THOUSANDS TURN OUT TO WELCOME HOME TROOPERS

Men Given Tremendous Ovation Late Saturday Evening

All Harrisburg seemed to turn out Saturday night to greet the returning heroes of the old Governor's Troop, now veterans of Batteries E and F of the One Hundred and Eighth Field Artillery, when they came home after months of overseas service.
From the Pennsylvania Railroad station to the Armory at Second and Forster streets thousands of relatives and friends crowded the streets over which the boys marched cheering and applauding the heroes to a degree equal to any home-coming celebration.
Although a few friends were with the committee of the Home Folks' Victory Association when the train came in with the boys Saturday night causing a slight delay in forming the men into line, this was soon overcome and the men started their march to Market street, where a waiting line of bands, veteran and patriotic organizations received the signal to start the parade.
To the noise of beating drums, ringing fire bells, shrieking whistles, and cheering thousands these heroes paraded west in Market street, to Front, where flowers were strung in their path, then north in Front to State, to Second, to the armory where wives, mothers, sweethearts and crowds of friends were waiting to greet them and take them home.
Lieutenant Horace Geisel was in charge of the men as Major George W. H. Roberts, of Steelton, could not return on Saturday evening because of military duties which retained him at camp. At the armory Colonel James B. Kemper introduced Mayor Keister, who briefly welcomed the boys back again.
The formation of the parade was, city police, etails from recruiting station, Municipal Band, G. A. R. and Sons of Veterans, Pennsylvania Reserve Military Spanish War Veterans, Moose Band, City Grays, Veterans of Foreign Wars, veterans of the late war, Home Folks' Victory Association, Red Cross workers, Commonwealth Band and the members of Batteries E and F.

With Colonel Frederick M. Ott, chief marshal, were Captain George P. Drake, Captain Robert D. Jenkins, Lieutenant Josiah Wilbur, Lieutenant Charles A. Kline and Charles H. Burg.
The details of officers marching just in front of the returned boys included Lieutenant Colonel Edward H. Schell, Major John S. Spicer, Captain George C. Jack, Captain William L. Hicks, Lieutenant Harold Hippel, Captain Leo Luttlinger, Sergeant John Spangler, Captain Charles P. Meek, and Captain E. Laubenstein.
The men who returned with the old Governor's Troop Saturday night were:
Lieutenant Horace Geisel, Earl E. Sheesley, William H. Novinger, J. D. Novinger, James D. Groves, Robert S. Cowan, Henry L. Baker, Norman P. Smith, George F. Lawrence, Stanley Shupp, I. M. CHANGE CHURCH NAME
Saint Augustine Episcopal congregation, believing the location in Herr street not sufficiently centrally located, has decided to erect a new church at 630 Forster street. The new church will be named "The Church of the Holy Cross."
Decision to change the location of the church was made last fall after considerable discussion. The property has been converted into a chapel and residence and will be used as such until the new chapel is built. The present chapel will be used as a church hall. The opening services will be held next Sunday.

ORGANIZE FOR EQUAL RIGHTS

The Colored Race Fights Jim Crowism and Lynching Without Trial

Colored people are organizing to secure the rights of citizenship which are presently denied them, according to the annual report just published of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Throughout the country eighty-five new branches had been members, largely colored, were added to the organization, or an increase of over 100 per cent in the number of branches.
In making public the report, John R. Shillady, secretary of the association, said the membership had increased since January 1 by forty branches and 9,000 additional members. The increase, he said, was more than the total membership a year ago.
Lieutenant Jailed
The report states that the War Department in several instances refused to provide redress for colored officers who had been ordered out of the South, despite the efforts of the association. Several such cases, including that of Lieutenant C. A. Trickett, are recited as follows in the report:
"In March, the case of Lieutenant C. A. Trickett, a graduate of Yale and of the Scientific School, who had been forced out of a Pullman coach at Chickasha, Oklahoma, lodged in jail and fined, was presented to the department. In June, the case of Private S. P. Jones, in private life a dentist of good standing in St. Louis, Mo., was similarly laid before the War Department. Private Jones was ordered out of a Pullman at Texarkana, on the border between Arkansas and Texas. In neither case, despite the fact that both soldiers were traveling on government order, and had been furnished Pullman transportation, did the War Department afford a remedy, or make any attempt to do so, other than to inform the association that the matter was thought by a high subordinate of the Secretary of War to have to do with the execution of State orders. It had been referred to the Adjutant General for an opinion. Despite the further efforts of the association, including widespread publicity of its protests, no redress was afforded."
It is further charged by the association that President Wilson took no action of which it was informed to insure that colored soldiers in camps might vote.
Discrimination by Government
Employment discrimination against negroes in government departments in Washington is reported by the association.
"It is the belief of the District of Columbia branch," says the report, "based upon experience and upon proof, that it is the settled policy at present of many of the heads of federal departments to discriminate against colored people wherever possible. The policy of the civil service commission in requiring photographs of applicants permits of colored discrimination in an easy way and is so used by many of the departments."
Nine Lynched in 1918
The association's report of its fight against lynching shows that sixty-seven persons were lynched in 1918, of whom four were white men and five were colored women. Among the offenses charged against the victims of lynching were "greatly disturbing," three cases of "stealing hogs," one case of "aiding mob victim in attempt to escape," and six persons lynched on "conspiracy to avenge killing of relative." Fourteen lynchings occurred following charges of the "murder of civilian," and four on charges of "shooting and wounding."
Victims Admitted Innocent
"In three cases of which we have records," says the report, "the press has spoken of the innocence of victims; one of these involved three persons, another the ten victims of Brooks and Lowndes counties mobs (aside from the one person who shot the white farmer which was the incentive to the lynchings.) In another case it is the common belief in the community which a negro was lynched for 'killing a white woman' that the husband of the woman was himself the murderer. No charge has been brought against him, however, by the authorities. In an additional case a bank cashier declared in an interview in an Alabama paper, that a certain lynching victim had committed no offense, that there had been a mistake made in the man the mob was after."

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Redday and son, who spent some time in town as the guests of the latter's aunts, the Misses Harriet and Annie Kocov, High street, have gone to Ohio, where they will visit relatives before returning to their home at Boston, Mass.
The welcome home meeting held by Poketa Tribe No. 315, I. O. R. M., in their room in Ann street, Saturday evening, proved a success and was attended by fully seventy-five persons.
Revival Services Will Be Held at Epworth
Large audiences attended the morning and evening services at the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday. The Rev. Homer C. Knox, pastor, spoke in the morning on "The Conquest of the World," reviewing the past history of the church and its work. He declared that he did not believe God would have forgiven America had this country not entered the World War. In the evening the subject of his sermon was, "Why Do Men Fight?" At the close of this service a number of young people accepted the pastor's invitation to join the church. Revival services are to be held during the week, with special sermons by the Rev. Mr. Knox.
