

APPEAL FILED IN ADAMS CO. AUDIT

First Step Taken in Straightened Out Tangle Discovers in Finance Account

Harrisburg, Pa., April 26.—The first step in the straightening out of the tangle made by the board of auditors in their auditing of the accounts of the county Treasurer was taken yesterday when Swope & Swope, representing Brady M. Sefton, County Treasurer, filed an appeal in the office of G. Harry Roth Prothonotary, setting forth specifically the items wherein the mistakes occurred and the amounts involved, the first definite information of these particulars that have been given out. There is no indication of when the court will act on the appeal or what course will be taken.

The appeal alleges the following errors in the report: "First. The auditors erred in failing to charge the appellant with the county's share of the liquor license for 1918, amounting to the sum of $70. Second. The auditors erred in charging the appellant with outstanding tax liens amounting to $186.53, this item being included in the tax duplicates with which the appellant is already charged, and amounts to a duplication of the charge. "Third. The auditors erred in charging the appellant with a temporary loan from the York Springs National Bank in the sum of $11,000, the loan made from said York Springs National Bank having been for the sum of $9,000. "Fourth. The auditors erred in charging the appellant with the sum of $84.77, paid by John Feeser for the support of insane, said money having been paid in the year 1917, and accounted for in that year. "Fifth. The auditors erred in crediting the appellant with the sum of $11,354.13, as the outstanding tax for 1918, the appellant being entitled to a credit of $16.36 in excess of that amount." The appeal concludes: "The said report of the auditors was filed in the Court of Common Pleas of Adams County on March 3, 1919, and the appellant presents herewith his reconciliation in the sum of $4,400, with two sufficient sureties conditioned according to law."

MACHINE GUNS FOR MARKSMEN

Adjutant General Prescribes the Course For Militiamen

The first course of firing ever outlined for machine gun units of the Pennsylvania militia has just been issued by Adjutant General Frank D. Beary for the 1919 work of the four detachments of militia now existing and such others as may be organized. It is to be effective on May 1. Under the rules every man connected with the detachments must qualify just as the members of other units must qualify with rifles or pistols. Four ranges are provided, three of them without time. The 200 yard range is to be in one minute, but there is to be a 500, 500 or 600 yards. Sharpshooters are those making 150 out of a possible 200 with a machine gun, marksmen 120; first class 100 and second class 80. A man attaining 75 will be entitled to go into the expert course where 85 out of a possible 100 qualifies him as an expert. In firing practice the gunner stands in position at the gun but in the 200-yard work the gun will not be pointed, but at a signal the target will appear and the gunner will aim and fire ten shots in a given time.

For Eight-Cent Fare

The Public Service Commission agency announced that "as a result of giving the company what appears to be necessary relief" it granted the application of the company for an eight-cent fare but not for a dollar. Instead it is to sell even tickets for fifty cents. The Commission was given application of the company for the right to charge an eight-cent fare. The Commission report goes into details of operation and estimates the reproduction value now of $1,695. The decision was given by Commissioner Alcorn who says there are peculiar conditions surrounding the operation of the railway which place it in a class of itself. Reference is made to the character of the country, the fact that there are few short riders and that while there are populous communities there are no large cities. Complaints against the eight-cent fare are dismissed.

Installation Defined

The Public Service Commission has dismissed the complaints of several individuals in vicinity of Philadelphia against the Springfield Consolidated Water Company, in which there were controversies over cost of installation of meters. The Commission settles the question by saying that the order issued in the original case required the company to install meters for the complainants at its expense and adds "by installation the Commission meant the setting of the meter, that is the insertion of the same into the pipe. The piping with the necessary valves for control and operation form part of the interior plumbing. Any work necessary to arrange the pipe for the installation of the meter and the necessary valves or cocks should be at the expense of the patron or property owner."
