

TEN HOGS PERISH WHEN PEN BURNS

Bruce Taylor, Elkwood Farmer, Loses Livestock and Building by Fire

New Cumberland, Pa., July 1.—Shortly after 6 o'clock this morning a large pigpen at the farm of Bruce Taylor, near Sixth street, Elkwood, was totally destroyed, and ten hogs were burned to death. The pen contained eighteen porkers of different sizes, but several of them were saved. Others were so badly burned that they had to be killed.

Mr. Taylor made a fire in the stove in the pen to heat feed for the pigs and had gone into the dwelling house when the fire started. The flames spread rapidly and the Citizen Fire Company responded and saved the small buildings adjoining as well as the garage of Linn Nell, which was on fire but was not destroyed.

The fire burned off the wires of both the Bell and United Telephone lines and the service was cut off for several hours.

The wholesale houses also are closed.

He has not picked a winner as yet, preferring to look the contestants over before making a decision.

Bryan Rides Camel in Methodist Procession Markin gDry Entrance

Columbus, Ohio, July 1.—William Jennings Bryan will be the chief figure in a celebration of the funeral of John Barleycorn at the Methodist Centenary Exposition here to-day.

The funeral procession will be headed by the former Secretary of State riding a camel, "the first and original prohibitionist," as Dr. Alonzo Wilson, director of special events at the exposition, once termed the animal. Dr. Wilson's remark is said to have been responsible for the camel being the prohibition party's emblem.

An elephant and a donkey, representing the old-line parties, also will take part in the parade which will conduct John Barleycorn to his last resting place.

SEIZE RED LITERATURE

LIBERTY STATUE FOR LEWISTOWN

Lewistown, Pa., July 1.—One of the big events of the 4th of July will be the unveiling of a winged Statue of Liberty in Victory Park. The figure of Liberty is 12 feet high, while the base is 8 feet, and each of the wings is three feet long. It was constructed for the city of Philadelphia during the Victory loan campaign and was located in Broad Street near City Hall.

The maker of the statue says it should last at least 30 years. It was through the efforts of E. W. Thomas, Secretary of the Mifflin county Liberty Loan Committee, that the county was able to secure this work of art. There was quite a few requests for it, but Philadelphia finally decided to give it to Mifflin county.

On the 4th of July, money will be raised to pay for the creation of Victory Park. There will be horse races, baseball games, and an airship exhibition and many other amusements all the money raised at same to go to pay the expenses of making them. Work has been going on at the park for several weeks and the park will be completed inside of a few weeks more.

CALOONS REOPEN FOR SALE OF BEER

[Continued From First Page] warehouses. The latter the hour the larger the crowd. There were men buying a few quarts of whisky who explained in detail to others whom they did not want to see that the purchase was "for medicinal purposes."

"Yes my wife always likes to have a little in the house in case of sickness," was a stock phrase that was being repeated in the ears of the wholesalers and their clerks because of repetition, if they had had time to listen to the remarks of their purchasers. The last minute rush possibly was explained by the fact that many men had the erroneous idea that if they waited until late they would not be noticed in the shops or in the streets carrying their bundles home.

Carry Quart Bottles
Hundreds of men purchased quart bottles at the bars and when the closing came sharp on the hour of midnight they were carried into the street wrapped in all kinds of shapes. The souvenir idea seemed to be epidemic and barrooms lost many a glass which the patrons wanted to preserve as "being the last." The glasses soon found their way into the streets where they were picked up by automobile tires. There were large numbers of automobiles filled with men and women evidently touring the center of the city to see what would happen.

Every hotel and saloon in the city and county to-day had lifted its license for July with the exception of the Lochiel and the Hershey House. The big breweries were still turning their wheels apparently preparing to serve their customers with the 2 1/2 per cent brew.

Expect Big Business
According to statements from several prominent hotelmen, a good business is expected on beer alone. For many months the profits on whisky has been very small even at the increased prices. Most of the hotelmen were glad to get out from under the big war taxes without a loss. The only doubt to-day is that drinking men will not be drawn into the barrooms if no intoxicants may be had along with the beer. Hotelmen who have claimed that the saloon is the "poor man's club" have hopes that men will continue to patronize because of the feeling that they have no place else to go.

BOOZE DIES OUT WITH NO TROUBLE

Not a Single Drunk Found in Borough Streets; No Arrests

Although the saloons were crowded last evening by many desirous to take their last nip not a single drunk was discovered in the streets. The local police had expected at least some trouble, but they happily were disappointed.

The greatest place of activity last evening was the wholesale liquor store of F. E. Smith, where hundreds of men were gathered together when the stock was sold off at auction. Men left with bottles wrapped up, some with bottles unwrapped, some with suit cases and grips, but all had the stuff outside of themselves, none could be discovered carrying too much inside of themselves. Liquors were sold generally at high prices. Prices were said to be higher than they were selling at for the last several weeks. In many cases prices were doubled last evening—so the reports say. The report could not be verified because of the reporter's ignorance as a judge of the stuff.

LIQUID WIND

A little boy, one day at dinner, gazed at his father's face a long while and then said: "Papa, what makes your nose so dreadfully red?"

"The east wind, of course," the father answered with gruff haste. "Pass that jug of beer, and don't talk so much."

Then from the other end of the table, the boy's mother said, sweetly: "Yes, Tommy, pass your father the east wind, and be careful not to spill any on the tablecloth."—London Ideas.
