DIES IN HOSPITAI

Famous Opera Producer Did

New York, Aug. 2.— Oscar Hammerstein, theater builder and producer of grand opera, died in a hospital here last night of a complication of diseases, after an illness of several days.

Mr. Hammerstein had been in a state of coma since late Monday, and died without regaining consciousness. His wife and son, Arthur were at his bedside when the end came at 7.35 o'clock.

Oscar Hammerstein's chief claim to fame as an impresario and theatrical manager, it has been said, will rest in the fact that he set new records for presenting grand operas of composers never before heard in America, and that he introduced to the western musical world, singers who afterward won great names for themselves.

Mr. Hammerstein was born in Berlin, Germany, in 1847 and came to the United States in 1863, as he later wrote, "to be free." His father, an austere man, Oscar said, tyrannized his family and the boy ran away from home. Arrived in New York he became a cigarmaker's apprentice, learned the trade, and subsequently started a tobaccc trade, which proved successful.

LIEUT. GEORGE SHOEMAKER

Lieutenant Shoemaker, invalided ficer of the local police force, he enlisted in the Governor's Troop and having passed through the several noncommissioned grades, was made a second lieutenant, before the Troop was ordered to the border. Later he was transferred to the Field Artillery and it was while serving with the 108 F. A., 28th Division, that he was wounded. Lieutenant Shoemaker spent sometime in a base hospital at Paris and was then returned to this country. He is rapidly recovering from his wounds, and will in all probability soon be back in Harrisburg permanently.
