While Rome burned and Nero fiddled, the story goes, a valorous Roman bent on doing things detected a discordant note in the fiddler's playing. The unharmonious sound disconcerted the purposeful citizen so greatly that he thereafter failed in what he had set out so earnestly to accomplish, whatever it may have been. So it happend that when Harry Biever, the Engineers and Firemen hurler, determined to shoo the jinx away from the railroaders at West End Park last evening it seemed that after Umpire Henry had called what seemed to be a perfect strike ball he lost the cunning he meant to employ to discomfit the West End team. It was his first slant across plate. William Euker was at the bat.
In spite of all he could do Biever could not get the sphere to cut the rubber but once while Euker waited and the shortstop drew a pass. He was followed by Shafer. The first ball delivered was a strike, the next one a ball. The third one Shafer walloped for three bases and Euker came home with the first tally. To make matters worse, Embick, third man up, rapped out a single and Shafer tallied.
Palmer got-on first when he banged out the third West End hit. Embick advanced on the play. Timothy Mematters worse, Embick, third man up, rapped out a single and Shafer talled. Palmer got-on first when he banged out the third West End hit. Embick advanced on the play. Timothy McKeever, fast felt fielder, drew the second pass of the inning, filling the sacks. Timothy Euker followed with a clout, sending both Embick and Palmer home, making the total accumulation of runs four. Bell, Knight and Stricker went out in order, leaving McKeever on base. It was a bad start for Biever, but he recovered his nerve and the West Enders were able to collect but one run after that, Bell scoring on Stricker's three base hit. Stricker was caught between third, and the home plate. That ended the run-getting for the victors.

The Engineers and Firemen made their two runs in their half of the fourth inning. Madden started off with a single. He was resting quietly near first base awaiting developments when Wagner, who was covering left garden, swung on an easy one Stricker handed over and mauled it far into right field. Before the ball was returned to the infield both Madden and Wagner had crossed the rubber.

Stricker picked good ball. He Stricker pitched good ball. He Stricker pit den and Wagner had crossed the rubber.

Stricker pitched good ball. He struck out seven men and passed but three, while Biever gave four passes and struck out three. While the Engineers and Firemen had six hits off Stricker they were not bunched and in spite of the topnotch base stealing of Rote and the splendid rally of the Engineer and Firemen they could get no more than the two runs scored in the fourth inning. Five of their batters were left in the paths. The crowd was one of the largest of the season and it was hilariously enthusiastic. There was only one fault to be found with its conduct through the seven innings played. It had the bad manners to hoot and jeer at the work of the umpire. It may be true that Henry transgressed at times, but the odds are that he umpired a splendid game. He had several difficult decisions to give and there were those in the crowd who admired his pluck in sticking up for what he believed to be right. The sooner the officials of the West End League determine that their players shall cease abusing and wrangling with the arbiter the better it will be for the game at West End Park. While the public is a fickle aggregation, according to one Phineas T. Barnum, there are sensible citizens

At Elizabethtown to-morrow the Klein Chocolate Company team will play the Williamsport champions. This game is part of the series to decide the championship of Central Pennsylvania. The Billtowners have a few points on the Klein bunch but the season is not yet over, and the future contests will decide the winner.

Manager John Breckenridge will have his strongest line-up in the game. It will be the team that meets Connie Mack's Athletics in this city on Wednesday, July 23. A number of Harrisburg fans will go to Elizabethown for this game leaving the city to-morrow morning. Roman Auto Co. 203 N. BROAD ST. PHILADELPHIA Catalogue Sent Upon Reques Much interest is centered in the two Aetna cars entered by Karen Olsen with Benjamin Hill designated as the driver of one and the driver of the other not named. The othernow entrant is Toland Nicholson, of Pittsburgh, who is to pilot a Hudson car in the big events.

Ira Vail, the Brooklyn wonder, is coming back to Uniontown this time with a Duesenberg car. Vail's former appearances here have been at the wheel of Hudson cars and he has been uniformly in tough luck with his car, although he has on
