Welcome Home

You, whom General Pershing said were "men of iron!" You, whom your division commander said were "second to none" as a fighting unit! You have returned from the great melting pot of vivid experiences. Glorious and priceless victories for a World Democracy have been inscribed on the pages of history as you swept the Hun from the Marne to Metz. Constantly under shell fire or within the sound of booming guns and subject to air raids and insidious gases, you were ever in the thickest of the fight. Having served in the forefront of the great American offensive at Chateau Thierry, on the Aisne and Vesle, in the Argonne Forest and the Death Valley of Fismette---you have won undying fame as victorious veterans, and the sheen of the Gold Stars will reflect everlasting glory on those immortals who paid the supreme sacrifice.

The words of Home Sweet Home will have a greater significance to you than ever before as you meet your loved ones who have Kept the Home Fires Burning. "Thy rocks and rills, thy woods and templed hills," no doubt made your heart thrill with greater rapture than in years of yore, as you beheld the shores of America again and sang, "My Country 'tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty."

The hearts of all Harrisburgers, and of those throughout the State, beat in unison as we welcome you home, and it is our pleasure and duty to lay our love and homage at the feet of all the men who have fought to redeem the world.
