites." The concluding number of the program was a medley of songs by Abe Bloom, accompanied by Miss Bertha Levin.

The party which was chaperoned by Mrs. E. Simms, Mrs. J. Aronson, Mrs. H. Schampman, Mrs. M. Herbell, Mrs. Stanley Adler, Mrs. L. Rubin, Mrs. Otto J. Buxbaum, included: Miss Evelyn Speakman, Miss Leah Klavans, Miss Rose Garomik, Miss Pearl Herbell, Miss Rebecca Anson, Miss Ellen Fishman, Miss Justin Obrasky, Miss Helen Arch, Miss Blanche Pruss, Miss Sara Micholovitz, Miss Gertrude Kerson, Miss Ella Kramer, Miss Esther Arch, Miss Lena Finkelstein, Miss Rose Cohen, Miss Lena Koplovitz, Miss Cecelia Kerson, Miss Rhedna Mayer, Miss Rebecca Micholovitz, Miss Mary Flay Rubin, Miss Lena Levin, Miss Celia Schulman, Miss Rose Schulman, Miss Ann Schulman, Miss Mollie Freedman, Miss Jennie Freedman, Miss Esther Sachs, Miss Mary Cooper, Miss Eva Frank, Miss Ruth Lapkin, Miss Jessie Scharsosky, Rabbi Haas, Lieutenant Harry Horvitz, Stanley Adler and Irvin Rubin.

An Imaginary Dialogue About Morning Shopping

"I'm completely worn out," sighed Mrs. Brown, as she sank into her chair at the evening meal. "What have you been doing?" inquired her lesser half sympathetically, as he began to carve the chicken.

"Shopping," was the reply. "Such crowds and confusion. And now I'm afraid I won't like what I bought. I felt hurried when I saw so many customers waiting and selected a blue frock. And I never can wear blue. I'm always so tired after an afternoon's shopping," concluded the speaker.

"It's not the actual effort," explained Mr. Brown. "You're mentally tired, not physically. It's the crowd that tires you. If you'd do your shopping in the morning you'd find it was no burden. Just try it once. You know there's a lot of sense in these ads that Mary Sachs is running on morning shopping."

"I'll try it next time," agreed Mrs. Brown. "Maybe you're right."

Three Days Later.

"Well, you're right about that morning shopping," announced Mrs. Brown as she met her husband at the door.

"I spent two hours downtown this morning; devoted the afternoon to embroidery—and feel as fresh as a daisy."

"And you look it, too," was Mr. Brown's admiring comment. "No more afternoon shopping in this family."
