

Trusts Controlling British Industries, Investigators Find

London, June 20.—Business rings, combines and trusts, perfected during the war, are controlling Great Britain's industries, according to the findings of a government committee appointed by Sir Auckland Geddes, minister of reconstruction.

How to deal with huge trade combinations is one of the big problems of the near future, it is said in government circles.

Will the individual have rights in the air? London.—Do you own the bit of sky over your back garden?

stranger has to tramp over it? Similarly, may foreign aviators fly as they please over this country, and, vice versa, do British aviators enjoy a similar liberty and privilege?

Freedom of the air, says Tit Bits, is a question as vitally important as freedom of the seas.

Now the peace conference says that each nation owns the air above its own territory, but that it can only own it on condition that it allows free passage through it for all other countries.

"That means to say," said Mr. Handley Page, "that aerial alliances will have to be entered into with all foreign countries, and until they are ratified we have no more right to fly over other kingdoms than we have to free use of their railways and ports."

It is an interesting fact that up to the outbreak of the war our government always maintained that every state should claim full and absolute sovereignty in the air above its territory.

NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE

LEGISLATORS ON HOME STRETCH

Both Houses Adjourn For the Week After Strenuous Day

Both branches of the Pennsylvania Legislature adjourned for the week last night and will enter upon the final week of the session of 1919 on Monday with the calendar in excellent shape.

The Senate held three sessions and cleared its calendar, advancing many appropriation bills and passing numerous House bills of general character, while the House was able to clear its calendar of bills and adjourn with two sessions.

The work of the session was declared by legislative leaders to be in good condition and that there is no doubt of adjournment next Thursday. Speaker Spangler complimented members of the House upon their attention to duty during the two long sessions of the lower branch yesterday and said that the final week would be entered with calendars in satisfactory shape.

The House passed 135 to the bill requiring delivery of explosives to anthracite miners below the surface.

The bill amending the act of 1893 relative to limitations of right to mine iron ore was sent to the mines committee for a hearing.

Senate bills passed included: Creating a division of township highways in Highway Department.

Regulating suits against the State and defining liability of the Commonwealth.

Establishing fees of clerks of courts in counties having over 150,000 population.

Placing mutual insurance rate-making bureaus under State control.

Authorizing sale of Conneaut Lake hatchery directors' fees.

Establishing sheriff's fees. Regulating indemnity bonds in cases of delinquent children.

Placing a division of township highways in Highway Department.

THIRD CLASS CITY BILL IN FIGHT

House Passes Bill for the Relief of Coatesville Situation

The Senate bill authorizing third class cities to surrender charters and become boroughs was passed 108 to 11 after a debate between Messrs. Wallace, Lawrence, and Hollingsworth, Chester. The bill was said to be in the interest of Coatesville, and Mr. Wallace said he thought it unconstitutional.

The Senate bill giving the State right to condemn lands for forest reserves and to sell minerals on reserves and increasing salary of the Commissioner of Forestry to $6,000 also passed finally.

MOTHERS' BILL MAY BE CHANGED

Effort Under Way to Increase the Appropriation Carried

The friends of the mothers' pension fund are making an effort to have the appropriation increased from $500,000 to $750,000. Those prominent in the movement include Senator William E. Crow and Representative John W. Vickerman.

The 1917 Legislature appropriated $445,000. This, with the reappropriation of the funds set aside for unorganized counties, it possible for the organized counties to increase their original appropriations by fifty per cent.

In November, 1918, the waiting list in the thirty-eight organized counties was 2,296. By February 13, 1919, 1,378 women made widows by the influenza epidemic had been added, bringing the total to 3,674.

In order to take care of those now getting aid, $675,200 would be necessary. Even with the appropriation of $1,000,000, the sum would be sufficient to provide for the 6,000 eligible mothers.

The Vickerman bill providing the machinery for the mothers' pension fund passed finally in the Senate yesterday.

The effect hat men's heads were growing larger. "It's all rot!" said Dr. R. Tait McKenzie, in charge of the physical work of the university.

"The fact is interesting, if true," said Dr. Lightner Witmer, head of the department of psychology of the University. "I can't think of a reason in the world for the fact, if fact it is, I'm very much inclined to doubt the truth of the statement," he added.

Other professors of the institution were inclined to take the matter lightly. One offered the suggestion that the styles of the year called for men's hats to be worn lower than heretofore.

"That may explain away the mysterious increase in the size," he said.
