The Reputation That You Give Us

This Store has a reputation, of which it is very proud and very jealous. True, we are in business to make money. Everyone must make his living. But we know that we shall always make a better living by having a good reputation among a large number of our people; so, while we want to make some money every day, we also want to make our reputation better every day. We might make more money today, by methods of a different sort; but we should not make so much money tomorrow, perhaps, and we might lose our chance to make any money at all, after a while.

So we think of reputation before money-making. We want to earn a better reputation, day after day. We particularly want to earn a better reputation with YOU.

If we are not now serving you, we want to start today.

If we have failed at any point in our service to you, we should like to be told about it today; so that we can make it right, or make amends — to prove to you that the cause was an accident and not a policy.

We cannot afford to lose you as a customer, because of an accident; neither do we think that you want to lose the service of this store, because of an accident.

If our reputation with you is good, we thank you.

If it is not, we shall thank you still more for letting us know what is wrong — TODAY.
