BLUEBIRDS TELL ENGAGEMENT SECRET

COMING BRIDAL IS A SURPRISE

Miss Getha High, Prominent Young Singer, to Marry Harry McFadden

There was a supper given late this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. High, 910 Green street, when the engagement of their daughter, Miss Getha Lorenza High, to Harry T. McFadden, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. I. McFadden, 1520 Derry street, was announced. The interesting news was a surprise to the guests who believed the party was in honor of Miss Dorothy Duncan, of Youngstown, Ohio, formerly of this city, a week-end guest at the High residence. After a short afternoon of cards, supper was served. A color effect in blue and gold was attractively predominant in the decorations. Baskets of gold color with large rosettes of yellow ribbon and filled with blue larkspur, delphinium and helianthus formed a centerpiece for each table. The favors were small yellow baskets in the shape of a rose. A tiny bluebird with a scroll in its bill perched in the center of the rose and the basket was filled with nuts to conceal the message. As each guest found the verse which read: "There is a bluebird secret, But bluebirds will not tell, So if you'd like to know it, Guess what these letters spell!"

there was much amusement, deciphering and rearranging in proper order the letters spelling the names of the engaged couple. Both Central Graduates Miss High was graduated with the 1917 class of Central High school and took the stellar role in the class play, "Pines." Since then she has been studying voice with Mrs. Roy G. Cox and her wonderfully sweet soprano is often heard in concert programs. She is a student member of the Wednesday Club and during the winter appeared in several recitals given by that musical organization. Mr. McFadden was graduated from Central High in 1910 and from the Wharton Business College in 1917. At present he is employed with the State Capital Savings and Loan Association. The wedding will be an early autumn event.
