CENTRAL HIGH NOTES

Senior Class Meeting The senior class met yesterday afternoon at the close of the afternoon session. The primary reason for the assemblage of the class was to decide where the class should go for its class trip. Only two places were presented, the assembled class considered, Luray Caverns and Mt. Gretna, Washington, D. C., was at the time up for consideration by the executive committee, but had to be dropped on account of the uncertainty of accommodations. The class which was called, and was decided, by vote, that the class should go to Luray Caverns, Virginia, the exact date for the trip has been decided, but will probably be the forepart of the week of June 1.

Demosthenian Thursday The Demosthenian Literary Society will hold its last meeting of the year this Thursday evening at the home of Miss Virginia Downes, 1811 North Second street. President Carl B. Stoner urges every one to be present at this meeting in order that all members may receive final instructions for the picnic.

New H. A. Members The H. A. Society will be continued next year, and five members of the class of 1920 have been initiated as charter members. The initiation took place at the home of Alton Smith, Cameron Extension, with the full membership of this year's society on hand to put the Juniors through the famous thirteenth degree. A lengthy business meeting occupied the forepart of the evening, during which the 20's were given a talk by each member of the present society. The new officers elected are: President, Richard Robinson; vice president, Wayne Snyder; secretary, Earl Wright; treasurer, Joseph Bringer; toastmaster, James Craiglow; "big feed" was spread before the new members and received their assignments for next year, and the initiation followed the supper. "The Dance of the Witches" and "Paddy's Movements" were two of the many features that the Juniors participated in during the amusement of the evening. The persecutors and the persecuted are as follows: Stuart McBride, Boyd H. Hocker, Robert W. Crist, Richard Quigley, Carl B. Stoner, Earl Wright, James Craiglow, Joseph Bringer, Joseph Minnich, Arthur Hibler, Richard Robinson, Wayne Snyder, Earl Wright, James Craiglow, Joseph Knauft and "Ike" Jeffries.

Demosthenian Picnic Carl B. Stoner, president of the Demosthenian Literary Society, has completed all plans for the annual society picnic. It will be held this Saturday afternoon on McCormick's Island. Arrangements have been made with the City Park Department for the use of the island on that afternoon, and a program committee, with the aid of Miss Mary Orth, censor of the society, has worked out a series of "stunts" that will keep every member of the society busy during the whole afternoon.

Picnic Postponed The picnic of the Senatus Populscus Romanus that was to have been held last Saturday afternoon, has been postponed until the afternoon of Saturday, June 1. It will be held in Wildwood Park. Rain prevented the Latin Society from holding the picnic on the date set, and June 1 is the only Saturday that all the members will be able to enjoy the picnic together. Miss Katherine McBrine, the censor of the society, had worked out some interesting classical games for the picnic, and expects to use them when the picnic is held in June.

Last Philonian Meeting Harold Conner, of the host of the Philonian Debating Society at the home of Richard Quigley, Derry, and Eighteenth streets. With this meeting, the Philonian Debating Society ceased to exist. Because of the small number of boys remaining in the school, the members of last year's society instructed the 1919 members to discontinue the society at the end of this year. The Philonian has been in existence since 1908, and until the election of the Demosthenian Literary Society, is the oldest Central society. Many of its old members are now prominent men of the city and State, and clearly recall the days when the P. D. S. afforded them many pleasant evenings together. Although the society was organized primarily for the promotion of debating, it has always aimed to combine the social life with the educational. The dances given annually by the Philonians have always been among the largest hops given by any of the school societies. This year has been no less successful than the previous ones. Five of the society's members were members of the two victorious debating teams representing the school this year, and in recognition of their work the society presented the school with a handsome lot of new school supplies. The P. D. S. is now a thing of the past, but its influence will be felt in Central for many years to come.

Invitation to Boys The University Club has invited the Senior boys to attend their annual "Go to College" banquet on Monday night at Technical High school. This announcement was made to-day by Professor Walter E. Severance, and tickets for the banquet will be in his hands within a few days.

Offers Scholarship According to a communication from Lehigh University, that college offers a limited number of scholarships to boys and girls who have high standing throughout their four years' high school course. The scholarships are worth $150 each, and are for courses in the school of Liberal Arts and Sciences which has been recently organized.

Central Man Honored Word has been received at Central from Harvard that D. Verne Wilder of the class of 1916, has been awarded a scholarship of the first group in that institution. Mr. Wilder has also been admitted to the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity, the honorary fraternity of the country, on account of his high scholastic standing.

First Class Sergeant, Richard A. Moyer, stationed in New York City, has returned to duty after spending a brief leave of absence at his home on North Thirteenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Ross and children Marie and Helen Ross, of Jersey City, are guests of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Anson B. Morgan, of Green street, for a few days.

Miss Pauline Richenbach of Scranton, was a recent guest of her cousin, Miss Pearl Barkley, of North Third street.

LARGE AUDIENCE GREET'S ORGANIST

Charles M. Courboin Receives Highest Commendation For His Delightful Program

It was a veritable feast of music that was presented in Bethlehem Lutheran church last night when Charles M. Courboin, organist of the First Baptist church, of Syracuse, N. Y., and municipal organist of Springfield, Mass., appeared in recital. He was brought here by the Harrisburg Association of Organists. The musician showed exceptional judgment in the selection of his program, opening with the Handel-Guilant Concerto in D Minor, and playing the Lento with pedal cadenza, the Scherzo and the beautiful largo and finale. The Concerto was originally composed as a novelty being produced in the Haymarket theater, London. The finale was brilliant, and bravura technique to an unusual degree was displayed in its rendition.

Mally's "Andante from First Sonata," followed. This is the noted Brussels organist's best work. It is sustained and melodious with exquisite ornamentation. "The Scherzo Cantabile," by Lefebure-Wely, was next presented. Without the presentation of something from the brain of one, Johann Sebastian Bach, no organ recital would be complete. Dr. Courboin played one of the most famous of the great composer's work, "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor." This concerto is not only one of the most beautiful of its kind, but also one of the most powerful and overwhelming masses, the program advises. It ends in a coda in which the resources of the organ for presenting magnificent harmonies and pouring out a majestic volume of sustained tones are put to the highest uses.

Two tender, dreamy Schumann "Two tender, dreamy Schumann songs," "Evening Song" and "Sketch," were beautifully played. If there are any numbers which reveal the sensitive, romantic side of Robert Schumann. They are these pretty selections.

Dedicated to Courboin "The Allegro from Sixth Symphony," by Charles Marie Widor, was an outstanding feature of the program. The Sixth Symphony was dedicated to Mr. Courboin by the composer who was greatly impressed by his playing. The first rendition in America was that of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra in the Wanamaker Philadelphia auditorium with Mr. Courboin at the great organ.

The two closing numbers were from the works of Saint-Saens. The first was a charming "Nuptial Benediction," and the second the majestic "Marche Heroique." Between the two the organist interpolated an imitation of a twentieth century piece with admirable effect.

Perhaps the most wonderful number of the entire program was the Bach composition. The playing was as precise and definite as clockwork, and yet it had warmth of feeling and beauty of shading and contrast so far above the ordinary playing as to place him in the absolute virtuoso category. The speed of the Fugue was terrific.

Taken all in all, the recital of Mr. Courboin was an artistic triumph which far exceeded anything of the sort ever heard in the city. Those who recalled the first recital of Bethlehem church were delighted to contrast the two recitals. At that time Clarence Eddy was at the organ. An obstinate key simply and vulgarly struck, regardless of the attempts to bring it to terms and while Eddy played a magnificent program, his recital was almost an utter artistic failure.

AUDIENCE ENJOYS COLLEGE SONGS

Gettysburg Glee Club Pleases With Unexpected and Clever Numbers

A local lad, Paul R. Clouser, led the Glee Club of Pennsylvania College straight to victory last evening at the concert given by the combined musical clubs of that institution, in the auditorium of Technical High school. The orchestra, composed in part by local men, and ably led by F. W. Sunderman, opened the event with the "Raymond Overture," by Thomas. The next number on the program was "America Triumphant," Demarest, sung by the Glee club. F. W. Sunderman played a violin solo which met with decided approval judging by the applause following. Mr. Sunderman plays well and leads even better, if that is possible. His orchestra was under perfect control and the manner in which the members responded to his leadership was truly remarkable. In the "Egyptian March," by Strauss, the interpretation was so perfect and the effect so accurate that one was carried back to ancient Egypt and the days of the Pharaohs. Too much credit cannot be given to J. W. Doub whose excellent work at the drums contributed greatly to the success of the selection. A vocal duet by J. W. Drawbaugh and Paul R. Clouser, entitled "The Gypsy Song," over the top, closed the first half of the program. The costumes worn were clever and the unexpected flourishing of a vicious knife "brought down" the house.

The Glee Club started off the second half of the program in fine shape by singing "The Gypsy Trail," by Gallovey, and "My Lady Orlow," a negro love song by Clough-Lightner. Vociferous applause recalled them and they responded by singing "That's Where My Money Goes," much to the delight of the audience. The orchestra then played "The Fox Chase," by Lillenthal, in such a realistic manner that it was easy to follow them through the various movements, from the morning call to the return home. "Song of the Vikings," by Eaton Fanning, was sung by request, followed by "Pack Up Your Troubles," from Faust by the orchestra and a combined number, "Songs of Gettysburg," closed the program.

Drum; reading, "Jean Valjean" and the Bishop; Mrs. James Smyser; selections by Riverside Mandolin and Guitar Club, "Beautiful Orlow" and "A Little Bit of Honey"; "To Spring," Opus 43, No. 6, Rimsky-Korsakov; Miss Anna Mary De Verter; bass solo, W. Ray Chapman; M. Beach; "The Year at the Spring," "Little Mother of Mine," Burleigh; "Berceuse," Opus 5, B. Bartomeo; "Menuet al Antiquo," Opus 14, No. 1, Faderewski, by Robert R. Drum; orchestra, U.
