

PROSPECT OF 3 "WET" MONTHS ALARMS "DRYS"

In Some Quarters It Is Feared Even Ban on Whisky May Be Lifted

Washington, Aug. 1.—The statement of Secretary Baker that demobilization of the Army will be complete on or before October 1 has greatly agitated officials of the Anti-Saloon League and allied organizations. They are evidently afraid that when that task is finished President Wilson will issue a proclamation declaring that until the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution becomes operative in January next the sale of beer and light wines at least can be carried on in all the States that were "wet" prior to July 1. It is also rumored that the President may go so far as to claim to possess the authority to include the sale of whisky and gin during the practically three months between the date of actual demobilization and the date when the national prohibition amendment goes into effect throughout the country.

Strong representations have been made to him that in view of the fact that the banks have so much money loaned on strong liquors that were in government bonded warehouses, and the owners have not had sufficient time in which to dispose of their holdings and meet their financial obligations, it would be an act of justice, if the President is warranted, in going further in his proclamation, in the event he finds that he has that authority.

Indications are that the Senate Judiciary Committee will not stand for some of the more drastic provisions carried in the House prohibition enforcement bill, but that does not signify that they will not be voted into the measure when the bill reaches the Senate chamber. Broadly speaking, Senators, regardless of party affiliation, are likely to favor as drastic legislation as the House members put through.

JENNINGS SUSPENDED By Associated Press. Boston, Aug. 1.—Notice of his indefinite suspension was received by Manager Hugh Jennings, of the Detroit Americans, before the Tigers left this city for New York last night.

Penn-Harris Manager Speaks in Altoona

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 1.—A good, first-class hotel will be a profitable investment, not only for the owners but for the city as a whole.

"It will not diminish the amount of business that will come to the other hotels of the city.

"It will bring conventions to the city and these benefit others besides the hotel keepers.

"Altoona has an ideal location as a center for tourists and needs only a hotel of this character to draw the motorists here.

These were some of the salient points brought out by Horace Wiggins, manager of the Penn-Harris Hotel in Harrisburg, in an address at noon yesterday before the directors, team captains and others interested in the new hotel project.

Mr. Wiggins was introduced by F. Woods Beckman, president of the Blair Hotel Company, the company that is back of the project, and he spoke from his own experience, extending over a period of a number of years as a hotel manager.

Mr. Wiggins began his address by saying that when one has guests at his home he gives them the best he has and there should be the same consideration shown by the city as a whole toward those who are its guests from time to time.

He said that Altoona has grown away from her present hotel facilities and it is time to build for present and future needs. He said that the plans of the promoters would in no respect disarrange the existing hotels, for in Harrisburg, all the other hotels have done as well or better since the Penn-Harris was opened.

HOW TO TELL FRESH EGGS

State Department of Agriculture Divides This Food Into Four Classes

For the benefit of housewives and others, eggs are divided into four classes with an explanation of how to tell fresh from old eggs by the State Department of Agriculture.

James Foust, Director of the Bureau of Foods, Department of Agriculture, issues the following statement:

There are four classes of eggs—First—"fresh egg" is one that is understood to have the following qualities: It is capable of whipping well; in cooking it can be satisfactorily poached or soft boiled; it has not absorbed foreign disagreeable odors; its embryo shell has developed appreciably. The yolk should be fairly stiff and well rounded and the white should not be watery, and the chalazas shall be defined.

Second—Cold storage eggs must be sold in accordance with the cold storage law and must be represented and labeled "cold storage eggs."

Third—Eggs kept for a period of time by the water glass, lime or other methods that cannot be classed as "fresh eggs" but are edible, wholesome and suitable for all food purposes except such as require "fresh eggs."

Fourth—Eggs that are decayed, partly decayed, or decomposed and unfit for food purposes, have a commercial value for tanning leather such as is used in the manufacture of gloves. Rotten eggs must be promptly denatured with kerosene oil, and when opened must be discarded in a container containing a bright red color. It is unlawful to open rotten eggs and remove the content from the shell in establishments where food products are prepared or manufactured or to open rotten eggs in an establishment where good eggs are opened for food purposes.

Roads Marked For Trips to Halifax The State Highway Department today received a great number of inquiries as to whether there are detours on the road between Harrisburg and Halifax. From the number of inquiries received it is apparent that scores of Harrisburg automobilists will go to Halifax tomorrow to attend that town's Welcome Home Celebration for soldiers and sailors.

There are no detours between Harrisburg and Halifax. It is not possible for motorists to use the river road but they will find the highway on the west shore in far better condition than elsewhere in this summer. The proper route from Harrisburg, is that which takes the motorists across either the Market street or Walnut street bridge; thence through West Fairview, Marysville and Duncannon to the Clark's Ferry bridge. Crossing this bridge, the motorists turn to the left and follow the straight road to Halifax. The route sheets showing this thoroughfare in detail may be obtained from the attendants at the Market street bridge.

The State Highway Department has had a large crew of men at work on the highway in the vicinity of Covert and Perdix, for the last two weeks and conditions along that thoroughfare are very greatly improved.

FERNALD STAND SHOCKS WILSON

President Resents Maine Senator's Declaration Covenant Lacks Americanism

Washington, Aug. 1.—A climax in the series of White House interviews with Republican Senators was reached when Senator Fernald frankly told the President that the League of Nations covenant was lacking in Americanism, and that this particular shortcoming in the product of the Paris conference was the real reason behind all the Republican opposition.

The conversation with the Maine Senator marked the first actual clash between the President and the opposition. Heretofore all the amenities have been preserved, and while in no case productive of a conversation or even the shadow of a turning on the part of members of the G. O. P., the calls at the White House proceeded along lines of tolerance. It remained for the Down Easter to break the rule and speak his mind with perhaps more fervor than kindness.

The greeting between the President and Senator Fernald was of the most cordial character. Both gentlemen were delighted at the opportunity for an interchange of views, they said. But Senator Fernald plunged right into the interview with a statement to the President that although he was honored at the opportunity for a chat and would be glad to talk with the President as to the experience of himself and his entourage at Paris and in Europe generally, and would be pleased to hear the President's views, he was not in an attitude of mind to be convinced of the falsity of his position as to the necessity for vital reservations tantamount to amendments in the League of Nations.

"And furthermore, Mr. President," continued Senator Fernald, "this position of mine is that of no less than forty-two other members of the Senate."

The President looked a bit shocked at the frankness of Mr. Fernald, but said he had hoped to be able to convey some information to him which might make clearer the situation and more understandable that scores of the members of the Administration had taken with regard to amendatory action.

Mr. Fernald said that that would be useless. He said he appreciated the President's desire for the clarification of councils, but that he had been applying himself assiduously to the closest sort of study of the situation on the subject. He had perused with the greatest care every document and speech in and out of the Senate dealing with the situation. He had studied the peace pact and the league covenant and had neglected nothing in the matter of scrutinizing every word the President himself had written or uttered on the subject. He went on to say that if at any time doubts arose in his mind or that he came to feel that information from the President was essential to him he would not hesitate to seek an engagement at the White House for a further interview.

Seemingly the President was displeased at the apparent fixed attitude of Senator Fernald. He told him that he had assumed there were at least sixty men in the Senate who took a world view of the present crisis in affairs.

"That is exactly what at least sixty men in the Senate do take," replied Senator Fernald, "but their world view includes in its scope the United States of America."

The President terminated the interview almost immediately.

Soldiers May Secure All Information Needed on Pay and Insurance

Soldiers, ex-soldiers, and others interested, may obtain information on insurance, travel pay, bonus and other subjects through any Army recruiting office, War Camp Community officers, Red Cross Chapters, Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. Concerning war risk insurance, the following treasury decision No. 47, is quoted by the recruiting officer at Harrisburg:

"When any person insured under the provisions of the war risk insurance act leaves the active military or naval service for reasons not precluding the continuation of insurance, the monthly premium, which had remained in the service, would have been payable on the last day of the calendar month in which he was discharged, will be payable on the first day of the calendar month following the date of his discharge, and thereafter monthly premiums shall be payable on the first day of each calendar month. The premiums payable on the first day of any calendar month may, however, be paid at any time during that month, at which shall constitute a grace period for the payment of such premium. If the premium is not paid before the expiration of such grace period the insurance shall lapse and terminate.

"In every case where reinstatement, in whole or in part, of lapsed or cancelled insurance is desired, the insured shall deposit with the Bureau of War Risk Insurance a signed application therefor, and make tender of premium for one month (the grace period) on the amount of insurance to be reinstated and also of the amount of at least one month's premium on the reinstated insurance. In case where the insured desires to convert his lapsed term insurance he shall make tender of the premium for one month (the grace period) on the amount of term insurance to be reinstated and converted, and also of the first premium on the converted insurance.

"Insurance lapsed or cancelled may be reinstated within 18 months after the month of discharge, provided the insured is in as good health as at date of discharge or at the expiration of the grace period, whichever is the later date, and so states in his application and may be reinstated after 18 months succeeding the month of discharge, provided such insurance has not been lapsed for more than one year, under the following conditions.

"Within three calendar months succeeding the grace period if the insured is in as good health as at the expiration of the grace period, and so states in his application, the insured shall make tender of the premium for one month (the grace period) on the amount of insurance to be reinstated and converted, and also of the first premium on the converted insurance.

"Within 11 calendar months succeeding the grace period if the insured is in as good health as at the expiration of the grace period and so states in his application and includes therewith a formal report of examination made by a reputable physician substantiating statements as to the satisfaction of the Director of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance."

Critical Situation in Germany as Miners Strike

By Associated Press. Dusseldorf, Rhenish Prussia, Thursday, July 30.—Since the recent defeat of the resolution of the Independent Socialists in the National Assembly, at Weimar, calling for the release of radical hunger strikers, the Spartacist and Communist leaders in the coal area have taken matters into their own hands. The employees at the Diergardt mine struck to-day, and dodgers are in circulation calling a strike in the entire Ruhr district. The Spartacists now demand, in addition to the release of the hunger strikers, the removal of martial law. The situation appears to be critical, because coal is Germany's greatest need.
