Contest Closes Soon

Only a few more days remain in which to submit your advertisements for the prize contest. In case you've forgotten here are the terms and provisions:

Table with 2 columns: Prizes and Amounts. Millinery: 1st Prize $25, 2nd Prize $15. Dresses: 1st Prize $25, 2nd Prize $15. Suits: 1st Prize $25, 2nd Prize $15. Store Service: 1st Prize $25, 2nd Prize $15.

Write four ads — one on each subject. Make each one not larger than 175 words in length. A jury of advertising men in New York City will select the winners.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper — sign name and address and mail to my store. Anyone can compete whether or not a customer — provided she is not a professional writer. The prizes are payable in merchandise from my store.

Don't think that because so many will try that you have no chance. So far surprisingly few have entered. You'll have to defeat only a few competitors to win.

Sit down today — imagine you're running my store — scratch off four ads and mail them. It won't take a half hour. And it may mean a new frock or a couple of hats, or some waists, or in fact anything you desire from my stock—at no cost.
