For Particular People. Hotel Pennsylvania appeals to people who want the best there is—and are used to having it. Though it is the largest hotel in the world (2200 rooms, 2200 baths), its chief claim to distinction is its character. It provides everything—including the intangible things—which the discriminating traveler wants of his New York hotel. Complete and Extra-Comfortable. Every bedroom in the Pennsylvania has private bath, circulating ice-water, and many other unusual conveniences—including the ingenious "Servidor," which saves time and trouble by eliminating contact with servants in sending things to or from your room. Clothes to be pressed, laundry, and similar articles are put into a receptacle built into your bedroom door; the employee who handles them opens the receptacle (not the door itself), and doesn't even see into your room. A morning paper is delivered free to every guest-room; a well-selected library is at your service; thoughtful provision for your comfort and convenience is shown by many unusual equipment-features—such as the reading-lamp at the head of your bed, the full-length mirror in every room, the portable desk-light, etc. And at These Rates: Rooms for one person at $3, $3.50, $4, $5 and $6; for two, $5, $6 and $7 (with twin-beds, $6, $7 and $8); parlor suites, $12 and up.
