Tomorrow---Miscellaneous Items

Friday and Saturday of my Twice-a-Twelvemonth Sale will be devoted to a clearance of everything which remains from the first four days' selling. And they'll be marked at prices which will move them. I absolutely refuse to carry one item over into the new season. Everything bought for Spring and early Summer business must go. If anything is left I'll sell it for a song to some speculator. But at the prices quoted it seems unlikely that anything will remain.

the greatest opportunity in history to build up a wonderful trade in jewelry and silverware with the countries of South America. With Jewelry manumacture crippled in Europe by the war, and with the European Jewelry trade with South America almost completely wiped out, the United States, they say, has an opulent field awaiting it.

The South American Jewelry field was controlled largely by European Jewelry manufacturers bef.-e the war. Germany was a dominant factor in all South American marrets. If, declare the trade experst, American manufacturing jewelers do not at once invade this field with an agressive selling campaign, it is certain that in a short time South American jewelry markets again will revert to Europe.

England appreciates, the value of the field and already is laying plans to exploit it. G. F. Braddock, of the Department of Overseas Trade of the British Board of Trade is at present traveling through South American making an elaborate study of conditions governing the jewelry market with a view of enabling British merchants to gain a solid foothold there in the quickest and most effective way.

Even Break in Beer Decision, Palmer Says

Washington, D. Mitchell Palmer. were obviously circulated to leave the impression that the government's contention as to the amount of alcohol permissible in beer under the war-time prohibition act had not been supported by the court decisions in a majority of cases.

Mr. Palmer said he had seen the statement that the decisions were ten to four against the government's position, whereas the fact is that they have been four to four in support of the government's position, while the New York and Baltimore decisions presented features which, when properly considered, were more in favor of the government's main contentions than opposed thereto.
