To-night's Game

Myles C. Eveler lives at 122 Bartine street. He is a good citizen, pays his taxes, stands well in the brotherwortes straight at the polls. Furthermore, he is one of the twirlers for the Engineers and Firemen baseball team. Aside from all these things he is the champion hard luck pitcher of the West End League. It seems that in spite of all his well meaning labor at the Seneca street ball park he cannot bring victory to his team. Some one said last night that if his rivals had but one run in the fifth inning and the Engineers and Firemen collected 20 in the sixth a rainstorm would come along and force the score back to the fifth. It just would be "Moe" Eveler's luck.

With Eveler in the box last evening the Commonwealth Travelers defeated his team by the score of 8 to 1. In that inning the Commonwealth added 6 to the 2 previously acquired, clinching their victory. The runs were scored after chances had been allowed to slip to retire the Commonwealth players, who took advantage of every break. Up to the fifth inning the Commonwealth hadn't scored. The Engineers had a lead of one run. Both pitchers, Eveler and Washinger, a tall youth from Lemoyne, were going good.

Rote Starts Scoring

In the first seasion Rote scored for the Engineers. He smote one of Washinger's shoots for a single, got second on a bad throw of Hinkle's and scampered home when Madden hit the ball safely out of the diamond. But that was the engl of the run getting for the Engineers. Washinger tightened and held his rivals scoreless throughout the remainder of the period. Furthermore, he collected three hits on his own account, fanned four of the Engineers, made a run and assisted in retiring an Engineer at first.

On the other hand Eveler was hit for 10 bingles, including three two

On the other hand Eveler was hit for 10 bingles, including three two-bargers, that assisted very materially toward the downfall of the Engineers. While his team is credited with but two errors, they occurred after two men were out and when opportunity offered to retire the side and win the game.

Big Crowd Present

The game was well attended as are most of the exhibitions at the West End Park. Burroughs' adding machine men who sat near Powder Smith and Tucker Brown, reckoned there were 2,000 people on hand. Both bleachers were full and the crowd-split over into the field on all sides. There were women, too, fine women with the spirit of the con title of world's heavyweight fistic champion against the challenger, Jack Dempsey, of Utah, here tomorrow afternoon. Both Willard and Dempsey have been earnestly training in this vicinity for several weeks past. Neither one has left anything untried or undone in order to get himself into the bets possible condition for the encounter, the outcome of which will mean so much for the victor. By winning from Jack Johnson at Havana, Cuba, four years ago, Willard was placed in a position to begin building up an immense fortune and should Dempsey capture the title there is no telling how much wealth he may accumulate in these days of high finance, when sport promoters talk of the "sky" as the limit for big events.

nigh nnance, when sport promoters talk of the "sky" as the limit for big events.

Aside from the actual purses money of $127,500 signed for by the two pugilists, $100,000 of which is guaranteed to Willard, win, lose or draw, the enormous amount of cash which will be handled in connection with the coming bout, dwarfs all previous ring contests into financial oblivion. The "gate," from the sale of tickets and concessions is expected to pass the one million dollar mark, which would make the receipts of previous fistic carnivals look very small in comparison.

Rickard Big Factor

Tex Rickard, the daring promoter who is bringing the two big men together in this bout, generally does things on a large scale. He secured the Johnson-Jeffries fight for a guarantee of $100,000 and at Reno, his receipts amount to $270,000. Of course the promoter was at an enormous outlay in bringing that contest to an issue, having been forced almost at a moment's notice to move from California to another state in order to secure a battle, ground. Rickard's outlay for the coming hattle, including that context to an issue, having been forced almost at a moment's notice to move from California to another state in order to secure a battle, ground. Rickard's outlay for the coming hattle, including the co ound. Rickard's outlay for the ming battle, including guaranteed state in order to settle a state of strong strong and content of the coming battle, including guaranteed purse, cost of arena construction, advertising and other expenses will amount to a vast sum. The United States government will have a big claim for income tax so that when everything is deducted from the "gate," Rickard's margin of profit probably will fall far short of the results he attained in some of his previous ventures.

Some changes have been made in the conditions governing the bout since the original articles were signed, the most important being the limiting of the contest to twelve rounds and the reduction of the size of the ring to twenty feet square. Originally the men were to have gone twenty or more rounds and the intention was to have a regulation 24-foot ring. Otherwise the agreement stands as signed by Rickard, Willard and Dempsey, each being entitled to a third of the moving picture privileges. Willard is guaranteed $100,000 and Dempsey $27,500.

Both Are Big Favorites

When the men step into the ring each will have a big following of partisans. Those who rely on Willard's retaining his title, insist that he is invulnerable to punishment and that Dempsey will fall to reach the first of the content of the size of the ring to the result of the moving picture privileges. Willard is guaranteed $100,000 and Dempsey $27,500.

partisans. Those who rely on Willard's retaining his title, insist that he is invulnerable to punishment and that Dempsey will fail to reach his burly opponent with an effective blow. Many of them also claim that Willard has never hit a human being with the full force of which his huge frame is capable. It is said that once during his preparation for a previous contest Willard lost his temper on being stung by the blow of a sparring partner. Then the big fellow landed a vicious swing which swept his opponent and one of the ring posts to a spot several yards away from the ringside and that the "partner" needed medical attention for many days afterward. Dempsey's friends, and they are legion, confidently state that no man, however big or strong, can withstand the impact of a full-weight hook or swing from either of Jack's fists. They look for a quick ending to the contest with Dempsey a winner. They say that Jack can land on Willard's jaw just as effectively

Ex-Mayor J. William Bowman, Henderson Gilbert, Paul Johnston and Flavel L. Wright will leave the latter part of July for the mountains of Wyoming on a fishing and camping trip. Mr. Wright has two brothers in the West who will break ground for the tender-feet from the East and one of the features of the outing to which the well-known quartet of businessmen are looking forward with great anticipation is a regular old-time round-up on a ranch in the cattle country. As a native of the region contiguous to the Rocky Mountains, Mr. Wright is counting on a fine outing with the other Harrisburg pilgrims.

ring contests during the last four years while Willard has fought only twice within that period. Jess won the championship from Johnson at Havana, Cuba, in April, 1915. That battle lasted 26 rounds. Just eleven months later Willard met Frank Moran for ten rounds at the Madison Square Gardea, New York. This was a no-decision contest, but Moran was so far outclassed on that occasion that there was no question as to Willard's having won decisively. Since that time, March 25, 1916, Willard has not defended his tille. Thousands of fistic patrons believe that this portracted absence from fighting has had a deteriorating effect on the big champion's, abilities, while Dempsey, having been in ring action almost constantly will be in much better condition.

Dempsey fought sixteen ring battles last year and scored thirteen knockouts. One of these, with Arthur Pelky at Denver, went 15 rounds; two of them ended in the sixth, Carl Morris and Bill Brennan being the victims, but eight of them were abruptly finished in the opening round. In addition to the three mentioned pugilists, Dempsey scored knockouts on Fred Fulton, Jim
