Taking It Over

period of war was enough to justify the taking over of telegraph and telephone systems, Assistant Post-master General Koons told the sages filed with it for delivery in mittee at a hearing which closed just before issuance of orders by the Postmaster General relinquishing operation of the wire properties. Mr. Koons made no mention of the intention of the wires for private operation. Landlady—It is, sir, a solemn fit the sept in the werry room you'oc sages filed with it for delivery in cities at which it maintained offices. Unformation upon which the charges were based, he said, was obtained by inspectors from the records of the company. There was no evidence, however, to show intentional delay by the Postal, he said.
