HEADQUARTERS OF DRAFT CLOSED

Office Will Be Terminated on Saturday; Notable Work of Murdock's Force

Headquarters of the army draft system in Pennsylvania, located in this city for two years almost to the day, will be closed on Saturday, May 17. Telegraphic orders received by Major William G. Murdock, chief draft officer for the State, have directed him to close the establishment on that day and every effort is being bent to finish up the details of the work. Tons of records, materials, supplies and other things are to be moved from the headquarters to the State Capitol, trucks of the State Arsenal having been requisitioned to move them.

The headquarters have been located for over a year in the Board of Trade building with the building formerly as a temporary post office during the reconstruction of the Federal Building as the storage place for the millions of forms required for the operation of the draft. The original building used was found much too small.

During the progress of the draft the headquarters directed the registration of more than a million Pennsylvanians and issued calls which inducted almost a quarter of a million men into the army, navy or other branches of national service. An average of 2,000 letters, 500 telegrams and 500 telephone calls had to be handled every day and Major W. G. Murdock and his heads of division were frequently called upon to work from 12 to 14 hours a day. During the days when calls were being made the chief draft officer was compelled to spend twenty-four hours at his desk at a stretch.

Since the close of the war the headquarters staff has been gradually decreased and only about twenty-five persons are now employed.

Records a Problem.—Removal of the State Workmen's Compensation and Statistical bureaus to the building leased by the State for concentration of the State Department of Labor and Industry has developed a new problem for the State authorities. It is preservation of records.

When the Compensation Bureau moved it was found that there were thousands of agreements in compensation and other papers all of which had to be kept, while the statistical bureau turned up with almost half a million records of industrial accidents. Immense quantities of other papers were discovered and the problem of storage is assuming real proportions.

Thursday a Holiday.—Resolutions calling upon the Governor to proclaim Thursday, May 15, the day of the review of the Keystone Division at Philadelphia, as a legal holiday to be known as "Welcome Home Day," were adopted in the House on motion of Mr. Glass, Philadelphia. The Senate concurred.

Salary Bills Out.—The bills increasing salaries of the auditor general and State treasurer from $8,000 to $10,000, were reported to the House from committees last night.

Compensation Hearings.—The compensation bills will have a hearing Tuesday of next week.

Holiday To-Morrow.—Several departments of the State government will have a holiday to-morrow because of the legislative baseball game.

Mr. Mee retired six years ago. He recently acquired a considerable fortune in copper. He says he will remain in England.

A Word of Appreciation to Our Patrons

We are so enthusiastic about the wonderful Spring business our friends have been giving us, that we want to take this opportunity to tell you how thoroughly we appreciate it. The events of the last few months, including the many new customers who have been flocking to this store—led us to prepare for the greatest Easter business we ever enjoyed. But in spite of all our preparations our Easter business far exceeded our greatest expectations.

It therefore occurs to us that during the rush of our tremendous Easter business it is possible an error here and there may have crept into our service even though all possible steps had been taken to reduce errors to a minimum. Now, we feel that there may be some of our patrons who would hesitate to call errors to our attention—or any dissatisfaction on their part with merchandise purchased here.

And so we want to particularly emphasize that we would consider it a special courtesy and a decided favor, if you would tell us about anything you bought here that is not satisfactory. We stand ready and willing at all times to make right anything that is not right. We never regard any transaction complete until you are absolutely satisfied. And once more let us say we most heartily appreciate your patronage which has helped make this our greatest Spring season.
