Expect Prices of Foodstuffs to Come Down With New Crops

That the people of Harrisburg may look for canned goods and other food stuffs at a lower cost in the very near future is the belief of Mayor Daniel L. Keister and the majority of the members of his Municipal Food Committee as the must be a waiting goods now in the hands of packers will be let loose in order to make room for the new supply now coming in.

What effect this will have on the government prices cannot be explained at this time. Mayor Keister is of the opinion that it must be a waiting game, and that no definite to the committee. In other cities of the committee. In other cities of the committee. In other cities throughout the United States there has been a halt in buying government stoods, because of the likelihood or a further cut in wholesale and retail prices.

It is probable a meeting of the subcommittee will be held Saturday, and the general committee hopes to overcome if a purchase is made. It is expected that Captain Stine will have some interesting information on his return to Harrisburg to-morrow, and will call a meeting for Saturday.
