New Semaphores Put in Place and H. Buch Burst Forth Into Song

Five of the six new traffic sema-phores made their appearance in the city streets for the first time to-day. The honor of first operating one of the semaphores fell to Patrolman Oscar Duff, who is substituting at Second and Market streets. To Henry Buch, complaint clerk at police headquarters, the placing of the semaphores meant much. Thous-ands of traffic complaints have been handled by the amiable Buch during his regime, and so gladdened was his heart to-day that he burst into the following sens:

following song: Let the traffic lights be burning. Send the gleam out everywhere. Some poor, struggling, haughty tour-

May be trying to get "there."

Uno: Let the traffic lights be burning With a bright and radiant glow. Showing wild and reckless runners When to "stop" and when to "go."

Let the traffic lights be burning Send the gleam out on the "Squar "Safety first" that good old motto Seems to be forgotten there.

Let the traffic lights be burning Send the gleam o'er rain and snow, For good of all, let us remember When to "stop" and when to "go."

Treaty With Austria

Paris, July 3.—The Chinese dele-gates to the Peace Conference expect to sign the Treaty with Austria, C. T. Wang, a member of the dele-T. Wang, a member of the dele-gation told The Associated Press cor-respondent to-day. He said the Austrian treaty contains nothing ob-jectionable to his government and as it includes the League of Nations covenant, the Chineses would gain membership in the League in that meaner.

"Trouble" Isn't that a funny name for a bear? But that's the name the lit-tie cub, just eight weeks old, at Paxtang Park has been christened and all because the name suggested by both Mrs. H. M. Garman, 178 Wai-lace street, and Miss Jean Newman, 617 Race street, was considered appropriate. Five park theater tickets had been offered for the best name, but inasmuch as both suggested the name selected, five tick-ets will be sent to each of the persons, together with tickets for the "fying horses." While "Joe," the 12-year-old bear, known to every person who has peanuts, "Trouble" is finding life worth while in the big park by play-ing with wooden balls which some person gave her and drinking milk-and between the two she rather prefers the milk. Joseph Beidleman, who is looking after the cub, has taught the youngster to drink out of a bothe and this she seems to thoroughly enjoy, maybe the more so
