billeted with her. The meddling sister of the vicar of the village discovers that the widow has been merely abandoned by her husband and therefore, naturally, is no fit person to be entertaining lonely soldiers. This widow, however, refuses flatly to be put aside by such suspicions. She may have been abandoned by one man, but this does not mean that she is an abandoned woman and she is determined to prevent a threatened scandal. To do this she adroitly manages to serve to herself a telegram from Africa announcing the demise of her spouse. She has no sooner done this than she discovers that the last officer to arrive is her husband himself. This leads to a series of highly amusing complications which take the audience a-whirling through the whole three acts in a gale of laughter.

It is said the dialogue is particularly brilliant while there are ample opportunities for much of the more exquisite characterizations for which Miss Anglin is justly popular. Undoubtedly her numerous local admirers will be well pleased with this latest histrionic achievement.

METHODIST'S READY TO BEGIN DRIVE FOR BIG RECONSTRUCTION FUND

Warren VanDyke and the Rev. E. R. Heckman Are Chosen Leaders of Campaign in Harrisburg District

Baltimore, May 16.—Methodist churches are ready to celebrate the most eventful week in the history of the church. Beginning next Sunday, May 18, the churches will have 4,000,000 members of the church will join in rallies and other events that bring to a climax the Centenary campaign commemorating the hundredth anniversary of Methodist missions.

The final week marks the culmination of a campaign along the lines of interest, stewardship, life service and tithe. Between May 18 and May 25, church organizations will make a drive to raise funds for world-wide relief work and educational endeavor.

The churches in this area, comprising several states, are scheduled to contribute approximately $7,000,000 toward a fund of $105,000,000, which the entire church will raise, under the missionary Centenary survey to carry forward hundreds of humanitarian projects.

Suppers and other social gatherings are to feature the program in practically every church. Special Centenary meetings also are to be held. Minute men, recruited to carry the Centenary message will deliver reports received at headquarters here from all parts of this territory, and other sections of the Washington area, comprising Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia, show that financial campaigns in the area to-day, said a preliminary canvass revealed that this area will go "over the top" by a good margin with its quota.

Hundreds of churches already have gone over. Mr. Jeffery said. "Hundreds of others are ready to mark up their totals as soon as the financial drive is launched Sunday. Districts which apparently were weak because of local debts and improvements planned, will furnish the surprise of the campaign as scores of such churches already have their quotas pledged. We are let him go straight—they kept continually hounding him acting on the old maxim, "There's always a lull before the storm."

Then on the eve of Blackie's marriage a murder was committed. The murderer had cleverly covered his tracks that the police thought there was no mistake but what Blackie had committed the crime, so Blackie was arrested and taken to prison.

He was sentenced to twenty years. When the story of the picture "Blackie's Redemption" is shown, the picture is shown in "Children in the House."

ENORMOUS THROGS
SEE "A MIDNIGHT ROMANCE"
An estimated 5,000 people saw likeable Anita Stewart in "A Midnight Romance" at the Victoria theater yesterday. In this picture, the famous film star is at her best. The film is based on an incident which occurs at the role of Marie Alexander, a shipwrecked refugee who obtains a job as a chambermaid in a fashionable hotel. At that hotel the Sloan family, well known both in society and in the scandal world, are living. Roger Sloan, the son, is captivated by Marie's actions. First he meets her on the beach. It is midnight and there is a full moon. The waves kiss the shore, but then the reality strikes her as if a dream for he next meets her at a fashionable dance at the hotel. They dance together most of the evening. He pleads with her to learn her name. This she refuses to do. He tells her from his handkerchief and tells him when he receives that back he may come and see her. One day he comes and she is at the corner of his handkerchief and he attends a fashionable reception. There he meets her moonlight shadow. "You think the whole story has been told in these paragraphs but it has in fact only merely been started—when follows makes "A Midnight Romance" a picture every woman will enjoy and take pride in. Anita, by the way, is a picture was produced by women alone. The star is a woman, the director is a woman, the story is a woman's story—but if you have ever seen a more clever play conceived by men you've got to show it.

Dancing for the camera is no simple matter, according to Marguerite de Motté, the beautiful girl, now supporting Bessie Barriscale in "The Girl of the Year." Marguerite has been dancing ever since she was seven years old. She creates her own dances and is shown in a charming hunting scene pitter-pat skit in this picture. The difficulty about dancing for the screen she claims is that the dancer is confined to a very limited space. "Some people may be able to dance on a dollar," she says, "but the artistic dancer must have plenty of space."

YOU'VE SAID IT
All actors and actresses have a scrap-book in which they try to keep all the clippings and pictures printed about them. In this respect the beautiful Anna Q. Nilsson, star of Metro's "The Way of the Strong" is not unlike her sister stars.

ONE CAN DERIVE GREAT PLEASURE, said Miss Nilsson, "from a scrap-book. I know I do and I do occasionally have such fun. The styles change so in the pictures."

BUT A SCRAP-BOOK, said her friend, "is so tiresome; the same thing each time you look at it."

TO YOU KNOW, responded Anna, "that there is nothing except the old family album which will give you so many laughs as the scrap-book."

VICTORIA FORD TO RETURN
According to statements made in Los Angeles, Victoria Ford, wife of Tom Mix, will return to the screen, to take the role of leading lady in some of Tom's forthcoming productions. Before marriage, Mrs. Mix played opposite Tom Mix in a number of pictures.

OAKMAN MUSTERED OUT
Wheeler Oakman, considered one of the best looking and talented men who has appeared before the camera, is back from France. He was attached to the 14th Engineers. Metro has signed a long-time contract with him. He is to play a leading role in Metro's latest picture, now being filmed, "Madame of the Red Woods."

MADGE EVANS PLAYED FROM SCHOOL
Several days ago the cameramen were ordered to go to Madge Evans' private school and film her studying without her knowledge of it. Madge, by the way, is one of the "Junior stars." She is now about ten years old. The cameramen went to school and hid the machine behind large curtains, oiled the mechanism so it wouldn't be noisy and then started cranking at a person they thought was Madge. They had filmed slightly more than 100 feet when the supposed-to-be Madge turned around and looked squarely at them. A few words of unheeded language filtered through the curtain and an excited cameraman approached the school teacher with the question, "Where is Madge?" Receiving a negative answer, the cameraman disappeared down the street camera on shoulder. There in front of a Los Angeles theater he saw the little world star looking at a picture of herself. What Mrs. Evans did to the young star has been censored.

RETURNED SOLDIERS ARE SEEKING THE OPEN AIR BY DESIRE TO RETURN TO FARM

Many Inquire Into the Government's Plan For Providing Land; Question Up to Congress

Washington, May 16.—With an ever-increasing flood of men returning home from the war to take up the tasks of civil life, many of them with greatly changed ideas of life and ambitions and in a quandary as to just what to do, are appealing to the Department of the Interior for information as to the intentions of the government in its proposed plan of providing farms for soldiers.

Such a deluge of requests has been received from the men who wore the uniform as to emphasize the lesson of all other wars that the service men, because of army life, with its openness and activity, largely seek out-of-doors vocations.

The Interior Department has already explained to more than 40,000 men that the development of its plans rests solely with Congress. It is expected that early in the extra session which convenes May 19, there will be introduced bills covering the farms-for-soldiers plan.

Briefly the department is saying that, if such legislation is passed, work will benefit the soldier. The development of co-operative farm settlements for soldiers and sailors in nearly all of the States. In practice, these lands are scattered in the form of small parcels. In the East there are large areas of land suitable for this purpose. There is dry land in the West that needs water, and in the South there are large areas of cut-over or logged-off timber lands from which it will be necessary to blow the stumps and clear off the underbrush. In the South is a large amount of cut-over land and swamp land which must be drained.

Many of the soldiers have asked if it will be possible for them to obtain a job near their homes by draining, clearing, irrigating and improving these lands. That again depends upon the action of Congress in providing the money for construction. The plans propose that the settlements be scattered all over the country, so that it would be possible for every honorably discharged soldier or sailor or marine to work near his old home. There would be work of all kinds in connection with these settlements, from the highest technical and clerical positions to that of laborer.

The plan involves "the new farm idea" in that there will be built what are known as community settlements, each containing a number of farms, so that the men will have near neighbors, good roads over which to bring their produce to town, and a market for the sale of the produce within a short distance from the farm home. Efforts will be made to overcome the handicaps of farm life that are driving the people to the cities. The lack of society in the country, the distance between farm homes, the remoteness from the post office and the newspaper, the desire for better school facilities for the children, under the new way there will be the farm village, the settlement of farmers around a center which is their home, in which can be gathered the best of the advantages of the city—the good school, the church, the moving picture, the well-outfitted store, and these, with the good roads, the rural express, the telephone, the automobile and the post office will make life on the farm a thing of far different meaning from the isolated life it has been.

May Select a Farm
After these service men have built the dams and canals, cleared the cut-over land of stumps, or built the ditches to drain the swamp lands; after they have helped to erect houses and barns, built fences, constructed roads and laid out town sites, built creameries, canneries, warehouses and schools, after they have in fact reclaimed the land, the government intends to allow the men to pick out one of these farms. The plan provides that these farms and homes shall be paid for in small payments over a long term of years. It is expected that the men will be able to pay the first small payment out of the wages received from the government in helping to build these settlements. The balance can be paid from the proceeds from the sales of crops.

It is planned that the government will also furnish the new farmers with the necessary stock and farm implements, these to be paid for in small payments spread over several years.

These farms will contain from forty to eighty acres for general farming purposes, from eighty to one hundred and sixty acres for live stock purposes, from fifteen to twenty acres for fruit farms and from five to twenty acres for truck farms.

Competent instructors in farm practice will be stationed on each project to teach the men how to make a success of farming. This will make it possible for men who know nothing about farming to make a success of these farms. The plan is to be open to every man who has worn Uncle Sam's uniform in the great war.
