"A nation that expects to be strong must be established on Christian principles. It can never go higher than the aggregate of its individuals in morals, honesty, industry and righteousness. The home, the church and the school co-operate in the training of the young.

"Christian education is necessary for the full development of men Some one said that 'He who develops on the intellect becomes a skeptic, and he who develops only the intellect becomes a fanatic, and he who develops only the physical becomes a brute. But if one develops himself in all these ways at the same time, he becomes a well-developed, well-rounded, symmetrical man.

"The church and the Christian school stand together on a common platform for the proper development and growth of young people. They teach the same doctrines and aim at the same ends. They believe and teach the same facts concerning the family, the church, the State, the Bible, the Sabbath, morality wither great fundamental facts.
