There are three pressures, twelve, fifteen and twenty inch pressures. Some idea of the need of high pres-sure is conveyed by saying that some of the wood pipes are two feet in diameter, the wood being two inches in this organ, which also has chimes and harp attachments. "The builder of this organ, M. P. Moeller, of Hagerstown, Md., has in-formed me that he knows of no bigger organ built especially for a religious organization. There are three separate blowing plans, one # either side of the west end of the building, each of seven and one-half horsepower. The pipes range from a midget of three-quarters of an inch in diameter to the largest, which is thirty-two feet long. "The control and operation of the instrument is wholly electric, and the matter of wiring is not one of the least items—more than twenty one miles of wire has been installed. The Pershing family fought in a war in 1744, but that was when the family was located in Kehe, Alsace-Lorraine, when Emperor Charles called out his men against the Magyars. All able-bodied men between the ages of sixteen and fifty years were called on to defend their lands against the Austrians. The head of the Pershing family had no love for the emperor, and saved enough money to send his son to America. He scattered gold coins under his hearthstone, and in a letter directing his son to them said he hoped the money would enable him to reach America and that one of his forefathers would be able to return and redeem Alsace Lorraine. PRESIDENT FOR ONE DAY. Middletown

In the list of Presidents of the United States the name of David R. United States the name of David R. Atchison does not appear. Yet in the opinion of many authorities on constitutional law Atchison was cer-tainly the incumbent of the high of-fice for one day only. That day was March 4, 1849. It fell on a Sunday, and General Taylor, the president-elect, refused to be inaugurated on the Sabbath. In those days the Presi-dent pro tem of the United States Senate was in line for the presidenčy in succession to the vice presidenčy paident. David R. Atchison. Senator from Suddenly at Reading Erastus Bierbower, a former resi-

A Word About the Editors of "The Digest"

The editors of most publications come into personal touch with the reading public through special articles, editorials, and so forth, in which they voice their in-dividual views. Not so with THE LITERARY DI-GEST, whose editorial policy is strictly impersonal, not a hint of the opinions of its staff on any question appearing in its columns. Nevertheless the editors of THE DIGEST are a very real and powerful influence in the community, because they determine the subject matter of the magazine from week to week and its matter of the magazine from week to week and its mode of presentation. Always their study is to be impartial and self-effacing, yet they leave their ex-pert mark on everything that they handle, for they are all proved experts, each in his particular field, whether it be self-time and results and the self-time self-time self-time self-time self-time self-time self-times self-t it be politics, art, science, religion, letters, or what not. They give you of their best, seeking for no acclaim, but constantly striving to present for your considera-tion all the news in all its bearings. Their quiet work gives THE DIGEST its acknowledged unique distinc-
