YOUNG PIANISTE SCORES SUCCESS

Miss Alice Marie Decevee Presented by Wednesday Club Is Heartily Greeted

"Vení, vidí, vici!" The classic utterance of Julius Caesar might well be repeated by Miss Alice Marie Decevee this afternoon for truly, like the famous old Roman, she came, she saw, and she conquered. The occasion was the Wednesday Club's closing concert of the season in Fahnstock Hall, when the gifted young pianiste was presented in her first public recital. And, although she is a very young woman, it was the general consensus of opinion that she was the brightest star in the stellar firmament of the Wednesday Club last night.

"Genius never reproduces," runs the old adage. Miss Decevee most assuredly refutes this saying for, as the daughter of Prof. Edwin J. Decevee, the famous composer and musician, and of Mrs. Anna Patterson Decevee, soloist and director of the Zion Lutheran Church choir, she is a rarely gifted player, who leads one from the work-a-day world into higher realms of happiness. Beautiful tone and an exquisite delicacy of touch were appreciated by those present, many of whom were not technically speaking, musicians, but who love music for music's sake. And for those who know their arpeggios and flats and sharps and quarter notes, there was ample room for enjoyment, too, because Miss Decevee, as a local musician fitly and slangily expressed it, "caught them coming and going."

Chopin and Liszt, as usual, held the place of honor on the pianiste's program. She opened with the Mozart "Fantasia in D Minor" which suddenly subdued the bustling audience (mostly men) and played a following number, the Bach-Saint Saens "Gavotte in E," a rippling sprightly composition which evoked rounds of applause and a huge basket of flowers from her admirers.

Mrs. Arthur H. Hull, a popular Harrisburg soprano, and pupil of Horatio Connel, sang in charming style, two beautiful songs by Landon Ronald, "A Little Windy" and "A Little Windy Road," following with the weird "Song of India," and the Rummel "Ecstasy."

My Advertising Is Different Because My Store Is Different

"Your advertising is so different from the usual type," remarked a customer who had been reading the ads which dealt with colors and the color sense.

"My advertising practically writes itself," I replied. "By that I mean it is a direct expression of my store. It is because my staff has been trained in color combinations, for example, that it occurred to me to publish a couple of ads dealing with the subject.

The day when a merchant could buy merchandise — sell it — and let it go at that is passing. The more progressive merchants are offering skilled service with their goods. Personally I do not wish merely to keep abreast of the times I want to blaze a trail. It's because my store is different that my advertising is different.

"Now our Piano is no longer silent!"

Our daughter, whose music we loved so much, now has a home of her own, and plays for her husband and children. The piano—all we have left of her music, stands in its accustomed place, but closed and silent.

This is the story of many a home which was once enlivened with music, without which it is never quite the same, for the days pass strangely incomplete, lacking the song at the twilight hour, and the little concert of favorite pieces heard while sitting at the cheerful fireside.

But the happy hours may be made to return for there is magic abroad, and the wonder worker is the

AMPICO

Yes, it is a piano, a grand or upright, as you will and with it goes the pianist to play it for you!

Not one but many, the greatest names in the pianistic world, Busoni, Godowsky, Ornstein, Dumesnil and many others to play the great classic masterpieces; temperamental artists to play your favorite songs and old time music, the sort that goes with twilight and the fireside, awakening memories, re-creating happy hours and bringing joy with every measure.

The touch of a button performs the miracle and opens the door to the train of pianists who are waiting to give you their best through the medium of this wonderful instrument.

Come and hear it, but prepare to be surprised and delighted for what we have told you is only half the story of the Ampico.
