To meet the new conditions rising following the cessation of hostilities a building program involving the expenditure $55,000 was announced last night following congregational meeting of members of the Grace Methodist Church.

FLOWERS AND FASHIONS WILL SHARE EASTER

houses, overflowing to the streets, while the produce and flower vendors registered a business such as has seldom been known in business history of the State Capital.

There were Easter eggs in abundance. In the markets this morning prices quoted for the country eggs ranged from 45 to 48 cents.

Confectioners' windows are filled with the delectable Easter candies which all kiddies delight. There are jelly eggs, chocolate rabbits, chocolate eggs of every size and candies of every conceivable Easter time shape.

Tomorrow's fashion parade will not be so elaborate as usual, it was predicted by milliners and haberdashers, because the signing of the armistice has left the country unsettled for a few months and people have not purchased clothing as extensively as in former years.

A feature of the celebration of Easter will be the church services in every Christian church in the city. Cantatas, glad Easter music, sermons on the resurrection of Christ, pontifical masses and services of praise and thanksgiving, expressing the joy of the faithful in the resurrection of the Christ, will be held in these churches.

Many city dwellers who love the outdoors will have opportunity tomorrow to tramp into the country and study the beautiful new spring flowers just bursting into bloom.

"And the Rock Was Rolled Away"

The congregation of the stars hung low; The east blushed coral with approaching day. Destined to transform the souls of men, When Mary found the rock was rolled away!

Our Easter dawns! The Jauggernaut of war Has crushed ten million souls in passing by. But left this fact: The rock is rolled away.

There is no death, there are no dead to mourn But down the highways of the Unseen Land Are thronging victors, those we loved and lost.

positions that pay an average of between $10 and $15 a week. Giving Employers Chance "And," continued the official, "I am not indulging in my dreams or merely letting off a lot of hot air. When I say a thing I have the facts back of my statements. I am not going to make known these concerns now, but I promise you that if there is not a great deal of change for the better they will be made as public as it is possible to make them."

"My reports have been checked, rechecked, certified, verified and every other thing that makes them trustworthy. I have the facts and I am going to see that conditions are remedied, or know the reason why."

"The Federal railroad administration, I might state, is one of the worst offenders. Railroads of the country sent their employees out by the thousands to fight for democracy. And these men were given the promise that their jobs would be waiting for them when they returned."

"The railroads are ready to carry out this promise, made in good faith when they were privately operated. Unreasonable Rule Blamed "No matter how many crosses of war he wears, nor how efficient an employe he was before entering the nation's service, the returned railroad employe had to be discharged under the unreasonable 'seniority' rule of the Federal railroad administration after the $750,000,000 revolving fund fell in Congress last March. Naturally, having been in the military service, the returned soldiers, sailors and marines were the last to be taken in and the first to be let out."

"I have in my hand at this moment a partial list—there were 157 in all—of those who met this fate in the employment of the Pennsylvania railroad at Altoona, and I have heard of similar cases in connection with not only the Pennsylvania railroad, but the New York Central and other big railway lines in Pennsylvania. The first step should be across the street to induce the Federal railroad administration to exhibit some symptoms."

"Let us have at least a variorum of patriotism in its attitude to those who walked the hero's way," he declared.

Men Who Went to France Early in 1917 Get Into New York

After twenty months of service in France, the Four Hundred and Sixth Telegraph Battalion arrived in New York City today on the cruiser Seaton. The outfit will be sent to Camp Merritt and will leave for Camp Dix, N. J., on Monday, to await a speedy demobilization.

The Four Hundred and Sixth Telegraph Battalion was organized in the spring of 1917 by The Bell Telephone Company, and is composed of former employes of the company residing in this and other sections of the country. The various units were mobilized and sent to Camp Alfred Vail, at Little Ferry, N. J., for training in adapting their peace-time vocation to war-time uses. It embarked on the transport Anitles for France early in August.

The battalion was one of the first two such units to enter France and was given the responsibility of handling all communication work for General Pershing and his staff when general headquarters of the American Expeditionary forces were moved from Paris to Chantilly. The Four Hundred and Sixth has the distinction of being the first unit of corps troops assigned to the First Army Corps after the headquarters troop.

Major-General Squier, chief signal officer, of the Signal Corps, is officiating at the review and public reception for its unit, to be held in Philadelphia some time during next week. The battalion will parade to the stretch of market in the vicinity of the Bell Parkway Building and will be addressed and separated from their corps. A reception and dinner will be given in its honor at Scottish Rite Hall.

Pilot, Navigator and Plane in Which They Hope to Cross Atlantic

Weather conditions have held up the start in the first attempt to make an airplane flight from America to Europe. Harry G. Hawker, who is to pilot a Sopwith machine, has been waiting for several days at St. Johns, N. F., with Lieutenant Commander MacKenzie Grieve, his observer, for word from the Canadian and English weathermen that the barometer promised good flying. Both Hawker and Grieve say the plane is capable of making the flight, and they have been chafing under the delay.

SAYS AMERICA ONLY CAN SAVE AMERICANS

Professor Gilbert Murray Advocates That the United States Accept a Mandate of the League of Nations

London, April 19.—"We ask America simply to assume a burden, to perform a service to humanity," says Professor Gilbert Murray, of Oxford University, in a statement advocating that the United States accept a mandate of the League of Nations to administer and protect Armenia.

"Armenia has been saved from the Turks and Kurds after suffering one of the most awful persecutions known in history," adds Professor Murray. "A remnant of the Armenians still alive can be reconstituted into a nation; but they will be too weak and disorganized to maintain independence or internal order, unless they are helped and protected by some other nation."

"The protecting nation must be very strong, absolutely disinterested, known and trusted by the Armenians, and not already overburdened by other duties elsewhere. There is no nation in the world except America which satisfies these four conditions. 'If America will accept the mandate, the Armenians can still be saved as a people; if America refuses, one more great region of the world is in danger of slipping into anarchy.'"

CHEERING NEWS BOOSTS MARKET

Shippings Feature Opening of Early Session; Steel Foundry Leads Equipments

New York, April 19.—Wall Street Foreign and Domestic news over the holiday invited further buying of stocks, the outset of today's short session, shippings featuring the spirited movement at gains of 1 to 2 points. Oils registered similar advances and motors, leathers, tobaccos and food specialties averaged one point gains. Equipments were led by steel foundry and Harvester, U. S. Steel also gaining a point. Rails were the only laggards, the firmness of investment shares being offset by moderate reactions in secondary issues.

Trading in stocks to-day was enlivened by further substantial gains on many speculative issues, notably shippings, equipments, oils, motors and food shares. Gains of 2 to 4 points accompanied the active demand for American International, Atlantic Gulf & Pacific, Harvester, Steel Foundry, Steel Springs, Pierce Oil, Studebaker, food products, Wilson & Company, Hide and Leather, pfr. and International Paper. United States steel gained over a point, but coppers were dull and rails sagged on light offerings. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 600,000 shares. Bonds, including Liberty issues, were variable.

PRODUCE MARKET Prices in the local produce markets include: Strawberries, 55c; tomatoes, 25c; string beans, $1; asparagus, 30-35c; peppers, 7-10c; celery, 20-25c; lettuce, 15-20c; cucumbers, 13-15c; spring onions, 5c; cabbage, 15-20c; potatoes (new), $1; apples, 40-45c; Okla. corn, 10c; corn, 10c; peas, 9c; dandelion, 5c; turnip, 10c; eggs, 45c; butter, 65c; rhubarb, 7-10c.
