ANCIENT SILVER VESSELS FOUND IN SCOTLAND

Bear Marks of Being Spoils of the Celts of Fourth Century in this city. The silver is said to be exceptionally pure.

The site of the discovery is known as Traprain Law. It was once a fortified area, which covers sixty acres and gives evidence of occupation at intervals during the first four centuries of the Christian era. It is believed to have been at one time the site of a Celtic settlement under rule. Its latest inhabitants are thought to have been Saxon pirates.

Surplus Sugar Soon

By Associated Press. Washington, July 9.—Sale of 21,000,000 pounds of surplus sugar now Edinburgh, July 9.—A hoard of battered sliver plate dating back to the fourth century has been found in the estate near here of the Erity and foreign minister, A. J. Balfour, it is described as one of the most remarkable archeological discoveries ever made in Northern Europe. Mr. Balfour had agreed with the excavators that all finds should become the property of the nation, and the silver vessels have been transgarded as booty and intended for the melting pot. They include flagons, chalices, platters, bowls and spoons. On them can be deciphered Christian symbols, such as Chi-Rho, Alpha. Omega and Iesvs Christvs. Scenes portrayed in rellef are mainty from Bible history.

The gem of the collection is a richly decorated flask, beautifully east of the Mississippi, and, efforts will be made to find purchasers in tion, "Prymiacoejsiapi," which has to-day, at a minimum price to be statement from the American Forfixed by the United States sugar estry Association. High Cost of Living Is Charged to War Department Quibbling

Washington, July 9.—The War Department's holding of thousands of tons of food supplies until six months after the armistice was signed before making any effort to sell them to the public has been a "most important factor in maintaining the high cost of living." Chairman Reavis, of the special House subcommittee to investigate quartermaster supplies, declared after the testimony of C. Willing Hare, of Philadelphia, director of War Department sales, before the committee.

"It is amazing that with the delphia, director of War Department sales, before the committee.

"It is amazing that with the people of the country needing food and the Government needing money the War Department should have held its huge supplies of food in storage all this time," said Mr. Reavis. "It certainly kept up the market price of many necessaries."

Mr. Hare declared the blame for the delay rested on Army officers, who have been quibbling for a longtime on just how much of the supplies would be surplus.

Other important points of Mr. Hare's testimony were:

Herbert Hoover, in spending $100,-000,000 for foreign food relief, bought meats owned by Italy in this country at higher prices than he could have obtained the surplus meats of the War Department. Mr. Hoover refused to buy the War Department food, Mr. Hare said.

The War Department agreed with canners to hold off the market fully $100,000,000 worth of canned vegetables, so as to not disturb the market during the coming season. Peas, corn and squash were added to the Army ration to protect the canners rather than because soldiers needed these articles.

Large surplusses of food still exist overseas and at shipping ports. The value of American property and supplies in France is close to $1,500,000,000 and for this France has offered $300,000,000 which has been rejected.

The War Department's efforts to sell the food consisted of inserting

Nearly all food supplies must be sold within three months or they will spoil: The present condition of most of the food is good.

Horses valued at $200 were sold by the War Department for $80.

Mr. Hare gave the following figures as the present food surplus of the War Department, which he believes can be marketed:

Bacon, 75,000,000 pounds. ham, $80,000 pounds; baked beans, 1,433,633 cans, string beans, 3,550,490 cans; beets, 9,538 cans; corn, 31,882,780 cans; peas, 24,607,658 cans; sweet potatoes, 779,556 cans; pumpkin, 2,625,327 cans, spinach, 234,618 cans; squash, 90,169 cans; tomatoes, $83,994,422 cans; turnips, 676,000 cans.

FAMOUS CASINO RUINED BY WAR IS AGAIN OPEN

American Forestry Associa- Ostend is Resuming Ordinary Life as Quickly as Ostend, Belgium, July 9.—After nearly five years of war, Ostend is resuming ordinary life as far as possible under present conditions, with the reopening of the famous Casino. A few months ago the great salons of the Casino were a scene of devastation and wanton destruction. The buildings escaped the bombardment that transformed so many of the beautiful hotels and villas along the Digue into heaps of rubble, and the use of nine tons of glass has repaired all the damage thus occasioned, but the Germans had plundered and defiled the salons.

Every stick of furniture was taken away, beautiful tapestries were slashed and torn by German bayonets and every mirror in the halls were removed, together with the copper candelabra in the salons and the beautiful copper staircase. Not content with robbery the Germans left the whole place in a state that would have shamed any animal inhabiting a stable. But since then a miracle has been wrought, and but for the fact that some of the more valuable fittings are at present only temporarily replaced by imitation, there is no evidence of the war so far as the Casino is concerned.

It took eleven innings of fast, solid, gild-edged, baseball for the Hygienic combination to hand the St. Mary's nine a 2 to 1 defeat last evening in the City Junior League contest when the shadows of the evening were fast falling.

The game was by far the best of the season and kept the spectators on edge from beginning to end. Two singles, a double steal, and a passed baff gave Hygienic the decision over their opponents.

Store Closed All Day Tomorrow

Thursday, July 10th Annual Store Picnic At Good Hope Mill

Tomorrow this store will resume the custom of having the employes of this store join with those of the Imperial Department Store, of Carlisle, for a day's outing. During the war activities we dispensed with these enjoyable occasions for patriotic reasons.

But we believe in the picnic spirit being encouraged during the hot summer days, just as we believe that the shorter work day the year round makes for greater efficiency and contentment among those in store, office or factory.

So, tomorrow we lay aside the cares of business for a family gathering of store employes. Over hills and dells and on rippling stream, the pleasures and pranks of boyhood and girlhood will be enjoyed.

Scores of delicious looking cakes, baked by the girls of the store, are being admired today in our front window.

These, with the appetizing dishes prepared by a trained chef, will supply the essential trimmings that go to make a picnic a success.

The Vigor of Swift & Company Continues Only Because of Service

The only "control" over the packing industry is the "control" that gathers about the ability to do a necessary job in the best way.

Swift & Company has reached a leading place in the industry because the size and character of the job of providing a nation's meat require the wide and thorough organization, the experience and devotion to duty, found in an institution like Swift & Company.

The moment Swift & Company ceases to perform its functions of usefulness with the greatest efficiency and satisfaction to the people, its position in the industry will vanish.

Swift & Company service is performed at a profit of a fraction of a cent per pound.
