

RULING ON FIRE NUISANCES MADE

Attorney General's Department Renders Big Opinion

Police powers of the State permit the chief forest fire warden of Pennsylvania to declare special fire hazards in forests to be public nuisances and to order their abatement.

The specific inquiries are as to power to order abatement of a break in a safety strip along a right of way of a railroad and the slashings left after lumber operations on lands adjoining State reserves.

The order abatement of such conditions is held to be clearly within the power of the forestry authorities of the State and the fire prevention act should, in the language of the opinion, "be given such a liberal construction and vigilant administration as will best protect the public ends."

It is held that it would be futile to establish safety zones and permit breaks to go unchecked, just as it would be contrary to the spirit of the various fire prevention acts to allow conditions to remain in slashings that would create fire hazards.

The warden must, in the hazy, definitely establish it and "proceed promptly to have the owner abate it."

In case of persistent refusal or neglect to remedy in a reasonable and practicable way the condition complained of, the chief forest fire warden should declare it a public nuisance and proceed to have it abated," concludes the opinion.

Old Order Leaves.—The Dauphin county court at the suit of the Attorney General and the Insurance Commissioner has handed down a decree closing up the Pennsylvania Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, the membership having been transferred to Delaware.

The order is the oldest on the list of the kind in Pennsylvania, having been authorized to transact business in 1868. The liquidation proceedings were undertaken under recent acts instead of by the old system of receivership, the Commissioner of Insurance becoming the official liquidator.

Smallpox Again.—Authorities of North Clarion borough, Allegheny county, will be called to account immediately by Col. Edward Martin, State Commissioner of Health, for their alleged action in refusing to detail men diagnosed as suffering from smallpox.

E. K. Trent, Deputy Attorney General, and Chief Medical Inspector Ellenberger at Pittsburgh have been directed to make an immediate investigation and to take such steps as the law directs. There are three cases in North Clarion, while smallpox has also been discovered in Harrison township, near Tarentum.

In the latter instance a child living in the house where the disease appeared is reported to have attended a Polish school. The department has urged all persons not vaccinated in the last five years to be re-vaccinated.

Repairs Ordered.—As a result of the meeting of the State Army Board yesterday, prompt steps will be taken to get every armory in Pennsylvania which the State owns into shape for the reorganization of the National Guard.

Reports were made as to each of the forty-eight armories and repairs and renovations ordered. The cost will run about $68,000, but the buildings will be ready for the muster in of the new units when the reorganization is worked out.

From what was learned, there is general interest in the reorganization among returned men.

Portraits Presented.—Portraits of the late members of the Supreme Court bench, Justices S. Leslie Meitzel and William P. Potter, were presented to the tribunal in Philadelphia Monday.

The paintings from the brush of Mihran H. Kivorkian, are the gifts to the Supreme Court from the Meitzel and Potter families. The portraits will be hung in the large consultation room of the Justices of the Supreme Court.

Justice Meitzel's picture was presented by M. M. Cochran, of Uniontown, Pa., and that of Justice Potter by Dr. Samuel B. McCormick, president of the University of Pittsburgh.

Governor William A. Stone delivered an impressive eulogy as Justice Potter. Chief Justice J. Hay Brown formally accepted the portraits on behalf of the court.

Chambersburg, Pa., May 14.—Just as he reported for work on the State highway near here yesterday morning, Philip Fraker, aged 60 years, fell over dead.

TONS OF WASTE TAKEN FROM CITY

Officers of Nursery Home Thank Public For Support of Campaign

The contents of Harrisburg households weigh several thousand pounds less. The collecting is nearly finished in the Nursery Home waste campaign to raise funds for their organization and enormous truck loads of all sorts of castoff and wornout waste material and rags have gone their way to the freight yards to be sold in one lot for the benefit of the Nursery Home of Harrisburg.

Harrisburg people have co-operated splendidly and the officers of the organization wish to extend them their heartiest thanks. They also wish to give public expression to their appreciation of the part played by the newspapers in making the campaign a success.

It was due to the publicity given to the campaign by the newspapers that such widespread enthusiasm and efficiency of the campaign made possible.

Practically every household in the city responded to the appeal. Most housewives combined the search for waste with their spring house cleaning and the past ten days have been marked by such a fever of carpet beating and scrubbing and cleaning as has been seldom seen at one time in this city.

When the last dustcloth is flapped and the last scrap of waste collected, Harrisburg homes and Harrisburg hearts will be in tune with the sunny spring season. For each home will know that in giving its waste it has done something towards a worthy cause.

A Returning Hero From the Battle Of Argonne Forest Told Us—

he didn't care to talk about the war. A stiff knee and a shrapnel scraped forearm gave mute but eloquent testimony as to what he endured. And we respected his wish.

That sort of reluctance is characteristic of real, red-blooded heroes who've faced the torments of a thousand deaths — it's the modesty of a valorous defender of the right.

What he wanted to talk about was GLOBE CLOTHES. He had been a "GLOBE REGULAR" before Uncle Sam gave him a uniform of khaki. He knew that GLOBE CLOTHES were in a class of their own for Style—for Quality—for Service and as he expressed it, "You were always 'there with the goods' before the war, but these new waistline styles are the best ever—some class!"

GLOBE CLOTHES cost no more than ordinary clothes.
