FRONT IN MARKET START

Steels, Coppers and Equipments Make Substantial Accessions

New York, May 14.—Wall Street, Steels, coppers and equipments made substantial accessions to yesterday's gains at the opening of today's stock market, rails and shipping also being in the lead.

The more substantial advances of the first half hour included U. S. Steel at 102 5/8, a new high for the steel market; Anaconda copper, Baldwin Locomotive, Mariposa common and Southern Pacific, Reading, South Atlantic, Gulf, Texas Eastern, Texas and New Orleans, also the Electric and Leather issues.

Royal Dutch oils were the only shares of prominence to show comparative steadiness. Industrials, especially equipments and steels, gathered fresh strength on very heavy buying, induced by reports that large domestic and foreign orders were about to be awarded. Rails were attracted by news of new western and southwestern agricultural centers confirming last week's official crop forecast.

SEEMING MAGIC OF TIDES EXPLAINED

By GARRETT P. SEVISS. "If the attraction of the moon is the main cause of the rise and fall of the surface of the ocean, and a given point on the earth will pass the moon but once in a lunar day of 24 hours and 48 minutes, the "tides" are how come to be two in a lunar day.

This seems to perplex a great number of people, and a topographical general has written the following explanation: "The tides are the result of the attraction of the moon and the sun, and the force of gravitational attraction varies inversely with the distance, i. e., as the distance increases the force decreases. The variation is inversely as the square of the distance, but that is a detail which, for our present purpose, we may ignore."

Now, turning to the diagram, let the solid circle represent the circumference of the earth, while the straight line drawn through the center shows the direction of the pull of the moon, which is supposed to be off toward the right, as indicated by the arrowhead on the line.

Let the little circles at the figures "1" and "2" stand for three particles, two of which are on opposite sides of the earth with respect to the moon, while the other is at the earth's center. The particles are, then, at equally distant points from the center of the earth and consider the three particles as if they were independent, simply being arranged at equal intervals on a straight line running from the center of the earth to the moon, as shown above. It is evident that the moon will draw particle "2" and also that it will draw particle "1" with greater force than particle "3."

Let us represent the effect of these variations in the attraction by the positions of the letters "A," "B" and "C." "A" shows how far the particle "1" is drawn, "B" how
