FRIDAY, JULY 11, 1919

All industry and earnestness will be useless unless they are consecrated by a resolution to be in all things a man of honor.—Ruskin.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH

THE President's speech before the Senate yesterday is not such a clear-cut explanation of the League of Nations and the Peace Treaty that doubting Americans will be able from it to make up their minds one way or the other with respect to its effects on the future life and policy of this nation.

WIDER CITY POWERS

GRADUALLY the Legislature, with the aid of the Governor, is removing the restrictions which have prevented cities like Harrisburg doing many things which the municipal authorities would like to have done.

SELLING THE SURPLUS

THE government having rejected eighty-seven bids for the approximate 143,000,000 pounds of surplus canned and cured meats held by the War Department because the Director of Sales considered all of the prices offered for the meats too low, it is now the purpose of the government to dispose of the surplus stock through negotiations.

Cracker Fund For Parrot

[From the New York Times.] Full permission to administer a "cracker fund to the best of your skill and ability," was granted by Judge Richard Doherty in Jersey City to Henry Condit, senior member of the law firm of Condit, Boardman & Condit, executors of the estate of the late Mrs. Phoebe Griffith, who died a year ago and left a trust fund of $1,000 for a parrot named "Ethel."

THE CITY'S MEMORIAL

ARNOLD W. BRUNNER'S design of a memorial for the Harrisburg soldiers and sailors who served in the big war has been universally commended. It will constitute a fine memorial and also an artistic approach to the memorial viaduct of the Commonwealth and the city at State street.

Of course, the Governor has approved the bill restricting the use of tractors with cleats upon the improved highways of the State. He could not have done otherwise.

NO PLACE HERE FOR THEM

SIGNING the Peace Treaty with Germany has resulted in a decision by the Department of Justice that the great majority of German and Austrian enemy aliens now at large under parole may be released from all parole obligations.

Field Marshal Haig insists that "England won the war." In a speech the other day he deprecated what he considered an effort to minimize the British army's achievement in the war. "It is right," said he, "to speak of our allies, but it was the British army that won the war."

Movie Thrills on High Seas

[Don Marquis in the New York Sun] A ship comes galloping over the sea (Boots, brutes and a keg of powder!) And none but Our Hero is riding she! (Blood, mud and the Barbary Coast!) He is spurring her hard, he is riding her fast!

Huns Responsible for Nurse

Cavell's Murder May Be Tried

Following English Heroine's Burial in Westminster Abbey, the Belgian Advocate Who Attempted Her Defense Told the True Story of the Tragedy.

From the time of her arrest by the Germans for aiding her countrymen to escape from Belgium, Nurse Edith Cavell's fate was sealed, according to Maitre de Leval, the intrepid Belgian lawyer who directed her defense.

TRADE BRIEFS

Of the approximate 10,000 Japanese in the Philippines 2,000 are said to be merchants.

Hail, the National Guard

[From the Philadelphia Press] The first movement for the reorganization of the National Guard of Pennsylvania is in the form of a call for commissioned officers.

HOW SIMPLE IT IS

The other day a young woman of Spokane, Wash., wrote me and asked how I got the material for the stories I write.

WELL KNOWN PEOPLE

—Superior Court Judge W. L. Keller was among visitors to the city yesterday. He came here to see friends.

DO YOU KNOW

—That Harrisburg's memorial may be along the first permanent structures of the kind to be erected in the State? —Historic Harrisburg —Anthony Wayne at one time owned property in Front street near the Executive Mansion.

If there is any one thing that seems to be arousing the feelings of the many housewives who go to market in Harrisburg in accordance with the good old custom of Wednesday and Saturday providing for the family, it is thirty-five cents for a box of berries at the height of the season. The prices charged for strawberries this summer were something not touched here in years and one result has been to increase the demand for plants to be set out in gardens which will be done with some heartfelt reflections upon what it costs to "put up" the strawberry preserves this year.

Things have been almost as strenuous on Capitol Hill, at least in certain offices, the last few days when the Governor has been acting on bills left with him by the Legislature in session. There have been telegrams and telephone messages galore from men here from the far corners of the State seeking about legislation in which they are interested. Owing to the jam the Governor has had to restrict his visiting hours, but that has not checked the flow of correspondence and messages. Some of the coming "collect."

Father Penn has received all of the money realized by the sale of the $2,000,000 road bonds made last month and constituting the first offering of Pennsylvania State securities in a generation and in a short time the bonds will be in the hands of the buyers. The State got a premium of almost $42,000 on the $2,000,000 of bonds and when this month began received drafts for the whole sum, although the bonds had not even been printed. Steps are being taken to rush the completion of the work and meanwhile the buyers of the bonds are getting interest through certificates issued by State Treasurer H. M. Kephart. The interest began on July 1 when the State had the money in hand and the amount of it will be spent in the next few months to meet bills presented by contractors for road construction. The $2,000,000 constituted the largest sum ever to reach the hands of Mr. Kephart since he became the custodian of the strong box of the Commonwealth. There have been payments of a couple of millions of dollars by big corporations for taxes and occasionally at the close of a fiscal year or period of payment of $3,000,000 or over. This time the State had to handle, but $2,000,000 is as unprecedented to the people now handling Pennsylvania's cash at the Capitol as it is a bond sale. As soon as the bonds are received they will be properly signed, numbered and marked and then sent to the buyers for general sale. A registry of the bonds will be kept at the treasury for such persons as desire registration.

With the passing of Italian Park will go a spot which will long be remembered by the younger generation as a place full of mysterious persons and a manner of blood thirsty possibilities. In the days when Sixth street was not built up as it is now and when the country around it was a dark, mothy, and dangerous place, Italian Park was the darkest of the dark. Mothers cautious to the point of simplicity, took their children and kidnapers lurked in the shadows, and undoubtedly grab them if they went near the place. Innocent Bohemians, traveling gypsies, were always so quaint and odd and yet so true to the old woman who told fortunes if you crossed her palm with silver was considered at least a witch and probably a devil's right hand assistant. No more will we see the picturesque wagons, the steaming kettles over the log fires, the dark, mysterious foreign looking people, dressed in bright colors. By some they will not be missed, for they were not known, but by others the mysterious gypsies and their ways will be like the loss of an old friend.
