Paris, April 10.—Reports have reached the American delegation that conditions in Vienna are becoming worse. Acts of violence are increasing, but the radical elements are restrained by the need of food from the Allies.

Expect Attack on Vologda Railway by the Bolsheviks

London, April 10.—The Bolsheviks, although they have been repulsed with heavy losses in attacks on three sectors of the front south of Archangel in the last week, are believed to be preparing for a further offensive on the Vologda railway sector, an official statement from the British war office on operations in North Russia says.

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

FALL OF ODESSA BOLSHEVIK GAIN

Gives Them Big Resources of Grain, Coal and Minerals

Paris, April 10.—The chief cause of anxiety in connection with the evacuation of Odessa by the Allies and its occupation by Bolsheviks lies in the fact that the most fertile regions in southern Russia have fallen into the hands of the Bolshevik forces, giving them immense resources of grain, coal and minerals.

The reason for the Allies' retreatment was the constantly increasing menace of the Bolshevik soldiery against the garrison, which was unable to maintain its supplies with the greatest difficulty. The commander then decided to withdraw his troops numbering approximately 50,000. The troops retired to Rumania and Constantinople.

The situation in Rumania and Poland is far from reassuring, even when these additional troops to help form a cordon against the spread of Bolshevism. Both Rumanians and Poles require the largest measure of aid from the Allies in providing them with food, military equipment and organization.

It is regarded as essential in "competent quarters that General Haller's troops should be hurried eastward as soon as possible, for, otherwise, it is pointed out, there is a possibility of the formation of a great Bolshevik bloc consisting of Russians, Hungarians and Germans, which would be so powerful that immense forces would be required to restrain it.

Statements of various countries gathered in Paris discussed the Odessa question with considerable inquietude to-day and it was expected that it would form the subject of discussion among the delegates to the peace conference.

WOMAN DESCRIBES RELIEF WORK AMONG ARMENIANS

Mrs. Carl C. Compton, of Chicago, Accompanied Her Husband Through Russia's Trials

American consul advised all the Americans to leave at once, and a special train conveying sixty foreigners finally arrived at Baku on the Caspian Sea. There they were caught in a battle between Bolsheviks and Armenians on one side and Tartars on the other. The street in which they lived was dominated by Tartars who sprayed the roadway with machine-gun bullets. For three days they did not dare leave the house and had only bread to live on. Eventually, by paying a high price, they were able to charter a special steamer for Astrakhan, which is situated at the mouth of the Volga. "We had to sleep on the deck throughout the whole trip," said Mrs. Compton. "The crew and the families of the crew slept in the cabins, and refused to give them up."

"We waited for two weeks for the ice to break up in the Volga and then we went up to Samara. The others went on to Vladivostok. The Bolsheviks were in possession of Samara then, but we were able to carry on general relief. Thousands of refugees came through and we started a soup kitchen at the station. Later, maternity and general hospitals were organized.

Fighting the Czechs "We had rather an exciting time at Samara when the Czechs came in. We lived not far from the river between the Bolshevik barracks and the principal Bolshevik club of the city. The place drew most of the shell-fire from the Czech army. Bullets came through our windows and our room became filled with brick dust from the exploding shells. The Bolshevik soldiers lay flat upon the club roof, and fired down on the Czech soldiers, so we had a very good view of the fighting. From my window I could have touched the Bolshevik troops with my hand. We were awfully glad to get down into the cellar. There was a slit in the wall and we could see the end of the battle. Finally we heard the Czechs cheering, and saw people running from the houses, all making the sign of the cross. The Czechs won, everybody put on their best clothes and paraded in the streets with bands. Collections were taken up for the Czechs, who were hailed as heroes and deliverers."

WERE SENT HOME By Associated Press. Camp Mills, N. Y., April 10.—Nearly 2,600 Americans who enlisted early in the war in the British army were demobilized here yesterday after receiving their pay and transportation expenses to their homes.

U. S. ARMY LACKED FLAG K. OF C. SUPPLIED IT

Up at Ehrenbreitenstein in the Rhineland Seventeenth Artillery Needed Old Glory

Coblentz, Germany, April 10.—When the Seventeenth Field Artillery commanded by Col. E. R. W. McCabe moved into the ancient fortress of Ehrenbreitenstein, where for many generations the imperial colors of the Hohenzollerns had waved from the great flagstaff a defiance to the whole world, it was discovered that the unit did not possess a national standard to proclaim from the tallest parapet the passing of the front lines. McCabe, however, was not dismayed; he had a plan. "I thought I can fix you out all right," said the secretary, and in the depths of his private trunk he found his most cherished overseas possession, a huge American flag. "Understand, this is the only emergency that could ever get that flag away from me," was the emphatic admonition of the donor of the colors. Then followed the formal ceremony of the mounting of the colors in the hands of Col. McCabe. The impressiveness of the formal hoisting of Old Glory above that once great German stronghold is difficult to describe; every military detail was present. The troops in parade formation, a big fleet of American aeroplanes maneuvering in the brilliant sunshine, and the rendition of the National Anthem by the full regimental band proclaimed to the world the everlasting downfall of the lamparts which since their occupation by the legions of Julius Caesar have been the bulwarks of monarchy.

The incident of the colors is but one of scores of episodes in the record of war workers in the new occupied land of the A. E. F. From every outpost, from every leave area, and from every garrison daily reports indicate that the final months of America's military sojourn in Europe must be filled with the most intensive effort of all of the military war service bodies here. In Germany particularly is this imperative need manifest. It is here that the doughboy finds his entrance ad sense from home most reasonable. Intercourse with the native population is not encouraged; he is forbidden to move about among the shops and make the little purchases that are possible in any France; he is not permitted to enjoy the little pleasures which the French people find in other areas are so anxious to extend. It is therefore an irksome life at best, and in the interest of morale the distributors of America's great fund for his minor comfort must be doubly active.
