VICTORIA To-day and to-morrow—Mme. Petrova in "The Panther Woman." Wednesday and Thursday—"The Unchastened Woman."

The sketch that Thomas P. Jackson and Company are presenting at the Majestic, "Once a Thief," is a comedy-dramatic sketch, "Once a Thief," which tells the interest of the audience to the finish. Other acts on the bill are the Monarch Comedy Frazz, an excellent male quartet; a lively musical comedy offering, with eight people, entitled "Bon Voyage"; McDonald and Cleveland, song and comedy entertainers, and Jack Morrissey and Company in a whip-cracking novelty.

Record-breaking crowds greeted the initial show of the "Cambria" at the Theatre this morning. The Colonial picture, taken in the southlands and is a brimful of humor, pathos, comedy and thrill, including the best of the best.

The screen play is adapted from the famous novel by Robert W. Chambers, which has readers by the million.

To-day and to-morrow the Regent Theatre presents in her new Billie Burke photoplay, "Good Gracious, Annabelle." This production Miss Burke is seen as a young girl who is kidnapped by a hermit, during a battle over mining claims in the West. And he obliges her to marry him. When she cries, "I'll never marry you," he thrusts her brutally from him and leaves her to shift for herself. Subsequently he strikes rich and sends his wife monthly remittances, which she spends with great extravagance. At the end of the novel, however, Lawson goes East and they meet accidentally in queer situations which result that they are reunited and their relationship has been established.

The story came out of Paris before the armistice was signed that General Gourard, the veteran French commandant of the 1870, who made himself so effective in the late war, would leave. He leaves Bains while the band of the Three Hundred and Sixty-ninth Infantry was there. The old hero of two wars liked to listen to the jazz music of the famous band of the "Hell Fighters" and he was anxious to establish his headquarters wherever the band happened to be quartered. Lieutenant James Bains, European times, the handmaster of the famous colored pumphum band, was here at the Orleans Hotel, where the band was quartered. The whole French nation went wild over the band.

During fifteen months in the fighting zone, Lieutenant Europe's band was detailed for various times to lighten the spirits of the men in hospitals, the wounded men in hospitals, the men on leave from the front, and the people that stayed at Paris. They were detailed at Paris for a period where for their own music and were tired of the brand being detailed on the front. General Fershing had made the band and many soldiers and civilians who were in Paris tried to convince him that the joy-giving music was necessary to the morale of the French capital.

It was General Gourard that carried the petition to the American commandant, who was told him that the band should be sent back to the boys that were on the firing lines. They did return to the front and were organized were lonesome for their own music and were tired of the brand being detailed on the front. General Fershing had made the band and many soldiers and civilians who were in Paris tried to convince him that the joy-giving music was necessary to the morale of the French capital.

As Vert Bloom said recently in this New York Telegram, "I don't think we can dislike jazz music after we have what it meant on the other side. If France, which all countries in the world knows what art is, took the trap drum and the trombone to its heart in war times, then there is something to say for the jazz band in America now."

In the principal roles of "Friendly Enemies," which comes to the Orpheum, Friday and Saturday, are the phenomenal "Friendly" duo of Karl Pfeiffer, a German-born American, who is drunk on Kaiserbrau Kultur and his partner, in a comparison to this double-yed German is the thoroughly Yankee Doodle Dutchman, Henry Block, who is wild as because he is one of us and because we need him more than any other kind of ally in the world.

"Friendly Enemies," which has the personal endorsement of President Wilson, is well done and directed by A. H. Woods, its producer, who is sending a perfect cast to this city to interpret the various characters. This event promises to be the most notable of the present season.

It was done and done in England, which all countries in the world knows what art is, took the trap drum and the trombone to its heart in war times, then there is something to say for the jazz band in America now.

GLASS SPURS ON VICTORY LOAN

Sends Strong Appeal to Committees to Make Bigger Efforts

Washington, May 4.—With subscriptions to the Victory Loan lagging to a greater extent than in any of the four previous loan campaigns, secretary of the Treasury Glass at the beginning of the third and closing week of the drive sent to all campaign committees a strong appeal for a final effort that would not only raise but exceed the minimum quota of $4,500,000,000.

The Treasury yesterday received no official reports on subscriptions but on the basis of subscriptions tabulated last night slightly more than one-third of the minimum quota has been raised. Unofficial reports received to-day were said to indicate that at the outside not more than four-tenths of the loan had been subscribed.

Official figures for the various states of the first and second Liberty Loans, the accrued but not yet available information was said to indicate that on the eve of the final week more than four-fifths of the loan had been taken in each drive. In the third loan campaign at the start of the final week two-thirds of the total had been subscribed and the beginning of the third week of the last loan campaign about three billion dollars or one-half the total had been raised.

Total subscriptions officially reported in the Victory campaign total $1,657,979,350. To reach the minimum quota slightly more than $400,000,000 must be raised daily beginning to-day and ending Saturday night.
