

WILLARD WANTS RICKARD TO REFEREE; AVIATOR SEES WEST END BEAT MOTIVE POWER

Aviator Sees Ed. Stricker Spray Motive Power With Whitewash

LEAGUE STANDING W. L. Pct. West End 9 6 .600 Commonweath 7 8 .466 Motive Power 7 8 .466 Engineers and Firemen 6 9 .400 You can never tell an umbrella by the cover. Here we are whooping over the powerful Motive Power pluckies who look like the old Metropolitan for energy and confidence and yet—score yesterday was West End, 6; Motive Power, 1. Whitewashed by Ed. Stricker, the de luxe finger, who annoys the horsehair with saliva and makes it look like it is going where it ain't. If Mr. Stricker keeps on improving we will be reading about him under the big tent very soon, for the majors need skill like he shows. He only gave one pass yesterday; kept the five hits scattered and in all ways delivered the ball with the ease and precision of a man putting coal in your cellar.

The whitewash was a real blow to Motive Power, for as the historian says, Manager Rodenhaver fully expected to slam the foe and dislocate him from first place. Every preparation was made to swing the battle for Motive Power; it grabbed off Walsh, of the Klein Chocolate team for first base; Brown, of the same classy club and all sorts of stars, but they did not agitate the spit expert, Ed. Stricker.

Buck Ramsey, who has been around the bases since Andrew Jackson was President, admitted that he had been in a battle when it was over; the recollection that five runs counted in his temporary dream of fame, made "Buck" ponder in the short life of that slippery thing.

Palmer and Knight both played good games and between them they made nineteen of the twenty-one put outs for the West Enders. The fielders on the Uptown club had very little to do and during the entire contest only one put out was made in the field, this coming in the final inning when the last man at bat knocked a fly which was captured by Tim Euker.

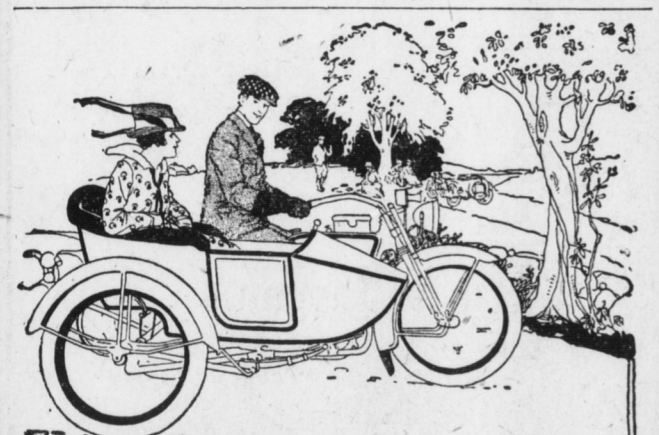

After Embick had fled out to first in the fifth inning, the West End team solved Ramsey's puzzlers and started the scoring. Palmer singled and was sent to second when Tim Euker, was given a base on balls. Bell fled out to center, after which Knight singled, scoring Palmer and putting Euker on third. Stricker followed with a line drive to Ramsey, which the latter fumbled and Euker scored. Stricker then stole second

GREAT BATTLE SURE TOMORROW NIGHT AT ALLISON HILL PARK

Three famous Klein Chocolate League players—Glenn Killinger, "Babe" Brown and Russell Wrightstone.

There will be something uncommon at the Allison Hill League battle Thursday evening when this pesky Klein Chocolate team, from Elizabethtown, lines up its terrible array against the pick of stars in the East End. The affair takes on big proportions and the city's notables are calling for accommodations.

An interesting feature of this hostile gathering will be the appearance on Klein team, under that redoubtable manager, John Breckers-Ridge, of three famous Harrisburg boys, Glenn Killinger, "Babe" Brown and Russell Wrightstone, shortstop, left field and third base, respectively.

They will be in the center of activities, sure enough. Klein will arrive with an unusual record of 12 victories, having trimmed many of the fastest teams in the State. In addition to the exhibition of classy ball playing the spectators will

Willard 248 Pounds, Dempsey 201, if the Photographer is Truthful

These pictures give a very accurate idea of how Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey look, with their championship fight at Toledo only a few days off. The photographer does not state whether Jess was doing the old trick of holding in his "tummy," but he seems to have taken off quite a lot of fat. He (the photographer) says, however, that the scales registered 248 pounds. Both used the same type of scales and the difference in their height can be seen at once. Again the voracious photographer states that the beam tipped at 178 when Dempsey stepped upon them, but that Dempsey was fussing with the mechanism and that his weight at the time the photograph was taken was about 201.

Kline gave only three hits, but costly errors netted East End 9 runs. Shearer then went to the mound and held East End runless for 3 innings while Swatara pounded the enemy pitchers hard.

This evening the new St. Mary's nine of Steelton is booked to meet the league leaders at 6.30 o'clock at Nineteenth and Greenwood streets. Some fast work is expected from these boys.

Swatara has signed up some fast boys and would like to hear from out-of-town teams. Captain Shearer can be reached at Bell phone 4457-R; 615 South Front street, Harrisburg. Shearer has pitched three league games for Swatara and lost none. Books, of East End, is second in the league pitching. Young, the raw player, is making good. Kline pitched his first game for Swatara, but his arm was sore and
