RED CROSS TO TRAIN NURSES

Classes at Mechanicsburg to Start Under Supervision of National Society

Mechanicsburg, Pa., May 1.—Looking toward the start of nursing activities in communities, classes in health, hygiene and care of sick in the homes, will start in Mechanicsburg on Monday under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth F. Miller, from the division headquarters of the Red Cross in Philadelphia. These classes will include pupils from the high and grammar schools and citizens of the town, and it is planned to organize a class among those employed in stores and factories. The course consists of fifteen lessons and the only expense to members is one dollar, which includes text book and registration fee.
In connection with the work, a room will be furnished so that, throughout the course, practical demonstration can be made with an improvised patient, who will be a member of the class. Instructions will be given in bathing, haircombing, changing of linen and all phases of work in connection with nursing, especially in diseases, such as pneumonia and typhoid, including bathing and proper clothing.
The idea was evolved from a demand for knowledge in the care of the sick during the recent epidemic of influenza and pneumonia, when nurses were almost impossible to secure.
This course in training will be given at the expense of the American Red Cross from whom a certificate will be received by members of the classes when the course is finished.
