

TURK PROBLEM NEW PUZZLE IN PEACE CONFAB

Situation Revolves Around Disposal of Sultan and Religion

Paris, May 22.—The Turkish problem has become most acute in the Peace Conference. Various delegations are striving to find some solution for the dismemberment of the empire which will provoke a religious war.

The United States is being looked to by the other powers, as the only Nation which can become the mandatory for Constantinople, without the danger of precipitating another European war, but the American delegates to the Peace Conference express doubt of the willingness of the United States to accept the mandate, especially under the conditions which the powers have outlined.

With the Sultan removed from Constantinople, the American delegates expressed the belief that it might be possible for the American public to become reconciled to the mandate. However, the Indian delegation which has appeared before the Council of Four to plead for special consideration for the feelings of the Mohammedan world, assert that the Sultan must not be forced out of Constantinople, declaring that such action would greatly affect his standing in the church. Consequently, Great Britain is seeking to have the Sultan remain in Constantinople as head of the Moslem faith, but with purely spiritual powers.

WOMEN VOTERS OF REPUBLICAN PARTY CONFER

Chairman Hays Issues State- ment; Have Full Equality in Organization

Washington, May 22.—Women are entitled to participate in the affairs of the Republican party on an equality with men. They come in just as other voters, according to National Chairman Will H. Hays, in a statement which he made today at the opening of a conference of party workers at the Wardman Park Inn, in this city.

The women are not to be given second-class consideration, Mr. Hays said, but full consideration due all other individuals in the party. They will not be distinctly organized but amalgamated.

The conference, which will continue two days, is held under the auspices of the Republican Women's Executive Committee. It includes state chairmen from the different states and representative Republican women from each one of the states. The conference is called to discuss matters of party organization, and has brought many prominent political figures, men and women, together.

Mr. Hays' Statement

Mr. Hays on announcing that the women would be given full equality of consideration, said: "The Republican Women's National Executive Committee, under whose auspices this meeting is held, has been appointed to act with the Republican national committee in an effort to devise ways and means to make certain the full participation by the Republican women in the party's affairs."

"There is but one possible rule for a political party, and that is that the rights of the individual membership to participate in the management of the party's affairs must be and remain equally sacred and sacredly equal. The Republican women in this country are a part of the party membership. In many states this has long been so. They come into this party activity not as women but as voters, entitled to participate, and participating insofar as the present legal limitations permit, just as other voters. Their activity is not supplementary or secondary at all—they are units in the party membership, and where the suffrage for them is new they come in just as men have come in when they have reached the legal voting age. They are not to be separated or segregated at all, but assimilated and amalgamated, with just that full consideration due every working member of the party in the rights of their full citizenship."

"There is to be no separate women's organization created with the party except and only in those cases where such an arrangement may be needed temporarily as an efficient instrument in the aid of the complete amalgamation which is our objective. I am convinced that the Republican women will enter into the party's activities with that sense of responsibility and serious attention to their party's affairs which is due the only instrument through which all individuals can apply their patriotism, all to the end that the problems of government, immeasurable in magnitude and complexity, which now confronts this country, may be properly solved."

Mrs. Medill McCormick, as head of the Republican Women's National Executive Committee, Miss Mary G. Hay, of New York, Mrs. Raymond Robins, of Illinois, Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, of California, Mrs. Margaret Hill McCarter, of Kansas, Miss Maude Wetmore, of Rhode Island, were among the women prominent in the conference.

To-night there will be a banquet at which Senator Cummins, Speaker Gillett and Mr. Hays will be the leading speakers. Mrs. McCormick will present Miss Mary G. Hay as toastmistress.

In the Realm of Nature Timely Articles Furnished by the Harrisburg Natural History Society

The bright planet Jupiter and the evening star Venus will be in close conjunction next Sunday, May 25, a striking spectacle in the western sky from a half hour after sunset until 11 p. m., when they both set in the northwest. It will be interesting to watch them gradually come together during the intervening days. This evening they are less than five degrees apart; this distance will be reduced to slightly over two degrees on May 25, after which they will again slowly draw apart.

You will have no difficulty in finding them, as they are easily the two brightest stars in the west. As you face this direction, the right hand one of the pair, and the brighter of the two, is the planet Venus, now evening star. The one to the left, dimmer and of a yellowish hue, is Jupiter.

The latter is more distant and moving less rapidly than Venus. On May 25 Jupiter will be 552 million miles from the earth, and Venus ninety-five million. At that time, too, Jupiter and the earth will be drawing apart a million miles a day, while Venus will be approaching us somewhat more than two-thirds of a million a day. Jupiter is moving eastward in the sky only one-fifth of a degree per day, Venus more than a degree and a half.

To the man in the street Venus no doubt looks the larger of the two, its glare resembling a big arc light, but appearances are deceptive. Jupiter is 1,400 times as large as Venus, but it is more distant. Venus is just a trifle smaller than the earth.

On June 1 the new moon will be near these two bright stars, thus affording the unusual sight of the three brightest heavenly bodies (after the sun) within, relatively speaking, a very small region of the sky. M. W. J., JR.

It replaces the accommodation leaving here at 7:35 p. m. The old Seashore Express, formerly leaving here at 12:05 p. m., will leave at 12:01 and will make but nine stops between Harrisburg and Philadelphia.
