

CLUB TO OPEN FOR COLORED WAR VETERANS

New Organization Fostered by War Camp Community Service

The Harrisburg Colored Soldiers' Club, which is being established through efforts of the War Camp Community Service to better care for the needs of colored soldiers of the city and community, will be formally opened to-morrow evening.

The program to-morrow evening will be in charge of Lieut. E. A. Romero. He has been in this city directing activities of the organization as it concerns colored people of the city for the past several months and will have charge of the new club.

Robert A. Enders, president of the Harrisburg school board, will be the principal speaker at to-morrow evening's program. Other prominent citizens are expected to be included on this program, which will include other important features.

The new club is made up of two commodious rooms, which have been well fitted up for the purpose. One room has been fitted up with a pool table, tables for cards, checkers and other games. The other room will serve as a reading room, where writing materials will be provided and where the men will be able to entertain their guests.

These rooms will be available for use until about September 1, when they will have to be turned back to the school board to be gotten into shape for the fall term of school. They have been rendered available for use through efforts of colored citizens of the city working in conjunction with the War Camp Community Service.

The present club comes into existence to meet a big need in the city, according to Lieutenant Romero. Shortly after the establishment of the War Camp Community Service in this city, another club was established in South Second street for the needs of the colored men. This club was not sufficiently centrally located and was ordered closed because of the little real need that it was able to furnish.

Activities of the new organization will soon be in full swing. Mrs. Allan Brooks, of Brooklyn, is expected to arrive in this city, and will be engaged in colored girls' work, according to an announcement made to-day. Efforts will be made to arouse a community spirit among the people, which will continue to work good results even after the War Camp Community Service ceases to function. The efforts now look to the end of the establishment of a community center.

No New Developments in Steelton Wage Problem

No new developments were reported to-day in the demand for increased wages by employees of the open hearths of the Steelton plant of the Bethlehem Steel Company. Officials of the company maintain that it is impossible at this time to grant increased wages. Employees, however, expect to see some relief from one of the periodical changes made on the minimum production on which the bonus system is based. This change has already gone into effect.

MOTORMEN GET RAISE

Reading, Pa., July 22.—Effective as of July 16, six hundred street car motormen and conductors today had their pay raised from forty-three to forty-six cents an hour, in Reading, Lebanon, Norristown, Roxborough and on connecting lines. This is the sixth raise in two years and will cost the company $60,000 a year. Since the first raise in fares in January, 1918, the wages have been advanced from twenty-eight to forty-six cents an hour, or eighteen cents, $350,000 a year.

MOTHERS' FUND NOT BIG ENOUGH TO ASSIST ALL

Pension Only For Those in Dire Straits, Says the Committee

Plans for using the appropriation of $12,576.32 for mothers' assistance in this county will be made to-morrow at a meeting of the board of directors of the Dauphin County Mothers' Association to be held at Red Cross Headquarters.

Yesterday the Dauphin County Commissioners provided $6,288.16 as the county's share toward the fund for the year ending June 1, 1920. A similar amount has been appropriated by the State for expenditure here.

According to Mrs. Lyman D. Gilbert, president of the association, the amount which is available, but it is much below the needs at present. Because of this fact the directors have decided that aid is to be given only to the families who are in the greatest need. In the upper end of the county there are a number of families who must be cared for because of the many men who died during the influenza epidemic.

The highest amount paid to a widow with one child is $12; with two children, $20; three children, $28; and $5 for each additional child. The money provided for the present fiscal year is almost double the appropriation for the last one, ending June 1, 1919, but it was only a period of five months.

Officers of the Association are Mrs. Gilbert, president; Mrs. Mercer B. Tate, secretary; and Mrs. David E. Tracy, treasurer. Members of the board of directors are the officers and Mrs. David Kaufman, this city; Mrs. John H. Lehr, Lykens; Mrs. Robert M. Rutherford, Susleton; and Mrs. D. P. Dietrick, Middletown.

TO ENLARGE COMMITTEE

Washington, July 22.—Republican House leaders after informal conferences have decided to call a party caucus probably Friday to pass on the enlargement of the legislative steering committee by either two or four members. Four names will be presented to be voted on—Representatives Anderson, Minnesota; Nolan, California; Slomp, Virginia; and Reavis, Nebraska.

OVERHEAD WIRES OF CITY ARE COMING DOWN

Line of Poles East in Walnut Street From River Will Be Removed

Removal of the overhead wires of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company on the line of poles from the river to Penbrook extending east in Walnut street, will be started on Thursday, City Electrician Clark E. Diehl said to-day. As soon as the wires are removed, the poles, each one more than 60 feet high, will be taken down.

During the last few weeks the company replaced the overhead lines in conduits underground and as a result about 100 poles are no longer needed. A few city wires on the poles will be removed at the same time the company lines come down, Mr. Diehl said.

With the announcement of the plan of the Western Union Company that it will place its entire wire system underground in the city, thus permitting the removal of all overhead wires and poles, numbering more than 200, the total number of poles which will come down in the city before next January will be more than 600.

The Western Union Company will place conduits and cables underground from the city line at the street to River, to Mulberry, Third, to the company office in North Third street. This will permit the removal of poles in Derry street to the city line, downtown streets, and in North Seventh to Maclay streets.

Cable lines replacing overhead systems of the Harrisburg Light and Power Company have been stretched in practically the entire business section and connections will be made soon with the result that several hundred poles used by that corporation can be taken down.

City overhead lines for the police and fire alarm system extending north in Court street from Mulberry to State are to be replaced by cables, and a few poles in Walnut street also are to be removed.

According to Mr. Diehl, much of this work will be done during the late summer and early fall and all the overhead systems should be removed by December, and many more of the city streets will be benefited by the improvement, he said.

ELLIOTT-FISHER MEN GET DOWN TO WORK

After Night of Entertainment Delegates From All Parts of the Globe Hear Speakers Outline Business Methods

Delegates to the first annual convention of the Elliott-Fisher field forces got down to business in real fashion this morning at 8:30 o'clock. They had a big night last night in the grill room of the Penn-Harris Hotel, plenty of fun and more to come. Business first and pleasure after is the slogan with this hustling bunch of delegates and they start early, handle business promptly and when their duties are over take up the recreation program. These live-wire salesmen are early risers.

A reporter who made his way as early as 7 o'clock found a fairly good crowd of delegates on hand, discussing the events of yesterday or talking to some phase of their work. They were much in evidence on the first floor of the hotel. Before the convention was called to order many had finished long-distance telephone conversations to their people, for he it known the Elliott-Fisher salesman makes it a point to follow the early bird after the business worm.

Illustrated Lectures The lectures and talks to-day were on accounting subjects. They were illustrated by lantern slides and charts and actual bookkeeping forms of users of Elliott-Fisher machines. It is expected that the salesman will get a great deal of practical knowledge about the application of their product from these lectures. It is difficult even for the salesman's own accountants of wide experience to fully appreciate the wonderful possibilities ahead for Elliott-Fisher machines. It was explained how a number of different accounting records are being written and balanced as to accuracy all at a single operation.

Session Has Early Start The program this morning began at 8:30 o'clock in the first minutes of the convention. So that the members of the big field force should know more of the concern for which they are working, L. G. Julihn, former president of the company, of Washington, D. C., read a paper on "The History of the Elliott-Fisher Company," which set forth its progress over a period of thirty years and gave the delegates information they had not known before. Close attention was paid to the paper read in Mr. Julihn's paper. R. B. Buswell, of Chicago, followed with a paper on "The Development of Sales to Small Concerns."

From 8:30 to 5:30, four baseball games at Island Park and a dance in the evening is the program for to-morrow.

Last Night's Fun The Penn-Harris grill was packed last night to overflowing with the liveliest crowd of salesmen that ever came to Harrisburg. They called it a smoker on the Elliott-Fisher convention program, but it turned out to be a musical treat for variety at any similar previous affair.

The doors of the grill were thrown open to the happy family of businessmen at 9 o'clock and immediately a seven-piece jazz orchestra peeled forth loud, jingling crashes and someone began to sing. A salesman named Coffman of the company's San Francisco office, suddenly shed his coat and collar and commenced to dance. His associates were delighted to find that they had an unheralded ex-professional in their midst. A spontaneous chap from Los Angeles followed with a shimmy dance all his own.

Mr. Coffman's dancing was followed by a chorus of over three hundred voices. They sang several numbers on the Elliott-Fisher convention songbooks and almost before the last of these songs was finished P. T. Shade, of New York, was singing a solo. The Penn-Harris orchestra, and quartet then came on to vary the music.

The program was arranged so that the salesmen were not permitted to get used to any one brand of music before another tuned up. The jazz orchestra played a fast one while one of its number sang and danced on a round-top table. Mr. Busch, of the local Elliott-Fisher factory organization, gave one of his anti-booze recitations and "Jimmie" Fitzpatrick, of the general office, tuned his violin to accompany a fair young pianist.

Just before the windup, two musical artists from the Wilmer and Vincent circuit sang and guitarized their way into the grill and entertained for a short round.

Everyone stood up and closed the smoker with a song to President P. D. Wagner.

Yesterday's program was devoted chiefly to an inspection of the plant in South Cameron street. One hundred photographs of members of the convention were taken and more than 2,000 feet of movie film were made of the men as they alighted from the cars or moved about the busy manufacturing center.

Colored Girls Are Taking Part in Fly Campaign; Instruct in Sanitation

An important part in the fly campaign which is being conducted under the auspices of the Civic Club, is being played by the State Auxiliary, Junior Health League of Colored Girls, organized by Miss Young, social organizer of the Division of Public Health Education of the Pennsylvania Department of Health.

Four teams have already been organized which are expected to form a nucleus for a much larger organization. The captains of these teams are Viola Sample, Cornelia Brown, Alda Auler and Mildred Moore. Each captain has supervision over teams of from five to twelve girls. The city has been divided into districts and each team works its given district.

They distribute sticky fly collars and fly pamphlets, investigating health and sanitary conditions as they go. Particular attention is being paid to the homes where there are babies, and the mothers are being taught to make kiddie coops and otherwise instructed in methods of protecting the babies from flies.

The Chamber of Commerce has furnished mosquito netting which is being distributed by these girls for thorough screening and covering baby cribs.

The teams are called together weekly, at which time they receive their reports, instruction in sanitation, by means of lectures and lantern slides is given at these meetings.

The girls are displaying great interest in their work and are expected to prove valuable aids in the city campaign. They have already brought to light many things that need correcting and much good is expected to come through their work.
