Double Wedding Ceremonies For Brothers in Service in Pine Street Church

MR. AND MRS. LINWOOD W. WANBAUGH—MR. AND MRS. EDWARD L. WANBAUGH

Pioneer State Officer of Forestry Department

Miss Mira Lloyd Dock, one of the pioneer State officers in the preservation of forests, sent out three letters to important club women of the State reminding them that just twenty years ago she left for England to attend the International Council of Women, which was the gift of a check for $150 from the Civic Club of Philadelphia for "unforeseen" expenses. Miss Dock said:

"When I was appointed by Governor Stone on the State Forestry Reservation Commission in 1901, and reappointed by Governor Pennypacker and Governor Stuart, I accepted the responsibility, for I felt it was due to all who had so generously supported me when I first tried to talk forestry, and until my retirement in 1913 I did the best in my power while on this board.

"My long service in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, now of almost ten years, also was a duty I owed to the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, and if I have at any time or any place been of usefulness I was you to feel that you and those whom you represented were sharers in it."

Miss Dock brought to her work an enthusiasm that was most convincing and in years that have followed she has turned her rare gifts to more than one good purpose. Miss Dock and her sisters, former residents of this city, are now living at Fayetteville, their home for several years past.

YOUNG SCULPTOR IS BUSY AT WORK

Mrs. Charles Griffith, Niece of City Solicitor Fox Makes Statue Going to India

Peggy Chippen writing for the Philadelphia Ledger has this to say of a young woman well known in this city, and a niece of City Solicitor John E. Fox:

"Mrs. Charles Griffith, by which new appellation I am now compelled to describe the charming young sculptor, the talented daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Webster Fox, whose work we have so often mentioned as that of Miss Beatrice Fox, is now at work on a graceful sketch of Mrs. Otis Skinner. She and Mr. Griffith are spending the summer at Bryn Mawr on the college grounds, having rented a professor's apartment in the building known as 'Low Building.' Mrs. Griffith has turned a loggia which opens out of her living room into a studio, where a few days ago I had the pleasure of looking at it and admiring it.

"She recently finished the plaster model of a bust of Dr. J. C. R. Ewing, president of the Presbyterian Board of Missions in India, who has to his credit the building up of the American College at Lahore. He has lived in India for the last twenty years, and recently a new hall has been added to the college, to be known as Ewing Hall. It seems that the faculty of the college and its students have been anxious to present the new hall with a bust of Doctor Ewing by an American sculptor. About a year ago Doctor Ewing had a leave of absence to return to this country—a sort of sabbatical year—and the students asked him to sit for the bust which they wished to present to their alma mater for the Ewing Hall.

"Through a prominent Presbyterian in Philadelphia Miss Fox—now Mrs. Griffith—was selected as the desired artist after due examination of her work, and Doctor Ewing sat for the bust of which when completed, photographs were forwarded to the faculty and students of the American College. It has been finally accepted and is now being cut in marble.

"I am told that over there the idea of a white man in bronze does not mix with the ideas of the natives. They are particular that a white man should be represented in white. On one occasion, when a noted personage was portrayed in bronze, the natives interested were disappointed. 'But,' they objected,

The result of this discussion was the plan that tickets, at excursion rates, will be placed on sale at the various stores, will be the presence of about two hundred wounded soldiers of the Carlisle Hospital. The plan is to have each of the sixty societies of the city take as their guests as many soldiers as they can. Mr. Eckert expects a report by August 1 from all the societies as the number of guests they can entertain. Special stunts, games and contests have been arranged to offer entertainment for the wounded men. Prizes have already been donated for the presentation of the afternoon's program which is devoted to a religious service, at which it is hoped several of the soldiers will be induced to speak.
