picture the condition of her sister in Archangel. One wants, for instance, to sew a new dress. Perhaps one may obtain the material at a fabulous price, or fairly reasonably if bought, strictly rationed by card. Search for linings will prove even more difficult and then one probably would find it's absolutely impossible to buy a packet of needles or a spool of thread. The same would apply to a man who had broken his watch; crystal, or eyeglasses and wished to buy new ones.

Air Service to Have Aerial Ambulances

You never can tell what will come next! When the family doctor's one-horse buggy went to the scrap heap and the twin six high powered limousine took its place, we all thought that would be the limit. Now comes Colonel J. B. Kemper, the Army Recruiting Officer for this district, with the news that Army doctors are flying. Work is now being done on an air ambulance. So you mustn't be surprised if all the hospitals in our cities and towns in the near future have flying machines on duty for the first-aid station.

Bucharest, July 2.—Red Cross field workers here have noticed that

At the distribution centers there is never complaint, protest or clamor. The Rumanians are always grateful for what they get, however little it may be. Probably no people on earth endure hunger and suffering with more resignation and patience.
