

Will of Mrs. Mary Horton Disposes of $50,000 Estate

Sunbury, Pa., July 10.—The will of Mrs. Mary Horton, who died at her home in Point township, near Northumberland, disposes of an estate worth $50,000, mostly in gilt-edge securities. Dr. John Simpson, of Washington, D. C., is given approximately two-thirds of the property, while the rest goes to other relatives. Mrs. Horton was a woman of the old school. She lived practically all of her life on the farm where she died and as long as able maintained her coach and pair of spanking bay horses. She never rode

Throneless Queen of France Liked to Smoke Cigars

Paris.—"I once saw the Countess de Paris," writes a woman in an evening paper, a day or so after the recent death of the countess. "It was a little girl, but I have never forgotten it. It was at the station St. Germain-des-Postes. 'Look at that lady,' my father said, 'she might have been queen of France.' 'I looked and saw a lady wearing a widow's long veil and smoking an enormous cigar. On each side of her was a beautiful young girl, the Princess Isabel and Princess Louise of France, her daughters. The countess strode along the platform her long black veil floating behind her crepe bonnet and her cigar preceding her. 'I could not imagine that my father was joking because of the respectful way the crowd of passengers made way for her, but my illusions of what a queen might be suffered a permanent shock." This little story explains why even the countess and courtly Figaro, in chronicling the death of the countess, referred to her manners as "rude" and "vulgar."

REVISING THE REVENUES "The glasses are very small," exclaimed one girl. "Yes!" replied the other. "The luxury tax ought to pay for the ice cream soda and the rest of the money ought to go to the Government." Washington Star.
