WILSON SEES U. S. DELEGATES IN SICK CHAMBER

Sufficiently Recovered From Cold to Talk Over the Peace Situation

Paris, April 7.—President Wilson has reached a point so far on the road to recovery that Rear Admiral Grayson, his personal physician, permitted him to receive late yesterday the other American peace commissioners. It was the first time the President had talked to any one other than Colonel House, Admiral Grayson and the immediate members of his household since he became ill.

The cold from which the President has been suffering appears to have been broken, and, unless complications ensue, it is probable that he will be able to resume in part his work to-day. The fever has disappeared but the President is still weak, and it is not expected that he will leave his room before Tuesday. It is expected, however, that he will be strong weak, and it is not expected that he will leave his room before Tuesday. It is expected, however, that he will be strong enough to-day to look after some of the details of the peace negotiations, but that he will not be in a condition to attend any of the meetings of the big four until Tuesday.

tend any of the meetings of the big four until Tuesday.

President Poincare sent by an aid to President Wilson a message of hopefulness, and the allied officials to the peace conference again expressed their wishes for his rapid recovery.

The reception by President Wilson of Secretary of State Lansing, General Bilss, Henry White and Colonel House took place in the President's bed room. The five men discussed the work done since illness eliminated President Wilson from the conference Thursday night and to Be Given Men

If the Editor is yet of the

If the Editor is yet of the opinion that the offer of sale is not made in all sincerity, permit me to make another suggestion. The Penn-Harris Hotel in this city was erected and financed by local capital one and one-half million dolars, and, in view of this fact, the amount involved in the purchase of this property might very easily be handled and financed by local capital. If Davies, the expert, commands such unbounded confidence, the Chamber of Commerce might be willing to take this up, for here, we are told by him, there is an actual cash value of eighty dollars for every dollar to be invested—to say nothing about the enormous profits that will be earned from the operation of these so-called valuable coal deposits.

coal company.

Assessments' that appeared in the Telegraph on Friday last, although probably not so in-tended, is an unwarranted attack upon the coal companies, unsupported by any facts or evidence, and cannot be passed by unnoticed and unanswered.

Such statements therein contained, as "Commissioner Stine and Cumbler * * Stine and Cumbler * * * * should not permit the corporations to 'bluff' them into radical revisions of the figures * * . The coal companies are playing to the galleries in their advertisements," are most certainly unfair. The Coal Company has used the columns of the paper as an advertising medium to dispose of its property and the Telegraph, by this editorial, undertakes to advise the public that this advertisement does not mean what it ment does not mean what it says. Suppose this course of conduct were to be pursued with respect to other advertisements, how long do you suppose they would continue suppose they would continue to use the columns of the Teleto use the columns of the Telegraph as an advertising medium? Suppose similar treatment were to be given Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart; Doutrich, Bowman & Company, and the host of other advertisers, and the public advised in the editorial columns of the paper that these advertisements were "playing to the galleries;" that it was mere "stage play," how long do you suppose they would continue to patronize the paper?

Does the Editor of the Tele-

Company now asks but one million four hundred thou-sand dollars, how does he ex-pect either the County Commissioners or the citizens of this County to have any con-fidence whatsoever either in his ability as an engineer of the statements which he made concerning the purchase of this property? For these of this property? For these services which he is rendering the County Controller, that this expert has already drawn from the County Treasury the sum these so-called valuable coal deposits.

Another surprising statement contained in this editorial reads as follows: "One of the coal companies (Susquehanna Collieries) says its holdings are worth less than two millions of dollars, although it confesses to a pay roll each year amounting to more than two million two hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. There is such a variance here and such an absurd difference between the company valuations and annual revenue, that the Commissioners should accept the estimates of their own disinterested experts and let the matter be threshed out in the Courts, if the Companies continue to object." Absurd differences between the company aluations and annual revenues, indeed! Since when has a pay roll become a source of revenue to the Company? If our own expenses were to be treated as revenues, every mother's son of us in a very short time, I submit, would become most nauseatingly wealthy. What proportion do you suppose the pay roll of the Bethlehem Steel Company in this County bears to its assessed value?

The Commissioners are also requested to accept the esti-Does the Editor of the Tele-Does the Editor of the Telegraph really and honestly believe that the company is bluffing in its effort to dispose of this property, under the present circumstances and conditions? If he does, let me assure him that he has formed and expressed an opinion without any knowledge whatsoever of the facts. Let me assure him, in all sincerity, that the offer of sale of this property for the sum of one million four hundred thousand dollars is bonafide, absolutely and positively made in good faith. Several weeks ago, when the County Commissioners reconstructions and the county Commissioners results of the county Commissioners results and the county Commissioners results and positive the county Commissioners results and property of the county Commissioners results and property of the county commissioners and control of the county commissioners results and control of the county commissioners results and control of the county commissioners results and control of the county commissioners and control of the county commissioners results and control of the county commissioners and control of the county commissioners results and control of the county commissioners results and control of the county commissioners and control of the county county control of the county control of the county county control of the county control of the county control of the county county control of the county con Several weeks ago, when the County Commissioners received an intimation that the company would be willing to sell this property for one milion five hundred thousand dollars, the Patriot published an interview wherein E. Ellsworth Davies, the expert employed by the County to advise the Commissioners of the real value of these coal mines, was The Commissioners are value of these coal mines, was reported to have said that if such an offer were to be made by the Company he would such an offer were to be made by the Company he would have a dozen purchasers ready to gobble it up. Well, here is an offer not at one million five hundred thousand dollars, as formerly reported, but one million four hundred thousand dollars, or ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS less, and this is his opportunity. Let him come along with his dozen purchasers. The Company has made the offer and is ready and more than willing to be gobbled up. If he can't find a dozen purchasers, one, I am sure, will be sufficient for the purpose; and, if he cannot find one purchaser for a property which he has advised the County Commissioners is worth more than EIGHTY-SIX MILLIONS OF COMPANY NOW ARKS but one Company in this County bears to its assessed value?

The Commissioners are also requested to accept the estimates of their "disinterested experts" and, if the companies object, to let "them fight it out in court." Surely the editor cannot and does not mean what he says. I am willing to concede that this expert is just about as "disinterested" as the most capricious person could possibly desire him to be. About six months ago I informed the County Commissioners that the company would be very glad to open its books, its records, its maps and its mines, for inspection in order that a fair and just valuation might be placed upon its property, and that they were welcome to go over the property and into the mines. I have no doubt they so informed and advised their expert. But he has not seen fit to do so. The acreage and the tracts are well defined on the ground, yet he has not seen fit to make a physical examination of the property and returns an acreage far in excess of that to which the company has ever claimed fitle. Its books, and the books and records of the mine inspector of this district, were at all times open to him for inspection, where he could have easily learned how much coal was mined, and how much was believed to remain unmined, but he has not done so, and has returned tracts of land which do not now, nor at any time did have, a pound of coal beneath their surface, as containing millions of dollars' worth of coal, and has advised the assessment of a property which is now advertised for sale for one million four hundred thousand dollars at over EIGHTY-SIX MILLIONS OF DOLLARS. For such services has already received from the taxpayers of the county the sum of NINE THOUSAND DOLLARS. Surely he cannot properly be called a disinterested expert in view of the lack of interest he has manifested in making a true and just valuation of this property.

erty. Furthermore, why does the erty.

Furthermore, why does the editor request that the Commissioners accept estimates which do not even amount to a good guess and, if the company continues to object, to "let the matter be threshed out in Court," particularly in view of the fact that the commissioners, in an honest effort to perform their sworn duty in making an equitable assessment of this property, have requested the company to present its side of the question? If they follow the advice given them in the editorial, such procedure will be useless. No fair minded citizen will desire the company to present its evidence before a packed jury, yet such would be the result if this advice were to be followed.

These Coal Mines mean more to the Unper End of Dauphin

if this advice were to be followed.

These Coal Mines mean more to the Upper End of Dauphin County than do the Steel Mills to the Lower End and the City of Harrisburg. Why do you not send out your reporters, or some competent disinterested person to investigate, learn and report to the citizens of the Lower End of this county what relation these mines bear to the life of that community. The assessment recommended by this expert will result not in a grievous taxation, but actually and truly, in a confiscation of the property; and it is just as idle to say in this editorial that the public will not permit the company to cease operations, made financially impossible by such taxation, as it is to say that the steel plants will not be perserved. tion, as it is to say that the steel plants will not be permitted to close down for lack of orders.

The Editorial column of a newspaper is a very great fac-tor in moulding public sentiment. Personally, I believe it to be the greatest to be the greatest human agency, or power, either for good or evil, in existence today. All that we ask in this matter is fair treatment and that judgment be suspended until both sides are heard and that judgment be suspended until both sides are heard and all of the facts submitted. Mr. Humphreys has renewed the offer to the County Commissioners to lay the books and the records and the mines open for inspection. For public information, pending the present offer of sale and its acceptance, I desire to say that I will submit to any or all of the local newspapers any and all facts that they may request concerning this mining property—the acreage, the coal measures, the coal mined out, the coal believed to be yet remaining in place, the costs of operation and all other matters, so far as I am able, that will throw any additional light upon its true value, and, in support of these facts to be submitted, the records and maps of the Company will be open for inspection.

maps of the Company will be open for inspection.

This offer of sale has been called a "bluft." Let me again say it is no "bluft." It is a bonafide offer. Let me also say that this offer to submit facts for the information of the public is no "stage play" or "theatrical" or "bluft," nor is it intended to be "spectacular." It is made in good faith and in the hope that it will be accepted and the coal situation in this county placed before the citizens and taxpayers in its true light.

If you consider the offer a "bluft," call it. To purchase the property will require one million four hundred thousand dollars. To call this "bluft" will not cost the taxpayers of this county ONE RED CENT.

Division is scheduled to return the middle of May." It is possible that the Philadelphia request to have the Twenty-eighth Division men landed in that port may be superseded by another appeal calling for the men's landing in New York City. The reason for this unexpected probability is contained in the answer of General Payton C. March to delegates, questions regarding the discharge of the troops. If the soldiers are to be discharged from camp within forty-eight hours as the general army orders presage, the Philadelphia delegation will ask that they be landed at New York, be taken to camp and discharged. It is pointed out that the divisional review can be held when these soldiers return in a body, after their discharge. A review in Philadelphia is preferrable to having the troops land there since it would be more a matter of sentiment than of satisfaction to have a number of small transports land at that port, it is pointed out. If the troops were to be landed there, it would be necessary to use these transports since the Leviathian, the Mauretania and other large ships cannot land in the Pennsylvania port.
