H. H. Kinneard, of Doutrichs, who spoke recently before the Pennsylvania Retail Clothiers' Association in New York City, has been invited to address the National Retail Clothiers' Association and the Ohio State Retailers' Associathe Ohio State Retailers' Association. "How to Build a Big Clothing Business" was his topic, and he spoke at length about the business-man who has gone stale. "They are worshipers of the false goddess. Luck," he said. "Why is it that men like Lytten and Kennedy and Rothschild achieve wealth while so many end their careers broken in spirit and in purse? It is not uck. It is not chance. It is not accident. It is not even local conditions, It is plain business capacity plus a vision with a true inspiration and persistent enterprise."

To prove his point Mr. Kinneard referred to the success of Isaac Doutrich. The Doutrich business, he said, is one of the most phenomenal retail successes in the United States, growing from $150,000 to $1,000.

The Wood Under the Paint

To obtain the best results, you should consider carefully the wood to which paints, enamels or stains are applied.

The wood should have a close, even texture, should readily take and hold paint. If it is to be stained, it should have a pleasing and varied grain.

The kind of lumber suitable for all conditions is something we give careful study.
