

GOVERNOR URGES NEED OF COMMON SENSE FOR ILLS

War Dangerous Mental Disorder, Sprout Tells Swarthmore Graduates Today

Philadelphia, June 9.—Governor Sprout was the orator at Swarthmore College commencement day exercises. The degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon Governor Sprout and Attorney General William I. Schaffer.

Discussing common sense, Governor Sprout said: "There is a need of common sense now. War, in addition to all of the other ills, is a danger to the people and to the future of the world."

World Must Go On and Man Must Exist and Develop in orderly fashion if civilization is to endure. We must not be impatient of the line between liberty and license.

Must Reckon With Aliens "Fortunately the world is getting a lesson in the utility of some of the more radical innovations in social reorganization right now. Our fear is that the unappealable immortality which has characterized the new order of things in Eastern Europe may result in such a revolution of popular feeling toward the tyranny and misrule which has bred races of people among whom such conditions are possible."

Returned Soldiers Are Asked to Meeting "We cannot and must not tolerate, however, attacks by violence and destruction upon our institutions. Those who make grievous remedies at hand if they choose to exercise their rights of citizenship. If they do not care to join in citizenship they should seek a congenial political and social atmosphere elsewhere."

Take advantage of Days like these to have us dry clean your summer frocks. The bright sunny days will require your light and airy thin frocks. Perhaps you have had use for them the past week or so. Now that the weather is a trifle cool, it will give you an opportunity to have them dry cleaned by our modern process and have them fresh for the coming sunny days.

KEISTER CALLS ON CITY TO SHOW FLAG, SATURDAY

Mayor Issues Proclamation Asking Harrisburg to Observe Day

The prominent display of the National colors on all city buildings on Flag Day, June 14, is urged by Mayor Daniel L. Keister in a proclamation issued to-day. Ministers are asked on the following day to give thanks for the sustenance of the flag in recent years. The proclamation follows:

"Whereas, On June 14, 1777, one hundred and forty-two years ago in the City of Philadelphia, there was born a new flag, the flag of a new nation, dedicated to freedom, liberty and justice. It represented at that time a people at war in a country undeveloped but rich in hope and purpose. To-day those same Stars and Stripes gloriously float over the sons and daughters of those revolutionary patriots and all other human beings who have sought refuge beneath its folds; and

"Whereas, On this anniversary of the birth of 'Old Glory' it is floating from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Canada's border to the Gulf—what is newest and so superbly grand—it floats victoriously this day on the recent battlefields of France, where the hosts of democracy have conquered and we hope forever banished the hordes of autocracy; and

"Now Therefore, I, Daniel L. Keister, Mayor of the City of Harrisburg, feeling that due honor and reverence should be paid to Old Glory on the approaching anniversary of its birth, Saturday, June 14, 1919, do prevail upon all of our citizens to display the Stars and Stripes on every home, all business places, churches, public halls, and every building whatsoever, and request that the ministers of the city on this day give thanks to Almighty God for sustaining the flag in the past years, and ask His blessing for the continued preservation of it in the future, and should the guidance of the people whom it has protected. Let us remember that so long as this emblem of liberty shall wave over us, not only in this great Nation, but in all the other countries as well, just so long shall we be a prosperous people and enjoy the rights that the flag stands for: Liberty, Justice and Humanity."

Local Motor Club Held as Model by Clubs of State "That the Motor Club of Harrisburg is looked up to as a model club, and that other motor clubs throughout the State are following the example of the local club in its beneficial work for motorists is the opinion of C. S. Adams, club organizer of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation."

Special drives are being made by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation to secure a larger membership of clubs in the State, so that conditions for the betterment of motoring can be secured in a shorter time than is now possible with the present membership. Co-operation is needed by every motorist in the State.

"Jimmy" Franklin and His Constituents

Representative James Franklin, of Philadelphia, enjoys the unique distinction of having sat in the session of 1889, a time when some of the men active in the present Legislature were in "short pants" and for many years its chief clerk.

In the district which Mr. Franklin represents in 1889 were residing four members of the present House which are shown behind him. Mr. Franklin still refers to them as his constituents. They are (reading from left to right) Dr. Theodore Campbell, who represents the folks out Overbrook way; Edwin R. Cox, a leader of the Philadelphia delegation, and one of the most popular members of the Legislature; W. J. Crawford, of the Seventh district, comprising the 30th ward of Philadelphia, and Chairman "Jimmy" Walker, of the Banks and Banking Committee, holder of the record for introducing the most bills this session and one of the most active members of the Legislature.

Senator Lodge held a copy of the Treaty in his hand it either was a stolen document or had been obtained by bribery. The Connecticut Senator said he never had "had the audacity to say that the administration or any of its agents can be bribed," and added that when the investigation had been started, he hoped Senator Ditchcock would either withdraw his inference or make good his charge.

Senator Lodge then took the stand and in a brief statement told of having seen a copy of the Treaty in the possession of a friend in New York. This friend, he continued, told him that he knew four copies of the Treaty were in New York. Neither this friend nor another friend who offered him a copy had any connection with financial interests, Senator Lodge said.

Repeating to questions by Senator Ditchcock, Senator Lodge said he did not think it "would be honorable" for him to disclose the names of the men who had copies of the Treaty. Declaring that several newspapers to-day had printed 25,000 words of the Treaty, Senator Brandegee said that except in the Senate copies of the document are as common in this country as huckleberries.

Senator Knox, Republican, Pennsylvania, declared that Senator Lodge had given up the possession of the Treaty and that what he withheld was a matter of highest Senatorial privilege and personal honor. Acting Secretary Polk said he had first received the copy of the Treaty by cable and estimated it was about $8 per cent. more.

Copies Locked in Safe "I received one copy by special courier, about May 19," he continued. "Later I received ten copies by special courier and since then a package of copies by pouch (mail)." He was positive the copies shown in the United States could not have come from the State Department, as they were locked in a safe.

More Playlets to Follow Success of 'Robin Hood'

"Robin Hood" as he was depicted in words and pictures by the great artist, Howard Pyle, was presented in a sort of a Ben Greet staging on the Island Saturday afternoon by the playlets of the "cut rate" drug store system in Harrisburg and vicinity. He was the father of H. C. Kennedy who is proprietor of the drug store at 321 Market street, and J. R. Kennedy who owns a number of wholesale drug stores throughout the country. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Anna Latta—"Robin Hood Band." Alfred Workman—"Little John." Jack Jessup—"Robin Hood." Ted Faxon—"Fear Tuck." Zee Fishel—"Pinker." Janet Jessup—"Tinker." Elizabeth Brown—"Barmaid at Blue Boar Inn." Annabel Schmauch—"Barmaid." Vivian Wingars—"Robin Hood Band." Don Nisley—"Will Stutley." Richard Walker—"Tinker." Songs from Reginald DeKoven's opera "Robin Hood" were rendered in the staging was true to life, due to the efforts of Miss A. Raye Hoofnagle and Miss Helen G. Allenman. The first suggestion for this sort of literary education for the children of Harrisburg, came from Miss Alice R. Eaton, librarian of the Harrisburg Library.

The youngsters, girls and boys, fell so completely into the spirit of the famous robber that they mouthed his language, but occasionally erred into the vernacular. When the shout went up to the sheriff of Nottingham: "Go ye out from Sherwood Forest" some young lady added: "Beat it."

The boys and girls were almost perfect in their representations of the "Robin Hood" characters and the show was so successful that Miss Eaton announces a continued program of these events dealing with Homer's poems, "King Arthur" and others, writings of Howard Pyle.
